Rural Residents in Greatest Distress Commission Is Told

Attorney-General Tells Rowell Commission 500,000 Will be Receiving Government Aid All This Winter

REGINA, Dec. 10.—More than half the population of Saskatchewan will be receiving government assistance this winter, Attorney-General T. C. Davis estimated before the Royal Commission on Dominion-provincial relations Thursday. The commission opened its Saskatchewan sitting here yesterday.

Of the 928,000 population, the peak of relief this winter would be 500,000, he said. (About 400,000 are now receiving assistance). Most of these would be employables living in rural areas. "The farmer is working, but he is getting no return for his effort, so must have help," Mr. Davis explained.

"If agricultural conditions improve, the rural problem will take care of itself," observed Chairman Mr. Rowell. "If it doesn't improve, they will have to look to Hon. T. C. Davis to move out."

Mr. Davis said an example of what might happen generally had happened in the Davidson area, midway between Regina and Saskatoon, where almost 100 per cent were on relief in 1936, but only five per cent in 1937 because of good crops.

There were said to be about 31,000 on relief in Saskatchewan cities at present, made up of 20 per cent of Regina's population, 24 per cent of Moose Jaw, and 15 per cent of Saskatoon. Unemployables were estimated at about twice the number of employables in the cities, due mainly to the physically disabled and aged moving in from farms.

No distinction was made between Red Plot To Control West U. S.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 10—Ivan F. Cox, [illegible] secretary-treasurer of the local longshoremen's union, charged in a $5,100,000 damage suit today that several screen stars, Labor leaders and government officials were engaged in a Communistic plot to dominate the western United States.

Frederic March, film star, was accused in the suit of leading the alleged plot. Film personages named as co-defendants are actors Franchot Tone, Mary Astor, James Cagney, Lionel Stander and Jean Muir and Director Wilhelm Dieterle.

Cox asserted the defendants deprived him of the right to earn his living and blackened his character.

He asked that $5,000,000 be awarded "the general fund of the state," with $100,000 going to him for his asserted loss of livelihood.

The suit attacked Harry Bridges, Pacific coast director of the Committee for Industrial Organization, and John Shoemaker, Henry Schmidt and Peter Brown of the Longshoremen's union and asserted they and other defendants conspired to cause "innumerable strikes and acts of violence, murder and sabotage."

LOCAL JOCKEY IS SET DOWN AT TANFORAN

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 10—Johnny (The Red) Pollard, who booted them home during his apprenticeship days on western Canada tracks, was on the ground today, a charge of fouling was laid against him at Tanforan race course yesterday and the stewards suspended the Edmonton punter for the balance of the meeting. His mount, Exhibit, stablemate of the champion Seabiscuit which Pollard always rides, won the main race but was disqualified and placed third after the claim of foul had been lodged against Pollard.

TAXPAYERS TO BLAME IN GOOD TIMES FOR BAD

Won't Let Governments Build Up Reserve Funds In Season

By CARL REINKE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

REGINA, Dec. 10.—"It's the taxpayers who won't let governments build up reserves in good times in preparation against bad years, according to Attorney-General T. C. Davis of Saskatchewan.

He let out that opinion yesterday before the Rowell Commission as he took exception to a Bank of Canada suggestion that this province might have saved a little of its revenue in the prosperous "twenties" as a safeguard against price or crop fluctuations.

HARD TO DEVISE

In the first place, he said, it was doubtful if any system of public finance could be devised to build up enough reserves to maintain adequate government services for years when wheat income almost disappeared.

"If the taxpayers saw a large reserve accumulating in the provincial treasury, they wouldn't let it stay there," he said. In the second place, "a government wouldn't last anytime that tried that."

"Don't you think the people would learn to act differently in the future from past experiences?" asked Chairman Dr. W. W. Rowell.

He wondered if the standard of living had not been higher in Saskatchewan in the days of dollar wheat and 250,000,000 bushels than it was in eastern Canada at the time.

Mr. Davis thought not. Nor did he think the people would remember in the future the lessons of the past as far as setting up governmental reserves was concerned.

WOULD FORGET IT

"One good crop and they'd forget," he said.

Mr. Davis, however, did not think one good crop would remedy the government's financial position. The present arrangement with the Dominion would not function properly, even when good crops did return, he claimed.

Taking the average wheat production in Saskatchewan at 190,000,000 bushels and 74 cents as the average price, the government would still be unable to balance its budget even if the Dominion took over complete responsibility for unemployment relief, he said.

DAWSON CREEK MAN IS VICTIM OF FOUL PLAY

Fort St. John Man Charged With Murder As Result Of Fight

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

DAWSON CREEK, B.C., Dec. 10.—The coroner's jury sitting Thursday found that Morley Reid Kier came to his death at Dawson creek on the morning of Dec. 5 through fracture of the skull and exposure. The wound in the head was caused by blows of some weapon in the hands of some person or persons unknown.

The jury added: "We would suggest that an extra policeman be stationed at Dawson Creek as the village is now too large for one constable to handle efficiently."

Coroner Wilbur Harper was in charge of proceedings and the jury was out thirty minutes. The jurymen were: A. S. Chamberlain, foreman; J. L. Jatterson, H. Giles, J. D. McEachern, H. Morrow, N. W. Gilliland.

MURDER CHARGE LAID

Bill Mathews, of Fort St. John, is a patient in the local hospital and has been charged with the murder of Kier as the result of an altercation which occurred during the early hours of the morning.

As far as is known there are no eye witnesses to the tragedy, but it is alleged that around five in the morning Mathews returned to the home of Julius Sathers where he was staying, pretty badly beaten up and with both hands frozen. Mr.

Help Bring Cheer To Soldier Boys In Hospital Cots

Have you sent in your donation to the Not Forgotten Fund yet?

This is the question being asked on all sides. If you have not, you are not "up to the minute" because "everybody's doing it."

In these cold, blustering days with Christmas "just around the corner," thoughts are turning to good cheer, comforts and peace and good will toward men.

All want to see all others enjoy themselves and have a good time.

It is with this thought in mind that The Bulletin once more has opened its columns to receive donations to the Not Forgotten Fund.

This fund, which functions every Christmas, is for the express purpose of providing a jolly good time at this season of the year, for the former soldiers of the Canadian and Allied Armies, who are still patients in the Military Ward of the University hospital.

These men have been in the hospital for the more than 19 years that have elapsed since the Armistice. They will be in there for a long time yet.

They have little in the way of pleasure to look forward to. But, it cheers and heartens them to know that at this most pleasurable season they are not forgotten. A little remembrance goes a long way and this is the time to show it.

So, if you have not already done so, dig down in the old sock and get out some shekels and send them along to the Not Forgotten Fund and receipt will be acknowledged in these columns.

ALBERTA STILL WORTH SAVING PREMIER SAYS

Aberhart Tells Macleod Meeting It Is Time For Action

MACLEOD, Alta., Dec. 10.—Addressing a meeting in the Macleod constituency last night, Premier William Aberhart warned against the dangers of delay and argument and stated it was time for practical action.

He reviewed the activities of the government since it had swept into power in 1935 and said he was not ashamed of the two years' record.

"I have investigated carefully and found that Alberta is worth saving. It is the richest, per area, in the Dominion and the people should not have to work all their lives and then find themselves destitute in their old age," he declared.

STIRRED AUDIENCE

The Premier made an impressive speech which stirred the audience to demonstrations of enthusiasm expressed with frequent outbursts of applause. He told of the plight of the people struggling in "the iron grips of the capitalists" and also in-

Nippon Forces Closing in Report Capture of Heights Overlooking Besieged City Following Ultimatum

SHANGHAI, Dec. 10.—Japanese forces closing in on Nanking today reported capture of Purple Mountain, overlooking the city after expiration of an ultimatum which demanded that Chinese surrender or "we attack." Bitter hand-to-hand fighting was in progress outside Nanking walls.

Chinese Capital In Process Of Falling

SHANGHAI, Dec. 10—Japanese forces struck from all sides of Nanking in a general attack which the Japanese spokesman declared tonight had put the Chinese capital "in the process of falling."

TOKYO, Dec. 10 — Domei (Japanese) News Agency correspondents have sent word from Nanking siege front that Japanese troops had captured the city's south-eastern gate and were entering the city. Squadrons of Japanese planes were said to be concentrating their bomb attacks on Nanking's 18 miles to blast open a path for Japan's armies. Kuroshaan, private of southeastern gate in Nanking's massive walls, was captured.

The attack was launched when the Chinese commander, General Tang Seng-Chi, refused to heed Japanese General Iwane Matsui's ultimatum to surrender the city by noon or face a general assault.

Four hours later Japanese asserted a part of the 100,000 troops encircling the city had captured Purple Mountain overlooking Nanking. Chinese positions on the hill previously had kept the Japanese from a frontal assault.

Six hours later the Japanese spokesman said he "assumed" that Japanese troops already had penetrated Nanking's great wall and were engaged in "mopping up operations," which he explained meant street fighting.

The spokesman said he had no details of the operations.

Asked about his prediction yesterday that Nanking would be captured within 24 hours, he said the Japanese victory was not yet achieved, then added:

"But the city is in the process of falling."

Earlier today reports from the front said bitter hand-to-hand fighting was in progress outside Nanking's walls.

Attorney - General Paints Relief Picture For Rowell Commission

employables and unemployables in relief administration in Saskatchewan, but the Dominion was moving in that direction in the contracts now before the provinces. He thought this a "step in the right direction," but perhaps questionable in Saskatchewan's present situation, with a record number on relief in prospect.

DEBT JUMPS

As evidence of the necessity of substantial assistance by the Dominion to the province, Mr. Davis cited the jump in province debt. In the past eight years the debt had increased by twice the total for the previous 24 years, due almost entirely to relief.

Growth of social services, however, had been such that even if the Dominion took over the entire relief burden, the province would still have a deficit of $1,200,000 this year and a deficit of $1,681,000 in a year of average and essential expenditures.

Mr. Davis showed that in the past four or five years debt charges and public welfare alone had increased among normal government items, and in most cases reductions had been effected. Old age pensions had accounted for most of the public welfare increase since 1931.

GETTING OLDER

"I suppose the people in Saskatchewan are getting older. It seems to be a province of young people," Mr. Rowell commented.

The maximum average old age pension granted in the province had been reduced from $20 to $15 a month in 1932 because of declining revenues, Mr. Davis said. Mothers' allowances were less than those of Manitoba.

The rigidity of provincial expenditures was indicated in the preponderance of uncontrollable expenditure to controllable. Where in 1911, 43 per cent were controllable, last year controllable expenditures were less than 16 per cent, and even then included civil service and highway maintenance.

INTEREST CHARGES

The only place for economies then was in interest charges on the public debt or social services, which together made up the other 84.4 per cent, he contended.

The average interest rate on the provincial debt now was 4.76 per cent, but the Dominion government made a special grant of $1,500,000 for interest charges pending the completion of the commission's report. This grant from the Dominion made the effective rate 3.25 per cent as far as the province was concerned. But the rest was coming out of the people of Canada, Mr. Davis said.

MORE BASIC

Expenses could not possibly be reduced enough to balance the budget even with that help. Something more basic was necessary.

The province could default its debt charges but the government of the province feels that as long as it is able to, it should exert every effort to meet interest on its obligations. While an arbitrary reduction in debt charges by the government would provide some immediate relief, it is felt that the injury to the credit of the province which would result from such action would in the long run prove most costly."

"If we continue to pay interest on the public debt, it will only be by assistance from outside the province," Mr. Davis stated.

GUARANTEE STANDARDS

Reduction in social services would cause immediate pressure but result in undesirable social and economic repercussions, he suggested. "Further it may be argued that considerations of national well-being require that all Canadians regardless of where they may live, be guaranteed certain minimum standards of education and health at least."

Civil services salaries were so far below 1930-33 levels that only $65,000 would be saved if all were reduced to a $2,000 maximum.

Cost of policing the province had been cut in half and was "infinitely more satisfactory" by turning it over to the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, he said.

While the Bank of Canada had proposed that the province should have built up reserves in its fat years against fluctuations in crops or prices, Mr. Davis did not think it possible. The taxpayers would demand the spending of any reserve it saw being built up that way.

Cancellation Of Debt Indicated

REGINA, Dec. 10—Cancellation of $28,400,000 from the public debt of Saskatchewan by the federal government through writing off relief debt was indicated in the province's brief submitted the Royal Commission on Dominion-Provincial relations Thursday.

The sum includes the $17,000,000 written off previously. Therefore the amount of the write-off which has not been previously announced amounts to $11,400,000.

Actual mechanics in the cancellation of this debt, which was represented largely in short term treasury bills held by the federal government, are now being carried out.

AFTER REDUCTION

As at April 30, 1937, the public debt of the province stood at $190,-801,283 which after the deduction of $11,414,644 actually amounted to $188,387,208.

After all deductions have been made, including sinking fund and the $28,400,000 write-off the net public debt at April 30 stood at $167,365,765.

The brief urges that an additional $42,000,000 of relief debt be written off by the Dominion. If such is accomplished the public debt of the province would be reduced to approximately $125,000,000 plus whatever amount it had been increased since April 30. Such information at present is not available.

Since 1928 total relief advances made in Saskatchewan amounts to $110,000,000 of which the provinces share was $70,000,000. This proposed write off of $28,000,000 will reduce this amount to $42,000,000. It is this $42,000,000 that the province is asking to be cancelled.

Plea To East Made In West

REGINA, Dec. 10.—A plea to the people of Ontario and Quebec to study the presentation of the western provinces before the Rowell Commission was sounded by Attorney-General T. C. Davis of Saskatchewan Thursday as he presented the provincial brief to the commission.

"We know Ontario and Quebec can control parliament if they want to and so will have a great deal to say as to whether the report of the commission is implemented," Mr. Davis said. "So we want the people of Eastern Canada to understand our problems."

In this connection the press of Canada was faced with the biggest task ever given it, he said in presenting to the east the viewpoint of the west and to the west the viewpoint of the east.

"I know they will do their share as good Canadians," he added.

Saskatchewan was advocating no share-the-wealth policy, he said. It was asking or no charity or handout—only equitable treatment.

For too long national policies have made us share our wealth with the rest of Canada, he said.

Saskatchewan believed Canada should remain a united nation in the British commonwealth, and that the west was "absolutely essential" to the rest of Canada.

Saskatchewan wanted an equal opportunity with the rest of Canada and assurance of being able to maintain a "nearly similar standard of life" to the rest of Canada. To achieve that a give and take policy would be necessary all around.

Tense Days Were Lived Before Edward VIII Abdicated Throne to Marry "Woman I Love."

LONDON, Dec. 10 — King George VI went about his engagements Thursday on the eve of the first anniversary of the abdication of King Edward VIII which brought him to the throne.

Quietly and methodically the King inspected Great Britain's latest bombers in the making. It was the 80th important engagement of his first year on the throne—a quiet ending to the year of royal drama.

On Dec. 10, 1936, after days of tense uncertainty, Stanley Baldwin, then Prime Minister, made his dramatic announcement in the House of Commons that Edward VIII would renounce his throne to wed a twice-divorced commoner.

LIVING IN PARIS

Now Edward is H.R.H. the Duke of Windsor, living in Paris with his duchess.

The Daily Express — almost alone among newspapers recalling the gloom of last year's abdication week—pleaded that the duke be given something useful to do for the empire he served so long as Prince of Wales and king.

Edward signed the instrument of abdication December 10, parliament ratified the act of abdication December 11 and the Duke of York acceded on that day as King George VI. There will be no ceremonial Saturday to mark the accession anniversary.

ONLY 10 DAYS

It was only November 30, 10 days before the historic meeting of the House of Commons, that the Bishop of Bradford inadvertently disclosed "something wrong" in Buckingham Palace and Whitehall.

They were 10 days of graphic developments behind a curtain of official calm, all during which the world waited to see the choice of man would make between the world's greatest throne and love.

LAST MESSAGE

Then on December 10—a cold, gloomy Thursday—Prime Minister Baldwin stood at the bar of the House and read King Edward's last message:

"I have determined to renounce the throne . . .

"This is my final and irrevocable decision . . .

It was the unfolding of a love story already written. Days before the King had told his prime minister, "I am going to marry Mrs. Simpson and I am prepared to go."

And he went . . . in an historic flight aboard a destroyer to five months of bachelor exile in Austria. Mrs. Simpson had left previously to stay with friends in France until her divorce from her second husband, Ernest Simpson, was made absolute.

On June 3, 1937, they were married at the Chateau de Cande near Tours, France.

Sathers immediately summoned Constable Devlin and the accused is alleged to have told Devlin about Kier and where to find him. Locating Kier, who was lying in the middle of the street clad only in his underwear and bare feet, his feet badly frozen, Constable Devlin summoned Dr. McKee. They obtained a car and rushed Kier to the hospital where he died a half hour after admittance. Mathews was then taken to the hospital where he is at present.

Evidence indicates that a fight started in Kier's shack which showed signs of a terrific struggle and then continued outside the door where the snow in the alley was covered with blood. Kiey was found about 70 feet from his shack.

On further investigations by Constable Devlin and Game Warden Quesnel they located an iron bar which is believed to have been the weapon used in the struggle.

Mrs. Mathews, mother of the accused, rushed to Dawson Creek from Fort St. John in a United Air Transport plane to be at his side.

"Oil, salt and timber are being developed. Capital has come in and is still coming in despite those who say it would not come, that the government was scaring capital away."

He said the government had "tackled the debt problem."

"We cut the interest rate and the money interests are still howling about it and so far as I am concerned they can continue to howl for the interest rate will stay cut."

shot in the head with a .22 gun allegedly fired by the accused.

The pathologist told the court the body had been badly mutilated. All other witnesses were cleared from the court while Mr. Yanda cross-examined Dr. Macgregor on the results of his post-mortem examination of the body.

HAD USE OF HOUSE

Andrew Zacharko, father of the murdered youth, testified that Lesowoy, a hired man on the farm, had had full use of the house and on occasion had slept with his son.

Witness also stated that Lesowoy had been angered two days before the murder due to the fact he had not received sufficient payment of back wages.

Evidence was also given that the family had been unaware of the murder until around noon Sunday when the body of the boy had been discovered in his bedroom. Deceased had returned early Sunday from the wedding party.

SHOWED NERVOUSNESS

Andrew Zacharko said he had been informed of the murder of his son while playing cards at a neighbor's home Sunday afternoon. Lesoway was present at the card game and showed signs of nervousness, witness testified.

Evidence given at the inquest following the murder was repeated at Friday morning's session of the preliminary hearing.

jected plenty of humor into his speech with many sallies at the expense of his opponents and himself.

"We people of the old line parties were figuratively on each other's necks, kissing each other, and the next day they had a divorce. They are having an awful time getting their present hopes evermore their past experience. Leithbridge does not hurt me, but it does hurt the people of the province. I hope the people will stand steadily and be harried in the fight with the money powers," he declared.

The premier told of the negotiations with financial interests and said he did all he could "but could not dinge them," when he pleaded that the common people be given a chance to rid themselves of the load of debt. He had been forced to bring in the Debt Adjustment Act and other bills that had been called ultra vires, "and every time they say ultra vires I say monstrous, and they don't like that," he added, amid applause.

WILL STAND

He declared the moratorium would stand until the government had something better to offer. He outlined the Bank Taxation Act, the Bank Licensing Act and the Debt Adjustment Act, all of which were passed and then disallowed. Assent had not been given the bills by the Lieutenant-Governor. All of these bills would go before the supreme court of Canada, the premier said.

He said the province was filled with plenty which the people could not buy. "We have nearly all the coal in Canada and yet there are people suffering from the cold. We are even suffering in this room," he declared and the audience laughed at the reference to the chilly temperature of the hall.

FERVENT APPEAL

He concluded his address with a fervent appeal to the people of the Macleod constituency to stand steady in the fight being waged against the financial monopolists.

ROWE BLAMES TOWN PLIGHT ON 2 THINGS

ection with these two matters ioned, a bond issue of $80,000 been issued, from which the received a net of $71,000. This s, for 30 years, was floated in A.

ADDITIONAL AMOUNT

The town already had paid some $90,000 on this issue and if it ran its full time, there would be an additional amount in principal and interest of $180,000 to pay.

Under such circumstances the town could not afford to carry on without running into difficulties.

Mr. Rowe gave evidence regarding the drafting of two life insurance policies, one for $15,000 and one for $10,000. In regard to the larger policy, which was made out with the Beverly mine as the beneficiary, Mr. Rowe said the insertion of the mine as the beneficiary was a mistake.

NOTHING CAME OF VISIT

At one time, he said, when the mine was in difficulties, he went to the then premier, J. E. Brownlee, K.C., in the hope of obtaining assistance under the Co-operative Act. Nothing came of this.

From March 10, 1933, until May 1, he took no interest in the mine's activities.

When he renewed his interest, he again approached E. I. Clarke with a view to obtaining a loan to carry on operations through the summer.

He and his directors submitted a plan of reorganization of which Mr. Clarke approved. "I considered the terms of the re-organization scheme reasonable and they had a chance of success if they had been adopted," he said.

He said that Mr. Clarke had agreed to put up the money with some reluctance. Asked how much the loan was to be, Mr. Rowe said that "$15,000 had been mentioned."

WILLING TO HELP

Asked by S. H. McCuaig, K.C. commission counsel, for further details, Mr. Rowe said that "Mr. Clarke's attitude all the time was that he was willing to help as he felt I had been misunderstood." Dealing with a meeting at which reorganization and the amount of the loan were discussed, Mr. Rowe said that George H. Steer, K.C., was present, he thought representing Mr. Clarke and Mr. Steer had thought that as a matter of business, Mr. Clarke should not put up so much money. Mr. Rowe said that he knew of no move by Mr. Clarke, or any desire to buy the mine.

Mr. Rowe said that in the fall of 1932, Mr. Clarke began hauling coal for the mine. He said that previously a contractor named Ryan at Beverly had been hauling it. The change was made as it was felt the mine was under some obligation to Mr. Clarke and they wanted to keep his goodwill.

Asked to put a valuation on the mine, which had later been sold for $30,000, Mr. Rowe said that he estimated some $100,000 had been invested in the mine and with an additional $50,000, estimated as the value of the coal mining lease, brought the total value up to $150,000.

LIFE OF 35 YEARS

He also stated that he had a report on file, by an investigator named Jones, in which it was stated that at an extraction of $75,000 a year, the life of the mine would be 35 years and with an extraction of $50,000 a year, the life would be 50 years.

He agreed that the mine would be "a bargain" at $30,000.

He thought that the development of the mine was well worth while and that it would not have been developed if the company that did had not done so.

COMPLETE DENIAL

Mr. Rowe gave a complete denial to the suggestion that any considerations had passed between Mr. Clarke and himself "for security or co-operation."

At the suggestion of His Lordship, Mr. McCuaig asked Mr. Rowe in regard to other allegations which had been made against him and Mr. Rowe denied, as had been alleged, that it has cost $8000 to "settle with him or get rid of him."

"There is nothing at all in this," replied Mr. Rowe.

Mr. McCuaig: "Is there any truth in the statement that you formed a conspiracy with Mr. Clarke to wreck the mine?"

"No."

Mr. McCuaig: "Did you get any personal benefits from these matters?"

Mr. Rowe: "No."

"ABOUT STRAPPED"

Asked to explain why he withdrew some money from the mine before its financial collapse, Mr. Rowe said he was "about strapped" and had some obligations to meet, so he withdrew about $800, from which he derived no benefits.

Dealing with a transaction by which a Frank Carlson put up $2500, Mr. Rowe said that he had interviewed Mr. Carlson with a view to putting up this amount. In the net result, Mr. Carlson had put up $1000 by means of a loan to Mr. Rowe and in 1932 this had been repaid.

Mr. Rowe explained some details in regard to the receipt by Mr. Carlson of an old age pension when the recipient had some money. The interest on his investment was sufficient to pay rent and obtain provisions, he said so the pension was obtained.

COAL, PETE BILL PASSES SECOND STAGE

Act Would Give the Utility Board Power to Fix Selling Prices

VICTORIA, Dec. 10.—The British Columbia legislature Thursday gave second reading to a bill providing for establishment of a nine-man board to regulate and control the coal and petroleum industries of the province.

The bill was introduced in the legislature Tuesday night by Attorney-General Gordon S. Wismer.

The bill would give the board power to fix prices at which coal or petroleum products may be sold in British Columbia for use within the province; require persons engaged in the industries to obtain licenses from the board; set license fees and suspend or revoke licenses, and establish standards to be applied to petroleum products sold in the province.

During discussion of the bill Thursday, Premier T. D. Pattullo told the legislature his government intended to give "specific attention" to the problem of regulating all pubic utilities.

"As far as a public utilities commission is concerned, definite action will have to be taken," Mr. Pattullo said. "We shall give the matter specific attention and then let us see what transpires between now and the next session."

"With demands from all sides for money for hospitals, municipalities, road and other public works, the government did not feel justified in bringing down such legislation at this session," the premier said.

British Columbia at present has no public utilities commission. Establishment of such a commission was a plank in the Liberal party platform in the provincial elections of 1933.

Mr. Pattullo advised the opposition "not to become excited" over the coal and oil bill. He said it would not be administered in a partisan manner. Companies involved would be protected, as well as the public.

HUGE REPORT PRESENTED TO PENSION HEAD

Conditions Among Unemployed Ex-Servicemen Fully Investigated

OTTAWA, Dec. 10. — After nearly a year and a half's work which took it all over Canada, the War Veterans' Assistance Commission today rendered its report to Pensions Minister C. G. Power, containing sweeping recommendations estimated to cost $7,000,000.

Vested with authority to investigate conditions among unemployed ex-service men, and to make recommendations designed to ameliorate conditions, the commission recounted its activities in 190 pages of typewritten copy accompanied by numerous statistics appendices.

It showed the total of unemployed war veterans in Canada registered with the commission at 34,312. Of these 29,135 served in the Canadian forces and 5,177 in the Imperial forces. Many of these, the minister said, have since been absorbed into gainful employment. Col. J. G. Rattray, commission chairman, placed the figure in the neighborhood of 10,000, divided among permanent, season and casual labor.

ENDS JANUARY 6

The commission, established in July, 1936, has been in almost continuous session and automatically ceases to exist on Jan. 6, 1938. Its members are Col. Rattray, Ottawa; Col. Hugh de Martigny, Montreal, and Robert Macnicol, Vancouver.

Seeking to ameliorate the lot of war veterans on relief, the commission recommended a "provisional economic allowance to unemployed ex-service men" who do not receive disability pensions. It would be confined to men who "served in a theatre of actual war" and were domiciled in Canada when they enlisted. The recommendation, however, would restrict government payments to $18.50 a month for single veterans and $30 for married men with dependent wives.

Refusal of employment to which he was fitted would disqualify a veteran from receipt of the monthly allowance, but the commission recommended acceptance of an allowance should not render a veteran nor his wife liable to forfeiture of political rights.

WOULD STUDY

Mr. Power said he would submit the report to his cabinet colleagues after studying it himself.

"What necessary legislation may be decided upon to give effect to the recommendations will have to wait the assembling of parliament," said the minister.

Other than granting monthly allowances to unemployed veterans, responsibility of maintenance of children, application of various social services such as are enjoyed by other indigent unemployed persons, should be continued as the responsibility of the municipalities, the report recommended.

No allowance should be paid on behalf of the children, under the terms of the recommendation, and no war veteran should be entitled to the allowance if he is unregistered with the employment service of Canada.

"Should any veteran, without valid reason, refuse employment for which, in the opinion of medical officers, he is medically fit, he should be denied the allowance," says the report.

"We strongly recommend that any veteran obtaining, or attempting to obtain, assistance from the department by fraudulent means should be prosecuted.

"It is the opinion of the commission that no ex-service man or his dependent should forfeit their provincial or municipal rights as citizens because of the fact that the veteran concerned, or, if he is married, he and his wife had been granted an allowance by the Dominion government."

Pictured dining at a fashionable London restaurant is Princess Maria, daughter of the King and Queen of Italy. Rumor persists that the Italian princess may wed King Leopold, of Belgium, whose former queen was killed in an automobile accident.

Here Are Proposals For Assistance of Veterans

OTTAWA, Dec. 10. — Here are chief recommendations contained in the report of the War Veterans' Assistance Commission, made public today by pensions minister C. G. Power:

Unemployed veterans who served in actual war theatres should get monthly federal allowances of $18.50 for single men, $30 for married men with dependent wives. Care of their children should be left to municipalities.

Refusal of suitable work without valid reason should bring denial of allowances.

Veterans seeking fraudulently to obtain pensions department help should be prosecuted.

POLITICAL RIGHTS

Each government department should be surveyed with a view to absorbing more veterans and defence department projects should be reserved for employment of veterans.

Veterans unable to fulfill age qualifications in jobs usually filled by younger men and carrying pension or superannuation provisions might be employed in some cases if they signed waivers, to pension or superannuation claims. On retirement these men could be granted war veterans' allowance.

A quota for veterans should be established in all agreements covering projects to which the government contributes.

RESERVE JOBS

Such jobs as sale of radio licenses should be reserved for veterans.

Veterans' preference in civil service openings should be equal between pensioners and non-pensioners and service with the Canadian forces should be counted in computing superannuation.

A conference should be held by British and Canadian governments with a view to ameliorating conditions of Imperial veterans or transplanting them.

A fund should be established for care of indigent veterans who fought in wars before 1914.

All age barriers should be dropped from the War Veterans' Allowance Act.

Southwest Grain Farmers Earned $2,000,000 In 1937

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., Dec. 10. — Farmers in southwestern Alberta earned between $1,800,000 and $2,000,000 in premiums on wheat harvested this year, it was unofficially estimated here today.

Wheat production in the area was practically all No. 1 and No. 2 northern grades, and these grades are commanding a premium of 12 to 14 cents a bushel because of their scarcity.

The premium is the highest ever paid for No. 1 and No. 2 grades to farmers in this part of the west.

REFINERY WILL BE BUILT FOR TURNER CRUDE

HIGH RIVER, Alta., Dec. 10. —Construction of an oil refinery with a capacity of 300 barrels a day to process Turner Valley crude into gasoline, will be started here immediately it was announced Thursday.

It is expected to be in operation by next March, giving employment to 25 men. Dr. R. Leckie, of Kelowna, B.C., is one of the sponsors of the project.

Board Invited Visit Valley

CALGARY, Dec. 10. — Federal tariff board has been invited to visit Turner Valley oil field, 45 miles southwest of Calgary, and obtain a "first hand picture" of the oil marketing situation in Alberta, W. S. Campbell, chairman of the Petroleum Products association, announced here Thursday.

Investigation of the marketing situation has been agreed on by the tariff board and producers here would like to have the members of the Turner Valley field before any evidence is taken.

Production in the field at present exceeds market requirements and wells in the Valley have been pro-rated at 35 per cent capacity. It has been estimated the wells are capable of producing more than 20,000 barrels daily.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 10

AN OUTSIDE JUDGMENT

Maybe what Winnipeg needs is a Fortin 30 year, high interest rates, 54 mill tax-rate, debt-extending plan; but the city solicitor doesn't seem to think so. Nor the city council. What the council asked through the city solicitor was that Winnipeg be relieved of some of its debt—not that it be given the privilege of paying unreduced interest on the debt for the next three decades. Also that the provincial government pay taxes to the city, and hand over a share of the gasoline sales tax and license revenue, so the city could take care of the balance of its obligations without hoisting the tax rate above 44½ mills and thus confiscate property and cut down the number of taxpayers.

If Edmonton aldermen will look over these points—which are raised by the council of an older, larger and wealthier city than Edmonton—and will compare these with the features of the Fortin plan they put over the taxpayers of Edmonton, they will get an outside opinion as to the statesmanship they displayed and the consequences that may be expected to follow.

THE MINIMUM WAGE LAW

The commission which investigated a series of strikes occurring in the city last spring has recommended that, for the better enforcement of the minimum wage law, employees be required to state under oath how much pay they have been getting, where the statement of an employer is doubted.

Obviously there are only two parties who know what an employee receives; himself and his employer. Where the employer is not believed, the only way to get at the truth is to call the employee. But just what is likely to happen if an employee swears that his employer has broken the law and then made a false statement to cover up the offence? In the case of that kind of an employer, the employee will be slated for dismissal. He cannot of course be dismissed for so doing; that is forbidden. But the matter is likely to be remembered against him, and should he make a mistake in future his time will be up. In which event the employee will be punished for the law-breaking of his employer.

The principle of the minimum wage law is sound, and the general welfare will be promoted if the law is observed. But there is no use ignoring the fact that it is a law difficult of enforcement. The very reason that makes it desirable makes it hard to enforce. If all employers were fair, enforcement would be easy, for the law would be only needed as a standard by which they would be guided.

CANADA THIRD

Mr. A. M. Shaw, director of Canada's marketing service, went to England some months ago to make a critical examination of the methods employed to sell Canadian products there. His report, summarized in press despatches, shows he found that these products are not holding the place they might be expected to hold in the thought of English buyers. In point of fact, he reports, New Zealand has gained the "most favored" position, with Australia next, and South Africa competing with Canada for third place. This is the more strange because Canada is closer to Britain than either of the other three and has the added and very great advantage that its products cross the ocean in the temperate zone and without having to sustain the extreme heat of the equatorial belt.

In part, Mr. Shaw thinks, we have failed to make full use of these advantages through carelessness as to quality and packing of goods, and in part because our advertising in England has been faulty or scant. He makes recommendations for improvement in both respects, which no doubt will, and should, get attention. The matter is the more important because Great Britain is negotiating a trade agreement with the United States under which farm products of the latter country will be given easier entry into the British market. This means still more competition for Canadian products there, and competition of the keenest kind. Canada cannot afford to ignore any means of holding the "sentimental preference" which will express itself in the British consumer asking for Canadian products.

TWO MISCONCEPTIONS

Friend Journal is terribly upset about the collapse of the merger scheme, naturally. It tried for years to get Liberal and U.F.A. Governments successively to adopt the Conservative party, itself and its sound money ideas and form a coalition ministry. Having failed in this, it was cheered at the prospect that those who had refused to amalgamate when in power might amalgamate to get back into power. And is now correspondingly depressed that even this is not to be.

In its hour of distress attention may be called to two fundamental misconceptions, from which the Journal may—or may not—be able to extract some consolation. These misconceptions are virtual from the Liberal point of view, whatever may be the case from the U.F.A. stand-point.

The first was that amalgamation with the Conservative party—and its next of kin the People's League—would strengthen the chance of ousting the Aberhart Government and putting an opposition ministry in power. Nothing could be further from the truth. The fact, unpleasant as it may be, is that amalgamation with Alberta Conservatives and their affiliate would condemn any party beyond hope. Whatever the voters of this province may want, they certainly do not want and will not elect a "sound money" government. And any coalition which included these groups would be immediately identified, and condemned, as a financiers' set-up. The returns from the last general election supply all the evidence needed on that score. The Liberals on that occasion polled 70,000 votes. Conservative candidates in all Alberta got less than 20,000. Who wants to go into partnership with a political bankrupt? Or the mortgage and loan party—the People's League?

The other, and worse, misconception was the idea that the all-important thing in Alberta is to get rid of the Aberhart Government; and that so long as this is accomplished it does not much matter what kind of a government succeeds it. That may be, apparently is, the thought in the minds of those who have fallen for the propaganda of "unity." It is not, and cannot be, accepted by those who know what the Liberal party is and why it is. Power is not an end in itself, and the desire to get into power is not a sufficient justification for a party's existence. The Liberal party exists to carry Liberal principles into practice when and as it can, and to advocate those principles whether in or out of office. A merger with those who hold Conservative principles is simply not possible; neither set of principles could be championed by the coalition, or carried into effect should the coalition get into power. The Liberal party is better out of office with its principles than it would be in office at the price of them.

If friend Journal can comprehend this fact it may help it to understand why the merger scheme failed, to its great and very sincere disappointment.

Financial

THE BANK OF MONTREAL

Speaking at the annual meeting of the shareholders of the Bank of Montreal, Sir Charles Gordon, G.B.E., president, said in part:

"Taken as a whole, business conditions throughout Canada during the past year have been much improved and a happy contrast with the conditions of but two years ago, the one really serious set-back being in those portions of the Prairie Provinces where drought caused total or partial failure of the crops. Were Canada as dependent as it formerly was upon the cash returns derived from the export of wheat, the fact that this year's crop of that commodity fails so far short of the average would be disastrous. As matters stand, however, this partial failure of our greatest cash crop is partly offset from the national standpoint by the higher price for this year's crop and by the fact that the general crops in every other part of Canada have been, on the whole, remarkably good. Also, perhaps even more important is the fact that Canada has been demonstrating in the past year a remarkable resiliency in productive enterprise.

"For instance, the world-wide demand for gold has been reflected in Canada by a marked increase in both the discovery and the production of that metal. The rapid progress that is being made in every form of mechanical operation and in the use of all kinds of manufactures of metal, combined with the demands caused by the armament programmes of the larger nations, has centred attention upon Canada as one of the leading producers of the non-ferrous metals. Canada's response has been such that with the exception of iron this country is now the world's largest exporter of base metals. Now that industrial programmes which have been undertaken on an unprecedented scale by nations abroad have found Canada responding by large increases in the export of lumber and other building products such as asbestos and gypsum. Similarly, the rise of large-scale industries for the manufacture from pulpwood of a wide variety of new materials, of which at the moment artificial silk is perhaps the most spectacular, has found a response in Canada in the production for export of increasing quantities of high-grade bleached sulphite, the raw material of these new industries. The greatly increased demand for newsprint has been reflected in Canada in the past year in record production and export of that commodity, which for years has been the largest manufactured product in our export trade. It is this resiliency in industrial enterprise, so variously expressed, that endows this country with so great a capacity for recuperation.

"Then there is the tourist trade, which provides a highly important stimulus to domestic business."

Mr. Jackson Dodds, O.B.E., general manager, in presenting the annual report, said in part:

"Our deposits amount to $639,600,000 as compared with $608,100,000 a year ago.

"Quick assets, including cash, total $599,000,000 representing 79.58% of all liabilities to the public. This extremely strong position is beyond ordinary needs and reflects the fact that the demand of our customers for loans for commercial purposes is still considerably below normal.

"Cash holdings and Bank of Canada balances amount to $85,500,000 and represent 11.39% of all liabilities to the public.

"Investments, not exceeding market value, at $437,700,000 show a decrease of $6,100,000 compared with last year. Included in this total are Dominion and Provincial Government securities $344,900,000, of which $151,500,000 mature within two years. Of our Government securities with ever two years' maturity date,

THE WAY OF A MAN

The elder folks of our day did not like the term "spoon" any more than we who are past 40 like "neck, pet and mug," and they looked with disdain upon "flirts" of both sexes. When they in turn were young these whose heads had been turned by love were wont to "cuddle," to "dally," to "gallivant," to "philander," and the young lady who would do such terrible things without an engagement or a wedding ring was reproachfully styled a "coquette," surely a much more elegant sobriquet than "petter," "necker," or "mugger." Yes, time marches on, but we think time ought to have been able to do better in finding new words to express the way of a man with a maid, which is one of the four things which the Scriptures tell us were much too wonderful for Agur, the son of Jakeh, as he spoke in words of prophecy to Ithiel and Ucal. Had Agur lived today he might have added two more things that would be beyond his knowledge, the way of a maid with a man and the language used to portray it.—Midland Free Press.

DOWN THE SPILLWAY

By JOHN CIVEN

I don't know just what it was that suddenly decided me that I ought to learn about military strategy. Nevertheless, the desire to learn something about the art and science of warfare was pretty strong early yesterday afternoon, so I went off to the library and took out a few books.

Just outside the doors copies of The Evening Sun were piled up. And as I was leaving an aged man on the way into the library had stopped to glance at the headlines. Apparently what had caught his eye were the words: "U.S. Protest Forces Japanese Troops Out of American Zone—Marine Chief Gets Swift Action . . ." Anyway, he said, half to me, in a voice that was full of real pleasure and triumph: "Well! Good for the marines. Good for the marines." I don't know why, but his zestful praises had the effect of ending all my wishes to read about the art and science of warfare.

And then there's the story of the returning traveller who went to no end of bother to comply with all the rules of the Germans about taking money and securities and bringing it out and who was asked in the banking office in Berlin, as he was completing his purchase of departure money, for the declaration on which he had recorded the money on his person when he entered the blessed Nazi state; and who took out of his wallet the paper; and who saw the German teller read it and go crazy; and who learned that the declaration was not in order at all and no money for his expenses in departing could be sold to him; and who grew tired of the German teller's speech and made one of his own, the sum total of which was that every instruction had been carried out, that he was tired of all the nonsense and that he had his money at once; and who was told that the manager must be consulted; and who waited fifteen minutes while the manager and the teller examined the declaration; and who heard the manager, brow corrugated, say that it was a very difficult matter and the traveler could be given trouble at the border if money were sold while the declaration was in that improper form; and who watched the manager read again the declaration; and who then was asked by the manager what a certain figure meant; and who said, "Give me the paper and I'll tell you what any figure on it means"; and who was given the piece of paper; and who looked at the piece of paper; and who said: "Damnation! I have my money declaration back. This is my receipt from the French Line for my passage home. I gave it to you without looking at it and you have been looking at it for fifteen minutes."

In its account of the "shakeup" in the high command of the British Army the Associated Press describes the officer who has been named chief of the imperial general staff as "Lord Gort, known as 'The Tiger'. . ."

Whenever I read of such nicknames my impulse is always to demand, "Known to whom?" My own guess is that Major-General Viscount Gort is known as "The Tiger" to no one except newspaper men engaged in writing an account of his record. Certainly his troops and his inferior officers don't call him Tiger. I doubt that members of his clubs say when he enters a room, "Hello there, I'm sure his relatives don't even in playful moments, call him Tige. So who does?

Clemenceau was also the Tiger of France, but that I fancy was only in cartoon captions and perhaps highly artistic political rhetoric. Stonewall Jackson, it is true, is called Stonewall Jackson even in history books, but he is the exception. I think I don't believe any of the others were known to anybody except the reading public by their nome de guerre. Certainly no one ever addressed Napoleon as "Little Corporal," or T. E. Lawrence as "Uncrowned King," and I can't imagine there is a shred of evidence that even his intimates ever greeted Attila by saying "How's the Scourge of God feeling today?"—Baltimore Sun.

"Current Loans and Discounts in Canada and Loans to Provincial Government, Municipalities and School Districts amount to $163,500,000, an increase of $23,300,000.

"For the year ended 30th September the current loans of all the Banks increased by $75,500,000. This increase was welcome but was not commensurate with the growth in the volume of business and improvement in commodity prices. On the basis of the usual relationship between the trend of loans and volume of business, such increase as occurred, the Bank felt September, 1937, should have been able to report commercial loans at about 92% of the total in September, 1929. Actually the total was only 55% of the 1929 figure.

"Throughout last year, and the year before, reference was made to the various factors which had contributed to the reduced demand for bank accommodation. In considering these factors it must be recognized that many of them are not of a passing nature. On the other hand, through to invention and scientific research, new industries are always coming into being, resulting in new sources of business for the banks. One does not need to look back many years to the birth of the automobile and motion picture industries, airplane building, radio, rayon and cellophane manufacturing, the providing of homes with electric appliances and artificial refrigeration, and the introduction of air-conditioning — to mention only a few. . . Yesterday's luxuries are today's necessities and the same will be said tomorrow."

Your Health

By DR. FRANK McCOY

Dr. McCoy's menus suggested for the week beginning Sunday, December 12, 1937:

SUNDAY—Breakfast: Poached egg on Melba toast; stewed figs. Lunch: Cornmeal muffins; string beans; lettuce and ripe olives. Dinner: Roast chicken, Melba toast dressing; turnips; salad of cooked asparagus; raspberry whip.

MONDAY—Breakfast: Whole-wheat mush with cream or butter; stewed prunes. Lunch: Raw apples as desired. Dinner: Cold sliced chicken; baked ground beets; salad of green peas, lettuce and celery; applesauce.

TUESDAY—Breakfast: Coddled eggs; Melba toast; stewed raisins. Lunch: Baked squash; string beans; salad of shredded lettuce and parsley. Dinner: Vegetable soup; Salisbury steak; cooked celery; salad of grated raw carrots; gelatin.

WEDNESDAY—Breakfast: Cottage cheese; sliced pineapple. Lunch: Vegetable soufle, such as lima bean, spinach, etc.; lettuce and celery. Dinner: Baked pork; turnips; green peas; salad of lettuce and shredded raw spinach; apple whip.

THURSDAY—Breakfast: French omelet; toasted cereal biscuit; pear sauce. Lunch: Baked potato; cooked greens; stuffed beets. Dinner: Celery soup; boiled lean beef; cauliflower; string beans; salad of grated raw carrots; ice cream.

FRIDAY—Breakfast: Oatmeal with cream or butter. Lunch: Vegetable plate; cottage cheese. Dinner: Lettuce soup; *broiled fish; eggplant; canned tomatoes; cabbage salad; gelatin.

SATURDAY — Breakfast: Coddled eggs; Melba toast; dish of berries. Lunch: Rice en casserole; string beans; salad of lettuce with olive oil. Dinner: Meat balls (made with round steak prepared as for Salisbury steak); cooked spinach; baby lima beans (canned); stewed figs.

*BROILED FISH: Select a fish of firm flesh which cuts well, broil upon pressure, and of wholesome odor. Split, clean and wash; then wipe dry thoroughly. Have the oven very hot, about 500 degrees, and place the fish on the broiler rack, skin side down. Lower heat after about five minutes to a point where the fish will cook through without burning the outside. This will require about twenty minutes or more, according to the thickness of the fish. When done, remove to hot platter, season with a little parsley and butter and garnish with some crisp raw vegetable. Slices of lemon may be used when the meal does not contain other fruit acids or starches.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

QUESTION—D.M.C. wants to know: "Is there any way by which hair on the face can be destroyed so that there is no re-growth?"

ANSWER: Electrolysis is the most satisfactory method for destroying facial hair. This refers to destroying the hair roots by means of an electric current. When skillfully done and when the growth is not too heavy, satisfactory results are obtained. In some cases it appears that heredity plays a role in producing an overgrowth of hair on the face and elsewhere in women. It has also been observed that such overgrowth is more likely to appear in families in which the complexion is dark than in families in which the inherited complexion tends to be fair. Various other causes have also been thought responsible for possible causes of the development of a noticeable hair growth on the faces of women. For example, nervous disorders sometimes seem to encourage it but it is probable that disturbances of the glands of internal secretion often play a part. Although most people believe that the growth of hair is stimulated by using animal fats, petroleum or glycerine on the skin, this belief has no scientific foundation. The fact is that such substances may stimulate the growth of hair in the case of animals, as in horses. The chief effects of the growth itself are mental—arising out of the annoyance produced by the disfiguring hairiness. In some instances where the growth has appeared as the result of ill health, or as the result of pregnancy, the condition has not been permanent. As a general rule, facial hair in women tends to become longer and coarser as they grow older. Although the hair may be removed temporarily by the use of a depilatory, it will of course, grow in again. When lasting results are desired, electrolysis usually proves the method of choice. However, it is wise to make sure that you go to someone experienced in the work.

SIDE GLANCES — By George Clark

"Quick! Put that stuff back into the boxes! Here comes Junior up the walk now!"

Old Country Letter

By J. E. NORCROSS

LONDON, Eng.—(By Mail)—With Gracie Fields scoring another big success and two such top-liners as Norman Evans, also of Rochdale, and the famous son of a famous father, George Formby, on the bill, Lancashire played a large part in the Royal Command performance at the Palladium, London, given in aid of the Variety Artists' Benevolent Fund.

J. E. Norcross

The King and Queen, accompanied by the Duke and Duchess of Kent were in the royal box. By both the enormous crowd outside and the capacity audience within the theatre they were given a tremendous reception.

The performance was broadcast almost in its entirety—trapeze acts, of course, were not available for ordinary receiving sets and they were not televised—the longest variety broadcast ever put on the air by the British Broadcasting Corporation. Millions of people must have listened in if the many empty seats in cinemas and theatres all over the country were any criterion.

Anyway it was a great success. Their Majesties thoroughly enjoyed themselves, the Queen, in particular, being delighted with an act by a Scottish comedian, Will Fyffe, put on in special compliment to her. It was the closing act and as it came to an end the stage revolved, Edinburgh Castle came into view and scores of pipers marched up the centre aisle with their pipes going full blast to the stage where the whole company assembled and sang the national anthem. As a finale this was the greatest ever staged at the Palladium. The fund will benefit to the amount of $31,700.

PERHAPS if it had not been for the loss of his wife a quarter of a century ago, Mr. Ramsay MacDonald would still be alive. Victorian plays, now appearing, in which the great Gladstone figures, remind the public of the care with which Mrs. Gladstone compassed her "William" about.

Day in and day out, month after month and year after year, she saw to it that when he took his rest he was never disturbed. This was, at least in part, the secret of his astonishing vigor when he still led the House of Commons as Premier at 84 years of age.

There are other wives of statesmen today who, apparently, have taken a leaf out of Mrs. Gladstone's book. Their homes are so organized that neither Mr. Chamberlain nor Mr. Lloyd George was told of the death of Mr. MacDonald until next morning although the news was received at their residences late at night.

He had been trying all evening to summon the courage to tell her. It was a thing that really required a great deal of intrepidity. She was his ideal. Slim, brown-eyed, beautiful golden hair. As he gazed at her he finally made up his mind.

"Darling," he said, "I love you. If I asked you to be my wife, what would be the outcome?"

"It depends," came the reply, "very much on the income."

WHAT OFFERS?

Editor, Bulletin: Congratulations to the Liberal party for refusing to unite with the People's League. In presenting these congratulations, I cannot boast of doing so in the name of any association, but I can say that my opinion of the People's League is the same as that of hundreds of other young men in this city, who are not Social Crediters, and not necessarily Liberals, but progressive young men who can think for themselves and who know what they want.

The very fact that the People's League is nothing but an anti-Social Credit movement, with no other object in view but the downfall of the present government, condemns it in the eyes of any broad-minded citizen. It may be true that the government has not paid dividends, that taxation is higher than it ever was before, that bad holders have not been paid, that the credit of the province is being impaired, that the freedom of our press is menaced, but what has the People's League to offer in the way of a remedy? By what means will they correct the present state of affairs? Simply by destroying everything the present government has established and adopting a policy of cut-throat Liberal fairness.

What will be done to alleviate the farmers' burden of debt? What will be done to reduce interest rates on provincial and municipal debts, when money is being bor-

A Day in Canadian History

By FRED WILLIAMS

William Lyon Mackenzie left the home of his friend at Smithville at 8 o'clock on the night of Sunday, Dec. 10. He had been provided with a guide; both were mounted; and—now I am telling Mackenzie's story —crossed the Twenty, secured a comfortable supper with a friend on our way, crossed the Welland canal and the Chippewa river, and got safely into Bowland before daylight. We left our horses with a farmer who was persuaded us to the Niagara river on foot. All the boats had been taken by the government, with one exception, that belonged to Alex. of Bertie, who had one of his boats locked up in his shed with his carriages.

The native revealed his identity, was welcomed man to man, and was invited to breakfast.

"There was a military guard on the river," Mackenzie wrote, "and the passage was more than feared. I thought it safe to step out and see if the coast was clear. Well for me that I did so. The officer, Colonel Kerby, the customs house officer opposite Black Rock, and his troop of cavalry had crossed in full green uniforms, and with their carbines ready, were so close upon us, riding up the bank of the river, that had I not then observed their approach, they would have caught me at breakfast.

"Nine men out of 10 in such an emergency would have hesitated to assist me; and to escape by land was at that time evidently impossible. Mr. McAfee lost not a moment; his boat was hauled across the road and launched in the stream and he and Chandler (his companion from Smithville) and I were scarcely afloat in it, and out a little way, below the bank, when the old fiery colonel and his green-coated troop of horses, with their waving plumes, were parading in front of the house of the hated Sir Grand Island without interruption, nor was there a whisper about the matter for months thereafter, and in an hour we were safe on the American shore and that night I slept under Colonel Chapin's roof."

But not before he had attended a great demonstration in the Buffalo court house, and spoken boldly with the Canadians." Mackenzie had notified Dr. Clapin on Dec. 4 o his plans, so that they were ready to aid him in his mad "republic" on Navy Island, of which more later.

You will note that Mackenzie says nothing about escaping across the river in woman's attire, if that had been so would he not have mentioned it?

Commonwealth Partnership Raises Britain's Status

EMPIRE NOW STANDING IN FRONT RANK

Prime Minister Chamberlain Addresses Empire Unity Gathering

LONDON, Dec. 10.—Prime Minister Chamberlain last night declared that partnership with the "other great democracies" of the Empire raised Great Britain from "the status of a fourth rate power" and added that Britain would cling fast to the democratic form of government to which she had held for hundreds of years.

"We hear much nowadays about rival system of government, for which superior efficiency is claimed by voluntary subjection of individual liberty of speech, thought and action, to the direction of the state, or perhaps to a single man who is said to represent the state."

British did not wish to prescribe to other nations the sort of government they should have, Mr. Chamberlain said.

MAINTAIN FORM

"For ourselves we prefer and we mean to maintain that form of democracy we have built up for hundreds of years and which is best suited to the habits and ways of thought of our people.

"We rejoice to find that in these great dominions, too, the same forms of democracy, untouched by Fascism of Communism, standing for the same ideal of peace, liberty and justice that we do ourselves.

"We realize that by our partnership with these other great democracies we are raised from the status of a fourth rate power to be the heart of an empire which stands in the front rank of all powers in the world."

2,000 ASSEMBLED

The Prime Minister addressed a gathering of 2,000 assembled by the Empire Unity campaign.

He glanced back at the development of the Empire and found many of the dreams of his father, Joseph Chamberlain, colonial minister of the 80's, had been realized.

He termed "twice blessed", the Ottawa agreements which established Empire preference, a policy Joseph Chamberlain advocated in the days of free trade. The agreements, he said, benefitted the Dominions both by providing them with expanding markets and by increasing their purchasing power for British goods.

He urged even closer collaboration between the units of the empire on matters of defence, foreign policy and development of resources, and stressed the importance of building up scanty populations with fresh blood.

EMPIRE'S GROWTH

Tracing the empire's growth in the past century, Mr. Chamberlain expatiated on the change from "self-governing colonies" to "self-governing dominions."

By the changes embodied in the Statute of Westminster, he said, "we have freely recognized that, in spite of all differences in the dangers to which we are exposed or in our proximity to great centres of international emplications, we freely recognize that all are partners in the empire and completely equal to one another."

Referring to his father, Mr. Chamberlain said: "upon the foundation he laid, the national government has built up the structure of the present fiscal system."

STUDENT BODY WINS DEMAND OF NIGHT OUT

MOSCOW, Idaho, Dec. 10.—A University of Idaho students' "walkout" threat subsided today as quickly as it flared when President Harrison C. Dale returned to the campus and extended special student privileges which the dean of women had denied.

The president granted two students' demands:

He lifted the 7:30 p.m. deadline for co-eds for next Tuesday to allow them to remain out of their houses until 8 p.m. to participate in the program on the eve of annual "Holly Day."

He allowed "open night" privileges for tonight to allow freshmen and sophomore co-eds to attend the all-college play. Dean of Women Evelyn Miller had refused to allow them privileges beyond the regular 7:30 p.m. deadline.

Saskatchewan To Show Its Minerals

NEW YORK, Dec. 10—The province of Saskatchewan will have a mineral display at the Canadian Mining Exposition, to be held in New York's Grand Central Palace Feb. 14-19 next, according to word received Thursday and Hon. W. F. Kerr, provincial minister of natural resources. Several other provinces and the Dominion government previously reserved space for official exhibits.

Saves Only Child

Mrs. House was badly burned about the face and hands.

32 SPEND NIGHT ON ROAD WHILE BLIZZARD RAGES

PORT COLBORNE, Ont., Dec. 10.—In a stranded bus five miles west of here, 22 passengers and 10 shivering refugees sat Wednesday night through one of the worst blizzards that ever hit the Niagara Peninsula in December.

Through the howling night, they sat awake, cheerfully singing and telling stories. Thursday in a hotel here, they waited for the weather to clear before going on to New York where the bus was bound from Detroit.

Driver Gilbert Norand, Detroit, kept the bus motor running to provide heat and light for his passengers.

rowed by the federal governments of Canada and the United States at one, two and three per cent? Will the People's League demand of the federal government better control of the nation's credit and help to bring about economic freedom in Canada, or will it just sit back and leave matters adjust themselves to the so-called economic laws of booms and depressions?

When these and many other questions which may be asked are answered by the People's League, then the Liberal Party can act accordingly, and deserve the blame or praise of self-thinking citizens.

ARE MUNICIPALITIES NEEDED?

Editor, Bulletin: The tax sales which are advertised in many parts of Alberta will bring to a head the question as to whether the municipalities are necessary or justify the overhead they incur.

Several years ago a special meeting was called to consider the advisability of reverting the Municipal District of Pembina, No. 552, to unorganized territory or local improvement districts. Mr. English, the then deputy minister, attended and persuaded us to pass a resolution requesting the government to consider the matter in place of one demanding immediate action. From a communication recently received it appears the question is still under consideration but it is taking far too long and costing altogether too much money and the salaried officials seem to think the decision rests with them and not with the taxpayers.

The officials assert the present financial state of the district makes immediate dissolution impossible while the taxpayers consider this makes it imperative but, strictly speaking, the question of whether we can afford it does not arise, the only considerations being the necessity of such an ambitious form of local government, and if it yields service in proportion to its cost. The answer is a decided negative in both cases.

Many may wonder how a municipal district can be abolished with fairness to those who have let their taxes get in arrears and those who have paid them up to date, but that is easy to arrange. A meeting would be called to appoint a committee of inspection to supervise. They would dispense with the services of the officials and then turn the whole matter over to one of the trust companies with instructions to collect all taxes by a certain date. To accommodate those absolutely unable to pay the company would have to arrange that their taxes become debts owing to a mortgage company in order to make the cash immediately available. With all the taxes collected and accounts settled the money remaining would be disbursed as a dividend on the assessments on which the taxes were levied. This plan demonstrates that dissolution at the present time is quite possible and a trust company would carry it out at a fraction of the cost of government officials.

One of the advantages claimed when the municipalities were being organized was that they would prevent people being at the whim of one man; but in this they often failed, each councillor being allowed to do as he liked in his own division. A better state of affairs could be secured in local improvement districts if a committee of those were appointed, one paid man to supervise the work, and two unpaid members to see that he carried out his duties fairly; all three having equal authority.

It is my opinion that no large-scale system of local government will ever be a success until the people are ready to abolish the system of working off taxes and then a much larger unit than the municipalities will be better in order to employ a full time surveyor and maintain a hospital if such is not already provided.

The Municipal District or Pembina, No. 552, has become absolutely redundant and it is proposed to call a meeting at an early date in order to secure revision to something more useful to the present generation.

I should be glad to hear from anyone sufficiently interest to write, especially if they can suggest a better way to dissolve or propound any sort of plan to end the present stalemate.

JOHN GRISOLD.

Rangeton, Alta., Nov. 29.

(Copy of the letter received from the department of municipal affairs.)

September 10, 1937.

Dear Sir: You have requested from the deputy minister of this department all the information available, together with the necessary forms needed, in order to revert the Municipal District of Pembina, No. 552, to local improvement districts and unorganized territory.

There are no forms in existence in connection with a matter of this kind. The municipal district is now under administratorship and the administrator has had in mind for some considerable time the question of disorganizing the municipal district. If, and when, such disorganization takes place the entire district will revert to the status of a local improvement district. At the present time the financial position of the district is in such condition that disorganization immediately is not warranted.

This whole subject is receiving the earnest consideration of the department. Yours truly,

J. M. HEATON,
Municipal Inspection Branch.

New "Lung" Leaves Body Free

Physicians hope this queer-looking, but effective respirator will free Fred Snite, Jr., from the 900-pound, barrel-like "iron lung" which has imprisoned his infantile paralysis-ridden body for two years. Instead of encasing his body completely, the new device, shown above as it was tested on Iris Barrett of Akron, covers only the abdomen and thorax, leaving arms, shoulders and legs free for exercise and massage. The respirator, invented by Dennis R. Scanlan with the aid of General Tire & Rubber Company experts, exerts alternate pressure and vacuum on the chest walls of the patient, thereby manipulating the lungs as in normal breathing. It is made of aluminum and covered with softest sponge rubber which "seals" the apparatus to the skin of the patient to make possible the formation of a vacuum.

B. C. LEGISLATURE SEEKS OVERHAUL FOR B. N. A. ACT

VICTORIA, Dec. 10.—The British Columbia legislature Thursday expressed in a resolution its opinion that the British North America Act should be amended "in order to establish beyond question the authority of the dominion parliament effectually to enact a national scheme of unemployment insurance."

The resolution was introduced by Premier Pattullo, who read a letter from Prime Minister Mackenzie King asking whether British Columbia would favor amendment to the British North America Act to enable establishment of unemployment insurance.

Premier Pattullo said he had replied the province was "in complete agreement" with the proposal but wanted an opportunity to study the proposed amendment before it passed through the federal parliament.

TO RELIEVE CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or are hard of hearing or have head noises go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength), and add to it ½ pint of hot water and tablespoonful four times a day, tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.

HOW TO OVERCOME ITCHING PILES

If you are annoyed with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not neglect the same or run the risk of an operation. Any itching, soreness or painful passage of stool, is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once. For this purpose get from Merrick Drug Stores or any druggist, a package of Hemrold and use as directed. This formula, which is used internally, quickly relieves the itching and soreness and aids in healing the sore, tender spots. Hemrold is a physician's prescription and is highly recommended. It is easy to use and it seems the height of folly for anyone to risk an operation when a simple remedy which is pleasant to use may be had at such a reasonable cost.

Commendation Of Livestock Policies Is Heard

PRICE CHOICE QUALITY BEEF IS DISCUSSED

Western Canada Livestock Union Hears Addresses In Saskatoon

SASKATOON, Dec. 10.—Commendation of certain government livestock policies, together with condemnation of practices which tended to keep prices to the producer of choice quality cattle and beef low, were heard here Thursday at the Western Canada Livestock Union convention.

The session was marked by addresses from G. B. Rothwell, director of production services in the federal department of agriculture, and from J. M. McCallum, of the horse-breeding division.

Both men attacked a statement made by R. A. Wright, president of the union, at the morning session to the effect that bonusing of purebred livestock in Canada had become a "racket." In defence, Mr. Wright explained he had referred to the use made of the bonuses and premiums by breeders, rather than to the plans themselves.

New policies could not be superimposed upon those already in force without a great increase in expenditure, Mr. Rothwell said.

BONUSES AID

The speaker outlined the various policies aimed at improving the livestock industry in Western Canada, making definite references to the bull-loaning policy. Much of the money expended by his department, went back to the country in the form of bonuses to producers and these bonuses had, he believed, aided materially in the improvement of stock, as well as in the provision of labor for Canada.

Vigorous discussion followed Mr. Rothwell's address, and following the discussion, President Wright remarked, "from this discussion, Mr. Rothwell, we can draw the conclusion that a national livestock policy is needed."

Joining in the discussion were John Graham of Carberry, Man.; Ole Olafson, of Old Wives, Sask.; George Ross of St. Klida, Alta.; K. G. Burns of Winnipeg; J. N. Catley, Alta.; and J. L. Waters, of Clive, Alta.

FAVOR GRADING

A number of the delegates favored grading of cattle, as hogs had been graded to advantage in Canada, while others believed that finding a market for Canadian cattle was the main issue at stake.

Mr. McCallum defended government policies in the horse division. These policies, he stated, had improved the position of the "diminishing" horse industry in Canada.

M'FARLAND TO HEAD COUNCIL IN UNITY MOVE

Gray was also critical of Conservative Leader D. M. Duggan's attitude throughout the unity negotiations carried on between the major political parties and the League.

Mr. McFarland, who accepted the chairmanship following a telephone conversation with F. E. Osborne, Calgary, chairman of the Red Deer meeting, acquainting him of his nomination, is a former partner of R. Hon. R. B. Bennett in the Alberta Pacific Grain Company, and was chairman of the Canadian Wheat Board created by the Conservative leader.

The provisional council also decided that resolutions passed at the meeting together with an invitation to appoint representatives to the council be sent to the executives of the Liberal Party, the United Farmers of Alberta and the Alberta Labor Party.

WILL FUNCTION

The provisional council will function until such time as a more permanent and representative organization can be formed.

The major problems confronting the people of Alberta were discussed and it was agreed by the provisional council that the following problems together with others must be effectively dealt with by the responsible government which is the objective of this council.

It was the unanimous opinion of those present that the definite solutions of these problems should not be undertaken by the provisional council, but should be dealt with in a democratic manner and by a much more representative body.

IN EACH RIDING

The council urged that these problems and the methods of their solutions be discussed by the unity organizations in each constituency, and that this should be followed as speedily as possible by a provincial convention composed of representatives of each of these constituency organizations at which convention a program of same for effective action should be agreed and determined upon. The problems are:

RECONSTRUCTON

1—Re-establishing Alberta's credit.

2—Refunding of public debt at lower interest rates.

3—Immediate adjustment of private debts, urban and rural.

4—Unemployment.

5—Civil service efficiency re-established, and the abolition of patronage.

6—Preservation of national unity.

7—Rehabilitation of drought areas.

8—Encouragement of industries and development of our natural resources.

9—Comprehensive program of good roads.

STABILIZATION

1—More equitable method of taxation.

2—Reasonable interest rate with short term credit facilities.

3—Crop insurance.

4—Re-allocation of responsibilities — dominion, provincial and municipal.

5—Co-operative marketing and consumer co-operation.

HAVE AUTONOMY

The provisional council agreed that constituencies were to have absolute autonomy to proceed with organization along lines best suited to the riding.

Delegates from the People's League intimated the League's willingness to withdraw from the council if their presence in any way interfered with the Unity movement.

Discussion on the formation of the provisional council and the formation of the basic principles of the unity movement platform occupied five hours. The meeting was under the chairmanship of F. E. Osborne, Calgary, presiding in the absence of Dr. J. S. McEachern, Calgary executive of the League.

The personnel of the provisional committee which will operate under Mr. McFarland is F. E. Osborne, Calgary; S. A. Fox, Innisfail; A. A. Macmillan, Peace River, and C. C. Gillies, Clover Bar, representing the People's League; W. J. Botterill, Red Deer; J. W. Crawford, Calgary; A. R. Fraser, Vegreville, and E. N. Ridley, Strathmore, representing the Conservative party; Ronald Pye, Penhold; A. P. Shuttleworth, Balzac, and former premier R. G. Reid, Edmonton, and Frank Collicut, Crossfield, representing the United Farmers of Alberta.

At the meeting Thursday A. P. Shuttleworth was unable to attend owing to sickness in his family, and Arthur Speakman, former M.P. for Red Deer, acted as alternate. D. M. Duggan, M.L.A., Conservative leader, represented A. W. Fraser and P. W. Pratt, Lacombe, was alternate for E. N. Ridley, these delegates being unable to attend.

The provisional council selected an executive committee, one representative from the present unity forces, as a nucleus to work with Mr. McFarland with power to add to its numbers. The committee is: Frank Collicutt, Crossfield; C. C. Gillies, Clover Bar; R. G. Reid, Edmonton and J. W. Crawford, Calgary.

McFARLAND TO ACCEPT CHAIRMANSHIP

CALGARY, Dec. 10.—John I. McFarland, Calgary, former head of the Canadian Wheat Board, has accepted the chairmanship of the "Provisional Unity Council" formed at a meeting at Red Deer yesterday.

"Yes, I have accepted the chairmanship," Mr. McFarland told The Canadian Press Friday morning.

He had no further statement to make at this time. The council's work will be to assist in and promote the organization of the people of Alberta for the purpose of re-establishing "responsible and progressive government."

Its membership will include representatives of The People's League of Alberta, the Conservative party and an invitation to join will be extended to the Liberals, the United Farmers of Alberta and Labor.

Fledgling Son Of Lost Eagle

One can only guess at the thoughts in the brain of this youngster as he gazes intently from the cockpit over the cowling of the airplane in which his father made aviation history. He is Charles Kingsford-Smith, Jr., whose father was lost in a daring attempt to set a new flight record from England to Australia in 1935. The airplane in which the boy is seated at Sydney, Australia, was used by Kingsford-Smith in his flight around the world. It was purchased by the Australian government for its national war museum at Canberra, the capital.

PRESS VOTED MOVE OUTSIDE SOCRED PARLEY

MACLEOD, Alta., Dec. 10—The press was excluded from the annual convention of the Macleod Constituency Association of the Alberta Social Credit League Thursday.

At the start of the convention press representatives were admitted but on being "voted out" after listening to two hours of routine business, they were requested to show their notes to a committee. There were few notes to be inspected as the reporters took little notice of the routine proceedings.

A vote was taken to ban the press after W. Todd of Ewe mne, a delegate, declared he had "a lot to say" and did not care to speak with newspapermen present. Only seven of the 32 delegates voted in favor of the reporters remaining on the convention floor.

It was suggested the press remain and take no notes. Mr. Todd did not agree.

"The press could keep notes in their minds," he declared.

Premier Aberhart attended the convention session during the afternoon and last night, with Hon. Solon Low, provincial treasurer, and addressed a public meeting.

Blonde Woman Sought For Mystery Murders

PARIS, Dec. 10—The asserted scarfaced chief of an abduction-death syndicate, whose "expert in murder" slew Jean De Koven, American dancer, escaped a police net and was sought today by patrols along the highways of southeastern France.

ST. CLOUD, France, Dec. 10.—Body of Jean de Koven, a strangler's cord still cutting deeply into her neck, was dug up by police Thursday after a German fugitive confessed the pretty American dancer was the first of five victims he killed to get "money to eat."

Police sought a blond "mystery woman" who spoke French with difficulty. They expressed belief she took part in the killing of four men victims.

Eugene Weidmann, a German runaway from military service, led police to the isolated St. Cloud villa where he had lived more than four months with the 22-year-old Brooklyn, N.Y., girl's body buried in the clay beneath the front porch.

"De Koven? From behind I strangled her—she fell like a rag doll," police quoted Weidmann as saying.

Police said Weidmann told them he visited Canada in 1931, staying at a town which they described as Sielac. (Sielac is not shown in reference books.)

He returned to Frankfort the following year, where he was sentenced to five years' imprisonment for robbing homes. Soon after his release in 1936 he went to prison for six weeks in Frankfort on a charge of stealing wheat.

Police said that the curly-haired German confessed quietly to slaying Miss De Koven, object of a nation-wide search since she disappeared July 25, and the four men, all of whom were shot in the back of the head. The murders netted Weidmann about $1,000, police said he told them.

EXPERIMENTAL BUS SERVICE RECOMMENDED

By-Laws Committee Urges Test In Forest Heights, Riverdale Areas

Recommendation that commissioners be instructed to prepare a report on the proposed operation of a municipal bus service in the Forest Heights and Riverdale districts for an experimental period ending March 31, 1938, was made to city council by the civic bylaws committee Thursday.

This action was taken following representations by residents of the district who urged that the present bus service be continued. This service is now privately-operated by W. Storey, who has been carrying passengers in the Forest Heights and Riverdale districts for the past eight months. He operates with the consent of the city, which has no transportation facilities in that section of Edmonton, but without license fee.

ASKS FOR SUBSIDY

Stating he was operating at a deficit, Mr. Storey asked the city to subsidize his business to the extent of $125 a month to enable him to continue.

Commissioners recommended, however, that a temporary subsidy of $50 per month be granted the operator for the ensuing three months to cover added winter costs of operation. They pointed out that present private bus service, even though subsidized, would cost the city less than a municipally-operated service.

In a report placed before the committee Thursday, however, City Solicitor Thomas Garside stated the city had not authority to make a subsidy unless an amendment to the city charter were obtained.

Counsel for the bus operator, Ranald White, said Mr. Storey was printing his own tickets and selling fares to Forest Heights at four adults' tickets for 25 cents and eight children's tickets at the same price. Service to and from the Riverdale district was operated on a straight five-cent fair. No transfers were issued.

The bus terminus in the city is 97 street and Jasper avenue, while the end of its run in Forest Heights is 75 street.

Several hundred residents were using the bus service, while the bus was also carrying an average of 65 children and 34 miners to and from town every day, Mr. White said.

TRIAL SERVICE

Commissioner R. J. Gibb proposed that the city adopt a bus service in the two districts as an experiment for a few weeks and suggested that the present operator be retained on the city payroll as an alternative to the suggested subsidy.

The committee disposed of the question by recommending that commissioners prepare a report on an experimental bus service for these districts until the end of March, and that the report be submitted to council for consideration at its meeting Monday.

Circus Loss

The circus lost one of its most colorful figures — and circus posters their most colorful adjectives—when Dexter Fellows, 66, above, dean of press agents for the "Big Top," died in Hattiesburg, Miss., after a long illness. It was Fellows, in his 40 years with the circus, who thought up such circus descriptions as: "A colossal, stupendous, magnificent, Gargantuan, panoramic display of multiple arenic marvels."

COMPLAINTS OF ALLEGED NOISE AIRED AT MEET

Complaints of an alleged nuisance created by poultry handled by B. Wainberg and Company, Ltd., 10201 108 street, were raised before the civic bylaws committee Thursday by two housewives residing in the vicinity of the company's premises. Delegates also complained of noise caused by trucks driven to and from Wainberg's building, allegedly after 6 p.m. and on Sundays.

Informed by Melvin Friedman, counsel for the company, that other neighbors had testified that the poultry firm was not creating a nuisance, the committee disposed of the matter by recommending to council that police be instructed to check-up on business carried on by the company after closing hours and on Sundays with a view to minimizing the amount of noise.

CHARGE DISMISSED

Discussion on this question by the committee Thursday follows an October police court case in which a charge against Wainberg and Company was dismissed. The charge was based on complaints similar to those made to the committee.

Making forceful representations to the committee, the two housewives protested alleged odors and noises created by poultry handled by the firm; one delegate said that escaped fowl which she declared ran into her property while being delivered to the company, also constituted a nuisance.

Speaking for his clients, Mr. Friedman said that when the charge against the poultry firm had been heard in police court some of the residents of the district testified that the company's operations did not create a nuisance. He also reminded the committee that his clients were operating in an industrial district and not a residential area.

One of the women delegates also reminded the committee that she was paying high taxes due to the fact her home was located in this district.

Improvements which city health authorities had requested his clients to make to improve conditions on their premises had always been made, Mr. Friedman stated.

Yesterday: Exploring the strange underground cavern, Melissa drops the lantern and she and Bob are stranded in utter darkness. Melissa screams!

CHAPTER XIII

"STAND still! Stand absolutely still!"

Robert Barry roared the command like an army major

When the lantern dropped and Mary Melissa had screamed, the two of them had been on the brink of a subterranean cliff. Bob didn't know just how high it was, but he knew it was dangerous. If 'Lissa moved carelessly in her fright, instant tragedy might result.

"It's all right!" he calmed her. "Stand where you are, and I'll come to you."

They had been 15 feet or so apart. Carefully he felt his way through the darkness, talking in soothing tones.

"Oh-h-h-h, I don't know h-how I could have done that!" She trembled when he finally touched her.

"No matter, 'Lissa. Accidents happen to anybody. I should have held the lantern. It was my job, not yours. But there's no harm done. We have others in camp, you know. Five, all together, and plenty of gasoline for them."

She was still trembling, and his arm went around her waist. There in the blackness she felt so utterly little. He held her tight to him, in both arms, petting and comforting her as best he could. In a moment she had her composure again.

"All right?" His voice had his old smile in it.

"Yes, thank you, Bob. But it's the worst fright I ever had."

"Shouldn't wonder. Now we'll take the candles and go back out."

"You have candles?" She was both surprised and delighted.

"Yes. But—"

He didn't complete his answer. Sudden fear chilled him!

Yes, he had brought candles, in his shoulder pack. But—he had forgotten to put the pack back on when they had halted a while ago to rest!

The thought almost appalled him. "Easy now," he calmed himself. This was a new danger, but maybe luck would hold. He could go back to that pack in darkness—maybe!

Maybe!

But he couldn't. And of course he soon had to admit their real plight. He had collected his wits by this time, and tried to speak lightly of it. She didn't answer for a moment or two, then—

"Bob, I'm not frightened now. At least I am no longer nervous about it. But you aren't fooling. We're in a predicament, aren't we?"

He reached out to pat her hand in the darkness.

"Yes," he admitted, huskily, "we are."

She said nothing else then. She merely waited.

"Mary Melissa, I am the masterpiece among fools. I could choke myself with satisfaction." He was not funning about it. He was, rather, in deep despair, condemning himself in all seriousness.

"I won't ask forgiveness," he resumed, "for I don't deserve it. I'm going to try my damndest to get us out of here, but you ought to hate me forever, even if I do. I almost wrecked our expedition plans by swinging from that rope in my haste that day. I can think, but I think sketchily. I am not—not dependable. I'm sorry, and I—"

"Bob!" She squeezed his arm. "Hush it! You are no worse than I. Not as bad. You've been wonderful, all the way through. From the very day I surprised you at Blanco Canyon, when you were expecting a man.

"Bob, I know it wasn't fair to ask you to bring a silly girl on a scientific expedition like this. But you did, and I love—like you tremendously for it, for being a great sport. I admit we are in a jam now, but we're still alive, aren't we—partner?"

Her voice had been soft, liquid. There was no fright evident, no accusation, nothing but sincerity.

It brought a lump of pride for her in Bob Barry's throat. What a girl! He had a sudden mental vision of her beauty, too, and he was almost overcome with emotion, in his sudden wholehearted admiration of her. She hadn't cried, or whimpered, or sniveled. Instead, she had actually comforted him!

In the utter darkness there he threw up his chin, a bit embarrassed with himself, and laughed a little in new confidence.

"The pack," he stated, "ought to be back this way."

They moved at snail pace. Often they crawled on hands and knees, to avoid slipping and falling, also to make feeling with their hands easier. They must—simply must—locate that pack.

Bob strained himself to recreate in his mind the path they took after resting, every turn and every incline. A dozen times he searched his pockets for matches, but they were in the pack, too. He never had smoked; for the first time in his life, now, he regretted it.

"I have a bar of chocolate," he announced, after they had crawled for what seemed hours. "You must be hungry."

"Not at all!" she lied. She knew that chocolate might be doubly precious later. "I couldn't eat now."

He put it back in his pocket. They sat still to rest again, holding hands. He tried to think of some way to make artificial light. But these rocks were not flint. And all they had for tinder would be their clothing. He squeezed her hand, and they began to crawl again.

They hoped against hope, and it was fruitless. Their search continued for what must have been several hours. Each stop for rest made them realize the immensity of the great cavern. They had lost all sense of direction. They lived solely by sense of touch—the only two living things, apparently, in all the universe. Bob remembered the shriveled body near the entrance to the cave and the mummy outside, and smiled a little dryly.

"Keep your chin up, kid," he said once, softly.

"I feel fine," she declared. To prove it she sang a little, and they both laughed. It helped.

"I think the thing to do is take it easy, and conserve the chocolate bar," he announced. "The others will of course start looking for us in a few hours, and have the laugh on us for the rest of the trip."

She laughed, to show confidence. But she didn't feel confident.

'Lissa remembered, and Bob remembered, that only Honey Bee Girl knew of the cave at all. And she had been emphatically ordered not to tell, not to follow. Being a loyal servant, she probably would obey orders, even if they were gone a week or more. She would be just that stupid, they knew. And besides, they had told her they were fully provisioned for as long a stay as necessary. Bob Barry knew it was Indian nature to obey a command to the letter, regardless of developments. It might literally be days before those in camp would start a search, and that would be too late. Bob and 'Lissa were thinking of these things.

She snuggled a bit, just for the comfort of being nearer him. He put his arm around her shoulders and held her close.

"Do you mind," he murmured softly, intently, "if I kiss you?"

"Please do," she whispered.

BUSINESS AND FINANCE IN CANADA FROM BANKERS' VIEWPOINT

How Resources Permit Dominion To Meet The Changing Needs Abroad

Statement Presented to Shareholders Strongest in Past Ten Years, Says Sir Charles Gordon, Bank of Montreal President, who Testifies to Marked Improvement in Canada's Trade

Commenting upon the financial statement presented at the annual meeting of the Bank of Montreal, held at the head office of the Bank in Montreal, on December 6, Sir Charles Gordon said he considered it the strongest which had been presented to the shareholders during the ten years in which he had had the honour of being president. The statement revealed that the Bank had fully participated in the general business recovery of the Dominion, deposits, assets, and current loans all showing a substantial growth during the year, while the net profits, reflecting a moderate increase due to the larger business handled, showed a return of 4.47% on the combined capital, reserves and undivided profits.

SIR CHARLES GORDON, G.B.E.

Sir Charles pointed out that the statement was the 120th presented at annual meetings, and said he was sure the shareholders would share the gratification of the directors in reflecting that never at any time in the 120 years in which the Bank had been active in the affairs of British North America had the pre-eminence of its services to the business life of this country been questioned. He added: "The shareholders may rest assured that every contingency which might arise has been explored and provided for with a view to maintaining the position so long held by our institution in the very front rank of the banks of this continent."

BUSINESS CONDITIONS IN CANADA

Passing on to a review of general industry and commerce in the Dominion during the year, the President said that taken on the whole business conditions had been much improved, and were a happy contrast with the conditions of but two years ago, the one really serious setback being in those portions of the Prairie Provinces where drought caused total or partial failure of the crops. "Were Canada as dependent as it formerly was upon the cash returns derived from the export of wheat," he said, "the fact that this year's crop of that commodity falls so far short of the average would be calamitous. As matters stand, however, this partial failure of our greatest cash crop is partly offset from the national standpoint by the higher price for this year's crop and by the fact that the general crops in every other part of Canada have been, on the whole, remarkably good. Also, perhaps even more important is the fact that Canada has been demonstrating in the past year a remarkable resiliency in productive enterprise."

As one instance of the latter, he cited the marked increase in the discovery and production of gold in response to the world demand for the metal. Continuing, he said: "The rapid progress that is being made in every form of mechanical operation and in the use of all kinds of manufactures of metal, combined with the demands caused by the armament programmes of the larger nations, has centred attention upon Canada as one of the leading producers of one of the most valuable industrial metals, viz., nickel, zinc, copper, lead and aluminum, and other metals used in steel alloys. Canada's response has been such that with the exception of iron this country is now the world's largest exporter of base metals.

"Then the housing programmes which have been undertaken on an unprecedented scale by nations abroad have found Canada responding by large increases in the export of lumber and other building products such as asbestos and gypsum.

"Similarly, the rise of large-scale industries for the manufacture from pulpwood of a wide variety of new materials, of which at the moment artificial silk is perhaps the most spectacular, has found a response in Canada in the production for export of increasing quantities of high-grade bleached sulphite, the raw material of these new industries. The greatly increased demand for newsprint has been reflected in Canada in the past year in record production and export of that commodity, which for years has been the largest manufactured product in our export trade.

"It is this resiliency, so variously expressed, that endows this country with so great a capacity for recuperation.

CANADA'S MANUFACTURES NOW WORTH THREE BILLION

Sir Charles observed that until recently Canada was regarded as a country devoted almost entirely to agriculture. Today agriculture provided 35 per cent. of the exports, and other forms of industry the balance. Canada now employed 600,000 people in 30,000 workshops, mills and factories, and the annual value of its manufactured products amounted to more than three billion dollars.

"The needs and the interests of the large portion of our population whose livelihood is directly dependent upon these operations", he said, "must be taken into consideration by those upon whom devolves the administration of the affairs of this country."

EMPLOYMENT CLOSE TO ALL-TIME RECORD

Turning to the employment situation, Sir Charles remarked that the upturn which occurred a year ago had continued at a rapidly accelerating rate. "In fact," he said, "the level of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics wage-earning employment index on October 1st last reached practically the point at which it stood on the same date in 1929. The physical volume of production is also almost up to the 1929 level.

The construction industry all over the country, he said, had shown a considerable measure of recovery this year, but it was still not by any means up to the 1928-1929 level.

Residential construction work had, Sir Charles said, been stimulated both by a greater use of the Dominion Housing Act and by the Home Improvement Plan, which later, with the co-operation of the banks, had done all that was expected to bring about greater activity in hundreds of centres throughout the country and compared most favourably with results obtained in the United States in the same period of time.

GROWING FOREIGN TRADE

Sir Charles observed that the decided betterment in Canadian business during the past year was due to the revival of foreign business, which had been growing by leaps and bounds.

For the first seven months of the present fiscal year, April to October inclusive, the total of this trade amounted to $1,183,000,000, with a favorable balance of $176,000,000. This total of trade showed an increase of $199,000,000 as compared with the similar period of 1936.

The latest figures available, he said, indicated that for the calendar year exports and imports would attain a total approaching two billion dollars, of which some $320,000,000, or practically one million dollars for every working day, would represent a balance favourable to Canada, and necessary to her as a debtor country.

He noted, however, that until the next harvest there would be but comparatively small exports of grain, that export figures for metals would be affected if the present lower prices continued, and that in regard to the export of newsprint to the United States the market outlook was not clear.

Commenting on the fact that no less than four-fifths of Canada's trade was with the United Kingdom and the United States, he observed that in the 12 months ended September 30, Canada's trade with the United States was around $395,000,000 greater than her trade with Great Britain, due to the fact that Canada buys more largely from the United States. For years trade with the latter country showed a heavy balance unfavorable to this country, thereby greatly complicating exchange difficulties. For the 12 months mentioned, however, the balance, allowing for exports of gold totalling $107,000,000 showed a balance favourable to Canada of about $24,000,000.

The speaker followed with a reference to present disturbed business conditions in the United States, and quoted a New York authority to the effect that what the country most needed was a rest from the programme of reform which had been pushed so rapidly in recent years.

CANADA'S LEADERSHIP IN INTERNATIONAL ECONOMIC CO-OPERATION

Sir Charles observed with satisfaction that while such a large proportion of Canada's trade was with Great Britain and the United States, neither our Government nor our business men were neglecting opportunities to further trade with other countries.

"Our newsprint producers, for example," he remarked, "are building up for themselves a position of importance in a variety of overseas markets and are now steadily exporting their product to over 30 countries. Within the past two years formal trade arrangements have been concluded by the Government with not less than fifteen countries, and negotiations are proceeding for similar trade expansion agreements with others.

"Today, Canada claims the distinction of being one of the few countries in the world which employ no trade quotas, no exchange restrictions and no embargoes other than those associated with the traffic in arms. If the remedy for world-wide civil and international strife lies in international economic co-operation, as I believe it does, then Canada, I think it can be said, is doing its full share in leadership along that line."

BRITAIN'S BUSINESS ADVANCEMENT

Speaking of his visit this year to Great Britain, the President said, "business there undoubtedly was in a healthy condition, with greater industrial activity and more people engaged in gainful occupations than at any time in the country's history.

"It would be a mistake," he remarked, "to ascribe this wholly to the rearmament programme. Undoubtedly that is a contributory factor, but the real basis of the revival is to be found elsewhere.

"Primarily, the revival began with the adoption by the National Government of a tariff that gave reasonable protection to industries and made it possible for them to compete in the domestic market with the products of the cheap labour of foreign lands, where lower standards of living prevail. By securing to domestic industries the home market, the foundation was laid for larger unit production at lower costs in spite of advancing prices for raw materials and labour—an advantage in both the home and foreign markets.

"Then the Government, by balancing its budget and by stabilizing the pound sterling in all countries with which Great Britain does business, created a condition which has brought about a notable expansion in export trade. Also, Great Britain has established an efficient and scientific system for dealing with unemployment and has not been content with putting a measure for unemployment relief on the statute books and letting it go at that.

"Then of no less importance is the policy of the British Government not to hedge private enterprise around with repressive conditions but to encourage it in every way possible. They have gone on the principle that the more money private enterprises make the larger are the contributions of commercial and industrial organizations and of their shareholders to the national treasury in the way of income taxes.

"In this connection may be mentioned the many thousands of companies operating not only in Great Britain but in all parts of the world, which, being domiciled in London, contribute to the Imperial Exchequer. These factors have made it possible for the Chancellor to balance the budget with ease as well as to provide this year's quota for the rearmament programme."

Enumerating other economic factors by which the British Government had assisted business, Sir Charles added: "Many of the changes which I have mentioned have taken years to accomplish, and many amendments have been made to acts which have been on the statute books for years. This has meant the building up of a Civil Service competent to administer all the various activities of the Government dealing with unemployment, old age pensions and the regulation of the finances of the counties and towns in an orderly manner by the Treasury. I mention these profits because we have a Royal Commission to investigate such questions and there are many matters of this kind with which that Commission may be called upon to deal."

RAILWAYS AND TAXATION

Reverting to conditions at home, Sir Charles observed that while the year had been one of great improvement in trade and in employment and in the finances of the central government, there were two factors which still drained much too large a proportion of the country's national income into unproductive channels.

The first was what he termed the most uneconomic situation which existed in regard to the railways, and the second the heavy and over-lapping taxation which burdened every form of business enterprise and which as applied to individuals meant that few people had any surplus funds to invest in new enterprises.

"The return on investment in the Canadian railways," Sir Charles said, "remains entirely inadequate and yet the economic waste resulting from the competitive operation of the nation's two great railway systems has continued unabated. It is to be particularly regretted that the taxpayers of the country should be burdened with unnecessary expenditure for railway losses at a time when general taxation for unemployment relief and other essential government services is so heavy and economy in public expenditure vitally necessary."

Sir Charles believed, however, that there was accumulating evidence of a more widespread understanding that a sound solution of the railway problem was required to create confidence in the future of Canada.

"This is a hopeful feature," he said, "for with understanding of the serious implications of the present situation should come determination to put into effect those remedial measures which are necessary and indeed in the long run inevitable."

REVENUE AND TAXATION

With regard to taxation, the President said it was highly encouraging to note that despite the drain of the national railways on the country's revenue, the betterment in our national finances had been such that Treasury officials now hoped that a balanced budget might be consummated at the end of the present fiscal year.

"This," he said, "is the goal toward which the present government set itself when it took office two years ago, and better progress has been made than the most sanguine then dared to anticipate. We may hope that in due time the improvement will be reflected in a decrease in taxation; it certainly will be reflected in the strengthening of the whole credit structure of this country."

In concluding his remarks, Sir Charles, while not attempting a forecast on the Canadian business outlook, expressed his confidence in Canada's "remarkable capacity for recovery," which, if not affected unduly by international disturbances would, he felt, mean a continuance of the better times which Canadians had experienced during the past year.

Canada Has Remarkable Capacity For Recovery Says Sir Charles Gordon

In his closing remarks to shareholders of the Bank of Montreal at their recent annual meeting, Sir Charles Gordon, president, said, "In the year under review Canada has demonstrated a remarkable capacity for recovery.

"As to what the future may hold for us, he would be a brave man who would attempt a forecast in regard to the outlook for this or any other country. Of late, the question has arisen as to whether democracy, with its heritage of justice and freedom, is to survive. It survives in Britain and was never stronger there than now. But we have seen it disappearing in other countries and have observed warning signs that we are not immune on this continent to the influences which have destroyed it elsewhere.

"Against these influences we in Canada must guard ourselves if we are to preserve the foundations of our freedom and our well-being.

"In the international field the year now closing has been one of numerous alarms, the outcome of some of which is still obscure; but on the other hand, there are many who feel, as I do, that the sanity of the leading nations under such good leadership as Great Britain has endeavored to exercise will prevail, that order will be brought out of the present international chaos and that major disturbances such as have been threatened from time to time will be avoided.

"Given an absence of such disturbances, with the natural accompaniment of a fair demand from foreign sources for the products raising from its abundant natural resources, Canada has good reason to expect a continuance of the better times which we have witnessed during the past twelve months."

Bank Taking Full Part In Aiding Canada's Industries

BANK OF MONTREAL'S 120th ANNUAL MEETING

General Managers Point Out Demand for Loans Still Below Normal—Public's Deposits of $681,000,000 Actual and Not "Fountain Pen Money"—Wider Distribution of Government Bonds Desirable

A comprehensive survey of the Bank's operations and of the trends in general business, in investment and in government financing, was given by Jackson Dodds, on behalf of himself and his fellow general manager, G. W. Spinney, in presenting the 120th annual balance sheet.

Recounting the more important changes in the figures as compared with a year ago, he commented particularly on the increase of $23,200,000 in current loans, which now stand at a total of $182,500,000, and remarked that for all the banks the increases in current loans for the year amounted to $75,500,000. This increase was welcome, said Mr. Dodds, but was not commensurate with the growth in the volume of business and improvement in commodity prices.

On the basis of the usual relationship between the trend of loans and volume of business, commodity prices considered, the banks in September, 1937, he said, should have been able to report commercial loans at about 92 per cent. of the total in September, 1929. Actually, the total was only 55 per cent. of the 1929 figure.

Pointing out that the ratio of the Bank's investments to deposits was 60 per cent., Mr. Dodds said: "This is much higher than we would like it to be; we would prefer to have a larger proportion of our funds out in loans for productive and business purposes. But it is beyond the power of a commercial bank to increase at will its total of safe loans; the initiative lies with the borrowers. A commercial bank cannot afford to have idle money on its hands beyond the amount required to meet ordinary withdrawals and for cash reserve purposes."

MANY FACTORS IN LOAN SITUATION NOT TEMPORARY

In considering the various factors which had contributed to the reduced demand for banking accommodation, Mr. Dodds said that it must be recognized that many of them are not of a passing nature.

"On the other hand," he pointed, "thanks to invention and scientific research, new industries are always coming into being, resulting in new sources of business for the banks.

"One does not need to look back many years to the birth of the automobile and motion picture industries, aeroplane building, radio, rayon and cellophane manufacturing, the providing of homes with electric appliances and artificial refrigeration, and the introduction of air-conditioning — to mention only a few. Yesterday's luxuries are today's necessities and the same will be said tomorrow.

"During the past 120 years the Bank of Montreal has kept abreast of the changing times, consistently taking its full part in aiding basic productive pursuits, old and new industries, trade and commerce. Banking is an essential part of the intricate machinery of industry and business—in addition to supplementing capital employed, commercial banks provide many other necessary facilities and services, at a cost to clients which represents relatively their smallest item in operating expense.

BANK'S ASSETS 79.58% LIQUID

The assets of the Bank, standing at $829,600,000, were the highest since 1929. Of this amount $590,000,000 represented quickly available resources, equal to 79.53% of liabilities to the public, amounting to $752,736,000.

The large portion of liquid assets is made up of investments which, not exceeding market value, amount to $437,700,000. Included in this total are Dominion and Provincial government securities, $344,900,000.

"This extremely strong position," said Mr. Dodds, "is beyond ordinary needs and reflects the fact that the demand of our customers for loans for commercial purposes is still considerably below normal."

DEPOSITS SHOW INCREASE

Among other highlights, the statement presented by the general manager showed that depostis by the public had increased by $28,000,000 to $681,000,000. Commenting on this item, Mr. Dodds said: "Despite all that is written and said nowadays on the subject of 'loans creating deposits,' 'fountain pen money' and 'monetizing' assets, including what is described as 'our cultural heritage,' it is safe to say that not one of our customers, whose balances make up our total of deposits by the public, has any doubt whatsoever as to how his or her deposit came into being."

PROFITS SHOW MODERATE INCREASE

The profit and loss account showed net earnings, after deducting Dominion and Provincial taxes, at $3,406,328, as compared with $3,181,501 in 1936—an increase of $226,827.

In commenting on profits, Mr. Dodds pointed out that Dominion and Provincial taxes for the year, without taking into consideration taxes paid to municipalities, amounted to over 27 per cent. of the Bank's net profits, or over 32 per cent. of the dividend.

TRADE AND COMMERCE

Turning to the industrial and business life of Canada, Mr. Dodds said: "Business activity continued to show, during the first eight months in 1937, striking increases over the respective parallel periods in 1936. Nevertheless, recession appeared this year three months earlier than it did last year.

"This earlier decline was due to various factors, including lower exports of wheat, of which Canada has relatively little to sell this year, and lower prices latterly for basic exports. Both exports and imports exceed last year's figures, but the rise in imports has been more rapid than the rise in exports—and exports have recently fallen off from preceding months—with the result that for several months the excess of exports over imports has been substantially less than in the comparable months of 1936, although the increase this year in revenues from tourist traffic may have restored the balance.

"The mining industry, despite lower prices now ruling for base metals, should make a profitable showing, having had the benefit of a higher level of prices for the greater part of the year; gold production to the end of September exceeded last year's by over 9%. Forest industries have been actively employed; there has been a reduction in the number of employables on relief; and car loadings, until recently, showed wide advances over 1936."

HOME IMPROVEMENT PLAN

Commenting on the Home Improvement Plan, the general manager said: "Taking into consideration that the plan was not launched until near the end of 1936 and little outdoor work was possible until the spring of 1937, the fact that about 30,000 individual loans were made to October 31, augurs well for the success of the plan.

"The effect on unemployment and the economic life of Canada cannot but be beneficial, and we are happy to have been able to aid the efforts of the government in this direction. We have given our full co-operation and you will be interested to learn that of all loans granted under the plan, over one-fifth has been made by the Bank of Montreal."

INVESTMENT MARKET INCREASINGLY RESTRICTED

On the subject of investments, the general manager said that the market for high grade bonds was becoming increasingly restricted and the absence of wide distribution of new issues more and more apparent.

"The low yields," he observed, "have failed to attract private investors, many of whom have drifted into speculative issues, in some cases with unfortunate results. A wider distribution of government issues is most desirable, not only from the point of view of encouraging thrift and a potential wider market in times of stress, but in order to maintain an identity of interests between the citizen and the state.

"This would make for a higher sense of responsibility on the part of the citizen and result in less pressure being brought to bear on governments to spend public moneys.

"The recent appointment of a Royal Commission on Dominion-Provincial Relations," he continued, "affords an opportunity to all qualified bodies and individuals to assist by submitting carefully prepared contributions for study and consideration by the Royal Commission in the hope that a way may be found to arrest the growth of government debt, the duplication of functions of governments and the overlapping of taxation."

FUTURE DEVELOPMENTS DIFFICULT TO DISCERN

Passing to the world situation, Mr Dodds expressed the feeling that at no time perhaps had it been more diffiult than at present to review developments adequately and to see into the immediate future.

"During the past year international problems have continued to complicate the general situation," he continued. "Arming is general and Britain's prime minister said recently that until the world returns to sanity there can be no halt in the process of rearming Great Britain.

"National aspirations and the economic difficulties which the French government continues to make strenuous efforts to overcome are also sources of concern. On the other hand, mainly through the strong and determined attitude of Great Britain, serious international complications over the Spanish War have so far been avoided.

"In world trade there has been a definite upswing during the past two years from the low levels of the crisis period, but though the trend is more favourable, much remains to be achieved in the revival of international commerce."

HIGH PRAISE FOR EMPLOYEES

In concluding his remarks, the general manager paid high tribute to the staff. "In point of esprit de corps, loyalty, courtesy and efficiency," he said, "the staff cannot but be a matter of pride and satisfaction to you as shareholders. The Bank's most valuable asset does not appear in the balance sheet—its most profitable investment is the care and attention devoted to the selection, training and welfare of the staff."

In discussing staff matters, Mr. Dodds said that young men entering the Bank's service became members of the Bank of Montreal Pension Fund Society and had the satisfaction of knowing that they would be provided for upon retirement from active duty or, on a proportionate basis, any time after ten years' service if incapacitated.

"In addition," the general manager said, "the fund provides for widows and minor children. Group life insurance at low premium rates is available to members of our staff and a considerable portion of the cost is borne by the Bank. When sick, generous leave of absence is granted with pay and it is a rule of the Bank that annual vacations must be taken. There is also group accident and sickness insurance at low premium rates available to the staff.

"Permanency of employment, in particular, is a feature of this Bank's policy. Surplus officers during depression periods are not discharged to join the ranks of the unemployed, and resignations are requested only in the event of dishonesty or incompetency."

Confidence Expressed In Future Of Alberta

"Observers at a distance are apt to misjudge Alberta and its citizens by the present state of affairs there," said Jackson Dodds, general manager of the Bank of Montreal, at the institution's recent annual meeting.

"It is," he continued, "one of the most richly endowed provinces but in the midst of its vast natural resources there has been in some districts virtual destitution and despair. Efforts made to cope with such a situation on practical lines are necessarily slow in producing noticeable results, and distracted people fall easy prey to promises of quick relief from their trouble.

"In the case of Alberta, before the disorganized sound majority of electors realized it, the province was committed to a quixotic adventure.

"The cost of that 'experiment,' as it has been called, cannot be calculated in terms of money alone, and it is not unlikely that the chief sufferers will be the very people it promised to help. It is to be hoped that there may be a compensating gain in the lesson to be learned by those who would wreck the established order of things; imperfect though it may be, it has taken many centuries of constructive effort to build up.

"Our confidence in the ultimate return of normal conditions in Alberta cannot be better expressed than by saying that we have endeavoured to continue doing business as usual at our branches in that province, where we have thousands of valued customers."

HOLUB YOUTH CLUB SCHEME FINDS FAVOR

First meeting of the Federation of Community Leagues since the new slate of officers was elected in November, was held in the Civic Block, Thursday evening.

E. C. Holub, delegate to the Federation from the Cromdale League, outlined to members, a plan which he has in mind to interest the youth of this city in outside projects. Originated in Vancouver, the "G" Club, is an organization for boys and girls from the age of 8 to 18, which is of an educational character and teaches the children various forms of handicrafts, and vocations.

Some of the Federation delegates opposed the name of the club saying that it sounded too much of crime, but in the main, they were in favor of the general idea, and left the meeting with the instructions from L. Lloyd Jones, president of the Federation, to discuss this plan with their individual leagues and report back next month. Meantime it will be discussed at an executive meeting next week.

T. R. Blain, provincial superintendent of Child's Welfare and Mothers' Allowance, was guest speaker of the evening. Mr. Blain endorsed the plan of Mr. Holub saying that he "favored anything tending to the welfare of the growing generation" and that the name didn't matter much, it was the spirit behind the movement that did matter. Mr. Blain as superintendent of the province in Child's welfare has 1300 wards.

W. G. McConachie, past-president of the Calder League was elected chairman of the Civic committee in place of R. O. Bird.

Calder community league has requested that members of the Federation come to the next meeting prepared to discuss the "Ward System" of the city.

30 M.P.H. LIMIT B.C. TOWN SPEED

VICTORIA, Dec. 10. — British Columbians will be casting a wary eye behind for traffic patrolmen if they're going faster than 30 miles an hour through cities, towns or villages.

Amendments to the present Motor Vehicles Act were given third reading in the British Columbia legislature Thursday. They provide a speed limit of 30 miles an hour in organized territory, to replace the "common danger" clause in the old statute.

Under the common danger clause, there was no set speed limit, but responsibility for proving they were not driving to the common danger rested on motorists.

Measles Rage Sibbald Area

SIBBALD, Alta., Dec. 10.—The first time in 14 years an epidemic of measles is rampant in Sibbald and district.

There are 30 cases in the town and about the same number in the surrounding district. Many adults, too, have been stricken with the disease.

The epidemic here follows on that recently swept the neighboring towns of Oyen, Benton, Acadia Valley and Alsask.

H. S. Operetta Is Worthy Effort

"Windmills of Holland are turning, turning around and around ..." resounded through the assembly hall of Victoria high school Thursday evening, for the second time in the history of the school. Exactly eight years ago, it was the late Elmer L. Luck who produced the "Windmills of Holland" by Otis M. Carrington, and now W. R. Baker has built a fine monument to a fine man in reproducing this famous operetta, which was the initial venture of Victoria in this field.

Entirely produced by the students of Victoria, including make-up costumes and properties, it was indeed a worthy effort. The colorful costumes against a realistic background of Dutch mills and bulging dykes, were a pageant of loveliness. The bright lilting music raised by the young voices of members of the Victoria High School Music club, was clear and true.

FINE PERFORMANCE

Mynheer Hertogenbosch, the village mill-owner, was played exceptionally well by Don Warner, who gave this character a certain jollity and self-satisfied feeling appreciated especially by the younger members of the audience. His deep voice carried the heavy role well; and he was nicely supported by his wife Vrouw Hertogenbosch, played by Leota Ion.

If one could pick out any one person that turned in even more than a good performance, we might choose Sally Kelly, the daughter of the Hertogenbosch's. Sally's flute-like voice could be heard from the farthest corner of the hall; and her portrayal of the discontented daughter who seeks excitement by flirting with a young American tourist was excellent.

Pat Polinsbee, well-known in dramatic circles here, made his debut in the musical world, in the role of Bob Yankee, the conceited young "drummer" who drummed up business in the small Dutch town by trying to sell the owners of the mills, his new-fangled machine to pump the water in place of their picturesque windmills.

SANG WITH FEELING

A word must be said about Olive Beck, who played Hilda, the sulky sister of Wilhelmina, younger daughter of the Hertogenbosch's. Even in her songs she showed a feeling which conveyed to the audience the tempest that was raging within her.

Alex Soukeroff and Cecil Feldman, playing Franz and Hans, sweethearts of Hilda and Wilhelmina and Madge Bryant as Katrina, completed the cast.

A chorus consisting almost entirely of grade ten students supported the principal players. It included: Anna Anderson, Beatrice Bassett, James Brower, Natalie Ewashuk, Marcia Garrett, Marion Ingram, Jean Kelly, Helen Nicoll, Jean Reilly, Francis Thompson, Betty Winslow, Marge Bryant, Joy Brown, Maxine Brower, Doris Farquharson, Mary Gardiner, Iris Kennedy, Beatrice McCreath, Norma Nicholson, Kay Speers, Elaine Webster, Marjorie Thompson.

The school symphony orchestra, also under the direction of Mr. Baker, supplied the music for the presentation. It consisted of: Violins, Mollie Rosenberg, Frances Bell, Helen Selwood, Horace Pixie, John Cameron; clarinet, Ray Toby; cornets, Don Ball, Art Craig, Allan Bryce; trombone, Ernest Nix, Graham Smith; E b saxophone, Evan Wolfe; pianist, Noma Downie.

BEHIND THE SCENES

Others instrumental in making Victoria's operetta a success were: Business managers: Betty Sands, Bob McBeth; back stage crew: Jack Bassett, Bob Blythe; stage and properties: June Cramer, Betty Rentaul, Fern Leveille; make-up: Gwendoline Sellers, Helen McCarthy; director: Mr. W. R. Baker; dancers; Eloise—F.J.F.

TEA PARTY HAS PRETTY SETTING OF GREEN, GOLD

With an attractive decorative scheme in the club colors of green and gold carried out in the rooms and on the tables, the Alberta Avenue Ladies' Curling club tea room presented a pretty scene when members entertained at their annual tea on Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. L. G. Beecroft received the guests who indulged in a few friendly games before tea. Pouring for the first hour were Mrs. John W. Fraser and Mrs. F. Mercer, president of the Northern Alberta Curling Association, while Mrs. M. W. Fyffe and Mrs. Harry Hunter shared the honors during the second.

Assisting in the passing of tea were Mrs. Mary MacDonald, a visitor from Scotland, Mrs. G. Willson, Mrs. D. McLean, Mrs. D. M. Rae and Mrs. S. Lee. Conveners were Mrs. Charles Cameron, Mrs. R. I. Smith and Mrs. A. O. MacLachlan.

In behalf of the guests Mrs. L. Calhoun, president of the Royal Club thanked members of the Alberta Avenue Club for their hospitality.

Between Lectures

Merry clink of silver resounding in the contribution box, the busy hum of telephones—and the pile grows bigger and bigger, assuring many others that Santa Claus will be a visitor on Christmas Eve. Popular innovation on the part of the Students' Union at the University is a Christmas fund, which adds to the efforts of the president, Mr. Archie McEwen, is claiming the interest of all members of the Green and Gold who are responding in a gallant way to this method of increasing Christmas cheer for others.

In conjunction with the fund many charity functions have been held and the latest, a mock tin fund thermometer is a sweepstake, the lucky winner of which will receive a year's subscription to a popular magazine.

Christmas Is Busy Season For I.O.D.E.

Bringing of Christmas to the families of needy veterans in the outlying districts of Alberta, and the sending with the bundles of provisions and comforts in the gay Christmas hampers, a message of hope and cheer . . . this is the task members of the Elizabeth Mowat chapter of the I.O.D.E. have set themselves.

Just how far they have already advanced in their work was disclosed at a meeting of the chapter in the Macdonald hotel one evening this week.

Donations of fifty dollars for these hampers, ten dollars to a family in Edmonton, of twenty-five dollars to the child welfare work at the Y.W.C.A. and of five dollars to the children's party at the "Y" were reported by the secretary, Mrs. E. Shelmerdine.

Mrs. Stuart Johnstone, regent, presided during the meeting. Donations to the Navy League, to the Maternity Assistance Fund and to the work in India, were also reported made.

Arrangements were made for members of the chapter to assist with the displays of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, now being viewed in the Hudson's Bay Company store.

LODGE PLANS FULL PROGRAM FOR DECEMBER

The pre-Christmas season, so busy and active for club women in Edmonton, is finding members of the Western Rose, L.O.B.A. lodge, No. 125, concentrating on last minute preparations for their Christmas program of meetings and work.

Members of the lodge assembling in the Orange hall in 114 street, on Thursday evening, heard of the arrangements for their display of work and home baking which will be held in the market, on Saturday, Dec. 18. Mrs. A. Gilfillan was appointed supervisor of the home-baking booths, and Mrs. W. Watson for the tables of sewing.

Mrs. W. Mowat, worthy mistress, presided during the meeting, and spoke of the successful tea recently held at her home had been.

Plans for the next meeting which will be held in the Christmas week were made, and it was decided that the installation of officers would take place then. During the meeting, the Scarlet Degree will be exemplified, it was announced.

Winner of the lovely set of linen donated by Mrs. P. Adamson was announced to be Mrs. J. Murray.

Refreshments were served later in the evening by Mrs. J. Lister and her committee.

Women's Curling

GRANITE

Successful once more in retaining their proud possession, the Ramsey Cup, members of the Granite Curling Club met challengers from the Royal Rink in play on the Granite rink on Thursday afternoon. Royal Club skips include Mrs. A. Bonneau and Mrs. R. Miller, while those of the Granite Club were Mrs. W. C. Pullyblank and Mrs. B. J. Tunney.

Pan-American Union Is Discussed

Interesting discussion on the subject of the Pan-American Union occupied the attention of members of the Edmonton branch of the League of Nations Society in Canada when they held their monthly meeting in the Arts building of the University of Alberta recently. Leaders of the discussion were Mrs. H. C. Newlands, Mrs. Louise Young and Mr. D. R. Innes.

An outline of the Pan-American Union, its members and objects was given by Mrs. Newlands, following which Mr. Innes dealt with the political and economic aspect of the Union, showing how many of the South American republics were very closely connected with Europe and influenced considerably from that continent. He also dealt with the influence of this union in Canada.

It was decided that the topic of discussion for the January meeting will be the possibility of Canada entering the Pan-American Union.

Curling Club Members Are Tea Hostesses

Friendly gesture of courtesy to their many friends and play-associates in the city was extended on Thursday afternoon when members of the Granite Ladies' Curling Club invited the president of each Edmonton club and the members of one rink from each club to be their guests at tea. Spacious rooms of their club, gaily decorated tastefully in the club colors of red and grey was the setting for the affair.

Members of the Royal Club who were playing on the Granite rink during the afternoon were invited to remain for tea.

Mrs. F. R. Munshaw, president of the club, graciously welcomed the guests who called.

Crimson toned carnations and green fern lent their charm and color to the attractively appointed tea table, which, laid in lace and silver, was lighted by the glow from tall tapers. Mrs. S. Gilmour presided in the tea room, and sharing honors over the tea cups were Mrs. T. R. Thomson and Mrs. F. A. Mercer, president of the Ladies' Curling Association.

Assisting with entertaining and serving the sixty guests who were present were Mrs. H. G. Clarke, Mrs. J. Gordon, Mrs. C. W. Horner, Mrs. Oscar Watt, Mrs. Abram and Mrs. F. N. Lett.

Presiding at the meeting was Mrs. E. Watson, in the absence of the president, Mrs. Roy Kingsbury.

Mrs. W. Lewis presided during the devotional hour of worship.

Questionaire on a topic suggested in the Blue Book was led by Mrs. C. W. R. Scouten and later Miss Daynard read another interesting chapter from the study book.

Press Club Meeting Ends Happy Year

Bringing to a close the varied social and business activities which have strengthened even further during the past year the bond existing between them by reason of their interest and occupation, members of the Edmonton Branch of the Canadian Women's Press Club met on Thursday evening at the home of Miss Isabel MacMillan in 112 street.

One particularly important entry in the Press Club diary for 1936-1937 was that of July 17, when members were privileged to entertain Her Excellency Lady Tweedsmuir at luncheon in the Macdonald hotel. As a most pleasant reminder of this most pleasant occasion, members received only recently a beautifully autographed photograph of Canada's first lady.

MISS ISABEL MacMILLAN

Other guests at happy parties arranged during the year have included Hilda Hesson, internationally known traveller; Mr. W. H. Clarke, president of the Clarke-Irwin publishing company in Toronto, and Mrs. Clarke; Kathleen Strange, the prize-winning novelist of Winnipeg; Mrs. M. T. H. Alexander, newspaper woman from Vancouver; Miriam Green Ellis, of Montreal; Mrs. Hubbard Ellis, P.R.G.S., of London, England; and a woman explorer, and Thomas Way.

Succeeding Mrs. E. Perren Baker, Mrs. Ottawa Agnew, to whom members expressed deepest appreciation for her splendid leadership of the past year, and Miss Isabel MacMillan was unanimously voted to the presidency of the club at the annual meeting.

Miss Eugenie Butler and Dr. Donalda Dickie were chosen first and second vice-presidents; Mrs. Miriam Elston, treasurer; Mrs. J. H. Acheson, representative on the Exhibition Board; and Miss Dorothy Howey, social convener, and Miss Naomi Lang, secretary.

Mrs. Ray was elected to act as correspondent to the Newspaper, official organ of the Canadian Women's Press Club.

Community Leagues

Election of officers for the coming year will engage the attention of members of the Highlands Community League when they meet in the Highlands School on Friday evening. At the same time a social will commence at eight o'clock several important community topics will be discussed and all of the friends of the league interested are invited to be present.

Riding Club Plans Winter Party

Already, mention of interesting parties to be held in the New Year is being made and anticipating the approach of St. Valentine's Day in February, members of the Edmonton Riding and Driving Club meeting one evening recently at the home of Mrs. W. S. Gray, appointed Mrs. Gray, Mrs. J. Strachan, Mrs. D. Hobson and Miss Norma Russell, conveners of the party, to be held in the early part of the month.

Mrs. Gordon Logie presided during the meeting and introduced the guest of the evening, Mr. Jack Burns, who recently was a winner in the Winter Fair in Toronto. His brother, Mr. Robert Burns, is a member of the club, also won distinction at the Fair.

Mr. Stuart Sherman gave an interesting talk on the part played by Arabian horses in the founding and developing of modern breeds of horses.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Brown will entertain members of the club at their meeting in January, it was announced.

Send Gifts Off In Gala Dress This Christmas

Remember how pleased you were the moment you opened that small bottle of sachet Aunt Emma sent last year and how you weren't much impressed with your hostess gown until three days after Christmas? Remember, also, that the little gift was wrapped in the handsomest red paper and white satin ribbon you ever had seen, while the big one came in a drab grey box and was pretty wrinkled, its wrinkles only slightly less deep than the ones in the white tissue paper around it? Remember?

VERY IMPORTANT

Then and there you resolved never again to forget how important Christmas wrappings are. You said you'd spend some time and thought on colored papers, ribbons, seals and stickers this year. Well, how about it? Have you been picking up any old roll of paper, or a bit of ribbon there, shopping haphazardly instead of sensibly as you go for gifts themselves? Then stop it. This is the year of years to send your presents off in gala dress. Never have wrappings been so utterly beautiful.

Blue is the outstanding color favorite. From pale sky-blue (try burgundy ribbon and sky-blue paper) to navy and royal ones, blue forms the background for many an interesting pattern.

Brown and gold combinations are favorites of the sophisticated. Brown paper and brown ribbon make an effective package. Consider, too, double sheets of red cellulose filled with silver bows of the same material; heavy foil in silvery green with gold ribbon; black paper with narrow red and white ribbons, tied around and around in the effect; wine paper with silver pink bows.

If you can gather together a few large pine cones or tiny branches of pine needles, tie these atop your packages. To scour the countryside for running pine, make miniature wreaths of the vine-like stuff and put one on each box.

Seals and enclosure cards at the same time you pick out papers and ribbon. The newest enclosure cards have extra sheets of blank paper inside. On these you write a real note whether you have anything to say or not.

Seals are used with rich effect, echoing the season's taste for metallics. Rectangular and silver plaques are impressive. Tall gold and silver Christmas tree seals are also attractive than formerly. A striking holly seal is about six inches long, with silver leaves and berries indicated by three-inch circles of red and silver.

In more serious mood, there are stunning gold plaques, showing the Madonna and Child in relief. Stars of gold and silver continue in vogue, but the newest way is to use them to superimpose one on top of the other or to pile several little silver stars on a large gold one.

Grooming Preparations Will Please Everyone; Are The Most Beautiful Gifts Of All

Regardless of her age, size, height or weight—no matter who she is, where she came from or where she's going—every woman wants beauty gifts for Christmas. For that matter, her brother, father, husband, children or best beau will be delighted with "beauty" aids. From a brand new perfume "to wear only with black" (for the sophisticate) to a new men's set of lotions in masculine-looking, pottery bottles, there's an appropriate beauty preparation for each person on your list.

Sumptuous and smart is a face powder ensemble, containing two shades of powder, one to be applied atop the other, and a brush to help one do the blending job successfully.

BATH SET

From the same house comes a truly handsome bath set, including a giant cake of soap, toilet water, bath powder and bath salts, all scented with a subtly sweet perfume. An especially generous gesture would be to include a small bottle of perfume in the same odor.

There are dozens of new perfumes on the market, not to mention all the old favorites in new bottles and packages. Three sweet little bottles are packed together beneath a Christmas bell.

A huge cake of bath soap nestles inside a Santa Claus mask. A wonderful cologne comes in a bottle which simulates a brandy decanter. A quart size champagne bottle contains cologne liquid for the bath and is packed in a wine basket. In a wicker steamer basket are perfume, a decanter of cologne, a lipstick and bath powder. Three bottles of perfume go in a small metal crate, and can be locked in.

FOR GRANDMA AND BABY, TOO

If she's over 40, and one of your best friends, a de luxe night cream, preferably one of the new varieties that tend to eradicate fine lines and wrinkles, will delight her on Christmas and for weeks thereafter.

What A Conical Idea

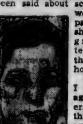

Don't get this confused with a funny fashion. It's conical, not comical, and is fashioned by fascinating ladies as a very effective addition for a wedding attendant's costume. The bridesmaid at a smart London marriage wears a stiff veil draped in conical lines from a flower headdress which matches the bouquet of dark roses she carries.

Your Children

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

One hates to harp too long on one string, and so much has been broadcast about scolding children, that an added remark seems futile. But really, in spite of all that has been said about scolding children, we still hear impatient mothers shrieking their grievances and telling children that they are hopeless.

O. R. Barton

Do you mind if I go all over it again? Most mothers know now that scolding is an enemy to good behavior, rather than a help. And that although there are times to be short and business-like, there are more times to be the calm mentor, if children are to be really improved and trained.

RESENT CONSTANT CRITICISM

It may not be too wrong to scold and speak one's mind, but where does it get us? Absolutely nowhere. The child gets used to our hysterics and our nagging, cuffs steam. It is just one more headache for him. That is, if it registers at all. The stimulated bawled-out child sheds a scolding as nicely as a duck sheds water. It never penetrates. If it does penetrate it adds to his enmity. And once a child becomes enemy to his parent, his case is as good as lost.

Please don't think that all children and all parents are friends. The thought is incredible, almost, but it is true as the fact that countries that plague each other become enemies by "passing the buck" to partner whenever possible. Later this week I will prove my point by putting a few questions that brought this particular trait to light.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 spade	Pass	2 no trump	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

The team that bid as above did not do so well on this board. West opened a low diamond and declarer could run only eight tricks before relinquishing the lead to the club ace, whereupon he was swamped with West's established diamonds.

I report this bidding so that I can agitate against it. Duplicate players are much too inclined to play every hand in no trump. Admittedly, it is wise to lean in that direction, but when the responder can see that a game in partner's major suite is virtually certain (as South should have seen with this hand) it is ridiculous to forget all principles of rubber bridge in deference to so-called duplicate philosophy. South's additional reason for responding with no trump rather than a strong spade raise was that he "wanted all his kings and tens aces led up to rather than through." This theory also has merit but only to an extent that does not conflict with the sounder theory that, given a good fitting suit, it is almost always possible to make at least one more trick with that suit as trump than at no trump.

It is true that in this hand there was an unfortunate duplication of doubletons in the diamond suit. As the cards lay, obviously the bid of five spades was cold, and three no trump unmakeable.

Mr. Culbertson will discuss this hand in tomorrow's article.

Write your bridge troubles and problems to Ely Culbertson, care of this paper, inclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

According To Culbertson

By ELY CULBERTSON

The first National Self-Rating Bridge Examination is over, and I must say that I am enthusiastic over the results. Although the examination was essentially a self-rating device, some 1,200 readers scattered from one corner of the country to the other took advantage of my offer to grade their answers and set their final mark. Naturally, this will take me a few weeks, but, as soon as possible, certificates bearing the final grade and class (master, expert, or advanced) will be mailed.

Now for the announcement as to the method of classification. Readers will have noticed, of course, that the demerit and credit system employed makes it possible for contestants to end with a final mark over 100. Obviously, then, this figure 100 does not refer to a percentage grading. Instead is a sort of "par," just as 72 or thereabouts is the par for a golf course. There is nothing to prevent a champion golfer from breaking par by several strokes, and nothing to prevent a bridge master from going over par in an examination such as that just conducted. Hence, after the most careful weighing of each individual question and the part attached thereto, I have set up the following table as the most accurate and definite possible:

Dub	Below 50
Weak average	51-60, inclusive
Middling	61-75, inclusive
Post-graduate	76-89, inclusive
Expert	90-99, inclusive
Master	100 and over

My fact finding has not yet been completed, but one thing already learned from a superficial reading of the answers sent in, that is that the average player finds too conservatively, also that he is inclined to dodge responsibility in bidding. The gratitude of the child for all his blessings won't predominate if he feels that he is only a helpless figure constant criticism and punishment.

Perhaps a recent experience brings all this diatribe to my typewriter keys. I was walking along a street about five o'clock one day, and it happened that an epidemic of mothers were calling their youngsters. I did not hear one friendly word. Voices were harsh and faces stern. I thought, "If I had to return to a home like some of these children are scuttling into, I would run away and never come back."

CROSSNESS IS CONTAGIOUS

Perhaps if I had chosen another block, I might have seen better conditions. Sometimes I think that communities carry more contagion than measles. One or two cross mammas can spread their unhappy virus to all the neighbors.

Children are trying, I know that, and disobedient and even bad, especially when they are in a gang. But what chance have they when they are subjected to poor street influence, and go from that into homes where no pleasant word is ever spoken? Is there any place in the world for such a boy or girl? No wonder they get the idea that the world is something to outwit and cheat.

This street, by the way, is not a "slum" street. It is no "Dead End." There was a look of decent prosperity about the place.

I said, nevertheless, as I heard one mother after another scream threats and invectives, "It is a place that God forgot."

Maybe all these children would sit down to good lamb stew and apple dumplings, but this is not everything. The child who is to increase in self-respect and self-control needs a measure of intelligent understanding and training.

The British Empire comprises an area of 13,226,740 of the earth's 52,000,000 square miles of land surface, and has a population of more than one-fourth that of the entire earth.

Sonnysayings

By Fanny Y. Cory

"To the top of the line on the top of the hill." How is my dramatics, Rahy?

DOROTHY DIX Says:

A FAMOUS psychologist has found out that there is such a thing as the Problem Husband. Humph. Great-grandmother Eve was the original discoverer of the critter, and every woman who has married since the beginning of time has ascertained by experience that she was united to the most insoluble riddle that she could never guess. As an old colored friend of mine once said to me when recounting her matrimonial adventures: "Husbands is the most undiscovered nation of people there is."

When we speak of problem husbands, however, the general assumption is that we refer to drunkards and libertines, brutes and the shiftless and lazy genitry who marry to get wives to support them. Not at all. Husbands like these offer no problem. The issue is clear-cut for their wives. They can either take 'em or leave 'em, according to their taste in sots and philanderers and wife-beaters.

The real problem husband is the man who has so much that is fine and loveable in his nature that his wife cannot give him up and yet possesses such faults and weaknesses that he is almost impossible to stand. He is like a once-fine party dress that is too good to throw away and not good enough to keep. She can't bear to cast him out because he represents the pink chiffons of her youth, yet she finds it hard to endure the sackcloth and ashes into which he has turned her life. So the poor wife doesn't know what to do. She doesn't even know what she wants to do.

Chief among the problem husbands is the man who just can't get along in the world. He is intelligent. He isn't lazy. But he hasn't the gift for money making. He can never keep a job. Work he wants it is no purpose. His judgment is always faulty. And he wouldn't see an opportunity if it not only knocked at his door but also battered his house down. As a husband he is good and kind and if he had money he would be generous with it, but he is always stony broke. The children are undernourished and lack the medical care they should have. The wife is shabby and spends her days standing off bill collectors and wheedling a little more credit from the grocer.

Very often the man who has no business ability is married to a woman who is a born go-getter. She could pilot him from Poverty Flat to Easy Street if he would only follow her advice and let her run things, but his vanity will not let him do that. What shall the wife do who has that sort of a husband? Shall she break his heart and kill the last of his pride by pushing him to one side and herself become the bread-winner? Or shall she starve along with him and take handouts from her family and wear their castoff clothes?

Another problem husband is the man who is, as the old French proverb puts it, "the sorrow of the home and the joy of the street." A wife can discover a husband who is a skirt-chaser, but what is she to do about a husband who never looks at another woman but who spends all of his time and money and thoughts to every one except his family? What's a wife to do with a husband who brings her home from their bridal tour and dumps her down into an apartment or a little unrotted cottage, then goes off and leaves her alone to spend the evenings reading an improving book, while he is off playing pool or forgathering somewhere with his old pals?

What's a wife to do with a husband who is a joiner; who belongs to so many clubs and is chairman on so many committees and has to go to so many public dinners that he has no time at all to go anywhere at all with her? And what's a woman to do with a husband who heads every subscription list and can always be depended upon for a donation when they are raising funds for a present to the boss, or to send a floral offering to the firemen's ball, when the children lack shoes and they are behind with the rent money? A wife just can't walk out on a husband because he is civic-minded and public-spirited, no matter how much she is tempted to do so.

Another problem husband is the lighwad whose wife has to jimmy every nickel out of him and who makes her feel that she is a grafter every time she asks for market money. Still another problem husband is the grouch who sends the temperature of his home down to zero when he puts his foot inside of the door. And still another is the nagger who finds fault with everything his wife does.

What are wives to do with husbands like these? Leave them? But that isn't easy to do when there are children to be considered, and, besides, so marvelous is women's ability to love the unlovable that many wives' hearts are still aching for husbands who make them miserable. Oh, yes, there is a problem husband at all right, lots of them. DOROTHY DIX.

What To Do

I do not belong to a church, but would like to have an informal church wedding. What is a bridesmaid and best man as attendants. However, in view of the large number of relatives and friends it would be necessary to invite approximately 100 guests. Is there a chance for the use of a church—or is this optional and included in the fee to the minister? Also if it is included as the fee, could you suggest a proper amount?

MISS S. E. S.

Answer—When a person is a non-member and does not contribute to the support of the church in any way, it is customary to pay to have the church opened for a special occasion. When you consult the minister about the date of your wedding, ask him the amount of this charge. It is not the same for all churches — of course, a larger church would entail more expense. One must also expect to pay if there is a rehearsal the evening before, requiring the church to be lighted. The fee to the minister is entirely his own gift, and should not be included in the payment for opening the church. It will be necessary for the sexton to have the church in readiness for the revels, so don't forget to give him a gift of money. The organist, too, should be paid for his services if you plan to have music.

Suppose Santa Claus Were A Dinner Guest

The grand finale of the Christmas day menu need not be expensive. Raisins and prunes fulfill our entire expectations for a steamed pudding, rich with "plums." The attractive topping consists of nut tops finely cut raisins, nuts, and sliced gumdrops in colorful profusion.

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX

It won't be long now before the family gathers around the Christmas tree and waits for the Christmas dinner. What specialties will you cook; what candies and puddings will add the festive touch? Better begin planning now. Do you like this suggestion for the festive menu:

Cream of pimento soup, roast young turkey hen, cornmeal dressing, giblet gravy; candied sweet potatoes, green butter beans, cranberry sauce, celery, green salad with herb dressing, steamed Christmas pudding, pralines, coffee?

PRALINES

Three cups brown sugar, ¼ cup butter, 1 cup cream, 1½ cups chopped pecans, ½ teaspoon ground cinnamon.

Mix sugar, butter and cream and cook until it forms a soft ball when a little is dropped into cold water. Add cinnamon and chopped nuts and beat until almost cold. Drop by spoonfuls on oiled platters or marble slab.

STEAMED CHRISTMAS PUDDING

One cup seeded raisins, 1 cup cooked prunes, ½ cups granulated sugar, 1¼ cups fat, 2 teaspoons cinnamon, 2 teaspoons mace, ½ teaspoon cloves, 2 teaspoons rum flavoring, 2 eggs, ½ cup fruit nectar (plum) peach-nectarine, apricot or peach), ½ cup sifted white flour, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon salt, 2½ cups whole wheat flour, ¾ cup chopped Brazil or walnut meats.

Rinse, drain, and slice raisins. Cut prunes from pits in small pieces. Cream together sugar, fat, spices and flavoring. Add beaten eggs and mix. Add nectar, and while flour sifted with soda and salt and mix. Add whole wheat flour and mix. Add fruits and nut meats and stir to blend. Pour into greased 2 quart mold and steam over water about 3½ hours. Serve with lemon, vanilla or hard sauce. Pudding should be served hot. To reheat, cut into servings, place in double boiler or other container and heat over hot water.

Sunday's Menu

BREAKFAST: Baked apple with cream, broiled sausages and pancakes, maple syrup, milk, coffee.

DINNER: Fruit cup, roast chicken, chestnut stuffing, potatoes au gratin, broccoli with Hollandaise, steamed Christmas pudding, coffee, milk.

SUPPER: Cream of broccoli soup, sliced cold chicken, watercress sandwiches, lemon layer cake, tea, cocoa.

Most animals hold their mouths open when they wish to breathe faster, but the toad cannot breathe at all with his mouth open, for he has to swallow air, and he cannot swallow unless his mouth is closed.

Toys Serve As Admission To Baby Concert

CALGARY, Dec. 10.—Admission was one toy—old or new—at the premiere of Calgary's baby symphony, under the baton of Jascha Galperin, before the Women's Musical Club here on Wednesday.

INSTANT SUCCESS

Organized by Mr. Galperin less than a year ago the tiny tots' orchestra, the youngest member four years old and the oldest 11, met with instant success. They played violins in four-part harmony, and it was harmonious, music lovers declared after the concert. The program included classics and simple nursery tunes. With spirit and vitality they played Hayden's symphony, first movement.

UNIQUE GROUP

Believed to be the only organization of its kind in Canada, the baby symphony has 30 members, all class trained by their conductor and none with private individual instruction.

"Not all these children will grow up to be professional musicians . . . at least I hope not," said Conductor Galperin. "The idea is to give the children a background of musical education."

The admission toys will be contributed to a Christmas collection for needy children of Calgary.

MRS. A. WHITCOMB MADE LIFE MEMBER CHRIST W.A.

Making Mrs. Arthur Whitcomb a Life Member of the W.A. of Christ church a very impressive service of admission was held in church recently, with Rev. G. P. Gower officiating at the ceremony. The life membership badge was presented to Mrs. Whitcomb by Mrs. H. F. Ely, president of the Diocesan board. President of the W.A. for the past two years, Mrs. Whitcomb is a valued and active worker of the W.A.

Showing a splendid balance after donations had been made to social service work and to the vestry for a missionary appointment, the treasurer's report was well received by the twenty-five members present.

During the afternoon a very interesting address on her work life and work in the W.A. at Fort Chipewyan was given by Mrs. W. H. Breant at the W.C.M.A. following which tea was served by Mrs. R. H. Driscoll and Mrs. M. L. Ferguson.

SOCIAL CREDIT FORCES FIGHT TAX ON WAGES

Five Members Hold Power Balance As Manitoba House Opens

WINNIPEG, Dec. 10.—Opposition to Manitoba government's two per cent wage tax, a great revenue earner for the province, was sounded here Thursday by the Manitoba Social Credit League. R. Halliday Thompson, league president, declared the league would fight to eliminate this tax.

In announcing a questionnaire on the subject had been sent to the five Social Credit members of the Manitoba legislature, Mr. Thompson declared one member took a definite stand against the tax. The member was Miss Salome Halldorson, St. George constituency representative, the league president said.

LACKS MAJORITY

Support of the five Social Credit members carried Premier John Bracken's Liberal-Progressive government through the last legislature session and so far these members have given no indication this support would be withdrawn at the session which opened today. The premier has only 23 supporters among the 55 members.

Besides the Liberal-Progressives and Social Credit members, there are 15 Conservatives, seven Co-operative Commonwealth Federation representatives, four Independents and one Communist.

Norman Turnbull, Social Credit whip, would make no statement on how the five Social Credit members, adherents of the league, would vote if the wage tax question came before the house.

EARNED $1,853,186

In the fiscal year ended last April 30 the two per cent wage tax produced $1,825,388. This return proved a surprise to the treasury as the government had estimated the tax would bring only $1,350,000 in view of changes made during last session, prorogued April 17.

Under the tax single persons earning $600 a year or less and married persons with incomes of $1,200 or less are exempt. Married persons with dependents are given $200 exemption for each dependent.

Woman Hit By Tram Is Killed

VANCOUVER, Dec. 10 — One woman was killed and two other persons injured, one severely, in traffic accidents in Vancouver last night.

Mrs. William Flett, 69, died in hospital two hours after she was struck by a street car at a street intersection.

James Wright suffered severe head and side injuries when struck by an automobile on Main street.

Charles McGee, motorcyclist, suffered head injuries when his machine collided with an automobile at a downtown intersection. His condition was fair.

Bulletin Patterns

By Anne Adams

Girls from 2 to 14 and their little brothers, too, get a big thrill out of these cosy, warm Play-Suits for they can roll in the snow to their heart's content. The roomy jacket and trousers have snug cuffs that keep the snow from creeping in at the ankles and wrists. The trousers fit smoothly at the waist and may be buttoned or zipped at the side. Choose a heavy melton or any closely woven, slightly napped fabric for the trimming. Or if you belong to the "mix-your-own school" perhaps you'd like to make the jacket all plaid and the trousers solid color.

Pattern 4495 is available in children's sizes 2, 4, 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14. Size 6 takes 2¼ yards 54 inch fabric and 4 yard contrast. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Send 20 cents in coins for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly Size, Name, Address and Style Number.

Send your order to The Edmonton Bulletin, Pattern Department, Edmonton, Alberta.

Earth Slips Away

Aerial view of Elysian Park's "moving mountain" which suddenly collapsed and cascaded down upon Riverside Drive, Los Angeles, Calif., completely wrecking a huge viaduct and covering the highway with debris for over 500 feet. Note rupture in earth (upper centre), where mountain slipped burying highway and viaduct with debris. Power lines were broken and light and phone connections shattered as the slide came to halt against stores on outer curb of highway. Arrows show the course followed by the cascading earth.

Beauty Gift In Order As Christmas Present

By ALICIA HART

One of the nicest Christmas presents for practically any woman you know would be a gift order on a good beauty shop. With this, she could select whatever beauty preparations she happens to need, take a course of face treatments, get a new permanent wave, have her hair cut and waved or just cut, depending, of course, on the amount of the gift order.

A couple of girls we know are going to give their mother a beauty day. They've paid in advance, and, a few days after Christmas, the mother will be able to walk into the salon they selected, spend the day getting a facial and a body massage treatment, having her hair cut, washed and waved, nails manicured, feet pedicured.

A de luxe manicure case, containing every item needed for a home manicure, from scissors to clippers, will please one who does her own nails. And a tiny nail kit, equipped with a few emery boards, two or three shades of polish, orange stick, polish remover and nail-white pencil, is ideal for one who has weekly manicures, but who grooms her own nails between appointments with the manicurist.

Almost every girl wants a new lipstick and a compact. Among the Christmas compacts, a trim, square number and a black enamel case with a gold crown on top would be appreciated. And a smaller compact with case in alternating stripes of dark brown enamel and gold, packed with a matching lipstick, makes a perfect gift.

If you know her coloring, give face powder. If you don't but want to give it anyway, be sure that the powder is an easy-to-exchange brand. Bath powder, especially if it is packed with cologne or soap or both, in matching scent, is a sure-fire present.

VIRGINIA CLARE

has that envied, cool, well-bred, patrician look. And she emphasizes it by wearing her light brown, naturally wavy hair in the simplest of coiffures—combed softly backward from her brow, ends curled loosely on the nape of her neck. She's the mother of a small son, lives in a charming house in the country, commutes to the studios for her broadcasts.

Electrician Dies In Rescue Effort

PORT COLBORNE, Ont., Dec. 10—One man was asphyxiated and six others were overcome by hydrogen sulphide in No. 2 building of the International Nickel Company refinery here Thursday.

Alec Herrick, shift electrician, was fatally stricken when he went into a tank filled with the fumes to rescue a fellow workman. Other workers in the building brought the gassed men to safety and six of them were taken to hospital where their condition was said not to be critical.

Reprieve Sought For Man To Hang

VANCOUVER, Dec. 10.—L. H. Jackson, Vancouver barrister, Thursday received instructions from the British Columbia attorney-general's department to apply for a further reprieve for Vincent MacChione, sentenced to hang here December 17.

The reprieve is being sought pending the provincial court of appeal's decision on MacChione's appeal for a new trial. He was sentenced to hang November 26 for the murder last year near Fernie, B.C., of Michael Hudock.

The appeal court has reserved judgment until January 11 on MacChione's appeal.

Filet Crochet That All Will Admire

Household Arts by Alice Brooks

Simple Chair Set and Pillow Go Quickly in String

PATTERN 5975

"Such lovely lace!" your friends will exclaim as they open the package, and they'll never guess how little your Christmas gifts cost! You'll want to gather up crochet hook and some string and begin at once on this charming chair or buffet set and pillow to match. Quickly and easily done in filet crochet, the peacocks and roses are prettily "set off" by an open mesh. Practical—lasting—exquisite, the chair-back may be repeated and used as scarf ends. They all make splendid gifts.

In pattern 5975 you will find complete instructions and charts for making the set and pillow top shown; illustrations of all stitches used; material requirements.

To obtain this pattern send 20 cents in coin to The Edmonton Bulletin, Household Arts Dept., Edmonton, Alberta. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS and PATTERN NUMBER.

TWO CHILDREN BURN IN BEDS

MATACHEWAN, Ont., Dec. 10.—Two children were burned to death in their beds early Thursday as fire razed the home of Mr. and Mrs. Len Holdsworth on the outskirts of this town in Temiskaming district. The victims were Jimmy aged 5, and Patricia 6. Their parents were away when the fire broke out. Edward Wilde was burned about the face and hands in attempting a rescue.

Sick Cattle Are Reported Shipped From West Areas

SARNIA, Ont., Dec. 10.—Frank C. Abrahim, deputy reeve of Dawn township, charged before the Lambton county council today that tubercular and emaciated cattle are being brought to Ontario from drought areas of the west.

Many of the cattle were so thin they died soon after reaching purchasers in Ontario, he said.

Council referred the matter to its agricultural committee, Reeve Nicholas Sitter saying he thought all cattle leaving Winnipeg were inspected.

Sick Cattle Report Denied

SASKATOON, Dec. 10.—"The report evidently is greatly exaggerated and not correct," A. M. Shaw, director of federal marketing services, said here last night regarding the Sarnia report that cattle shipped from the drought areas of Western Canada were tubercular and emaciated.

"Of thousands of cattle tested at Carberry, only a fraction of one per cent were found to even react to tuberculosis," he said

R. A. Wright, of Pitman, president of the Western Canada Livestock union, and John Graham, prominent Duck Lake breeder of Carberry, Man., agreed with Mr. Shaw's statement.

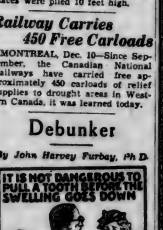

"The cattle may have been thin, but that was why they were shipped from the drought area," Mr. Shaw declared.

Debunker

By John Harvey Furbay, Ph D

A popular dental superstition is the one that says a tooth should never be extracted while there is any swelling. As a rule, the swelling indicates there is an abscess at the root of the tooth and the congestion of the tissues around it. The pus in the abscess is dangerous, and if the tooth is not extracted the pus may force its way out through the side of the gum (gum boil), or it may enter the blood stream and poison the whole body, even causing death. The best way, usually, to open this abscess is to pull the tooth, whether there is swelling or not—but under a competent dentist's care.

SABLE ISLAND HAS FEARS OF DREARY YULE

HALIFAX, Dec. 10.—Anxious residents of Sable Island watched the weather last night, looking for a break in storms that have kept heavy seas running, so the Canadian government steamship Lady Laurier could land Christmas supplies.

The vessel has been standing off the lonely island 108 miles off the Nova Scotia coast for a week.

STORM TAKES YOUTH'S LIFE AT SHAUNAVON

Dallas Heth Rides Into Blizzard To Bring Home Small Nephew

SHAUNAVON, Sask., Dec. 10—Victim of the blinding blizzard that swept Southern Saskatchewan Monday, Dallas Heth, 15-year-old orphan boy, was found frozen to death in a snowdrift a few miles from the school where he had gone to shepherd his small nephew home, it was reported Thursday night.

The body was found Wednesday.

Dallas lived with a brother, Jacob Heth, in the district known as the Bench, northwest of Eastend. When the storm arose, Dallas went from the farm to the school on horseback, a distance of one and a quarter miles, to bring his nephew home.

STARTED OFF

When he arrived at the school he found the teacher had planned to keep the children at a nearby farm for the night. The teacher wanted Dallas to stay with the other children but the boy said he preferred to go home, and started off.

Alarmed Wednesday by the continued absence of the boy, his sister-in-law organized a search party and the body was found.

Dr. A. Belkin, Eastend coroner, and Constables H. Rance and E. Baity, of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, investigated and decided death was accidental and an inquest was not necessary.

Record Snows Bury Ontario

TORONTO, Dec. 10—Old Ontario strove Thursday night to dig itself out from the heaviest snowfall in years. Throughout that densely-populated section of the province, feet-high drifts blocked roads, closed schools, crippled communications and disrupted transportation systems were left in the wake of nearly a week of blizzards.

As a storm that isolated cities and towns blew itself out in the Niagara Peninsula and in Western Ontario, a blizzard that has raged almost without cessation since Sunday struck with renewed intensity in eastern Ontario Thursday night. Several towns in the three storm areas were threatened with a milk shortage.

The newer and sparsely settled north and north-western sections of the province escaped the storms, as did the Toronto and Hamilton areas. But in those districts bitterly cold weather prevailed. Forecast for the entire province was for continued cold and renewed snowstorms.

Children Spend Night In School

DEWAR LAKE, Sask., Dec. 10—So severe was the blizzard in this district on Monday and Tuesday that school children at Prairiedale spent the night in the school house and rural attempted to find their way home through drifts which in places were piled 10 feet high.

BULLETIN WANT-ADS REACH 70,000 READERS EVERY DAY

19 BELOW IS LOW READING DURING NIGHT

On the way back to slightly more acceptable temperatures, but still chilly enough to promote the use of heavy clothing, Edmonton's thermometer readings for Thursday night and early Friday stayed above 20 below zero, the lowest reading up to 9 a.m. Friday being 19 below, registered at 11 p.m. Thursday. A gradual warming up process brought the mercury to 11 below by 9 a.m., at which time the forecast was given as "continued cold."

Thursday's highest temperature reading was registered at 2 p.m., when the red line was at 9 below.

McMurray walked off with the cold weather honors in the near north at 8:30 a.m. Friday, the thermometer at that point having shrunk down to 40 below zero in second place, but considerably warmer, was Slave Lake, with 28 below, and next was Fort Vermilion, with 26 below. Warmest spot in the region at that time was Fairfax, with 10 below.

Norville Small, Canadian Airways pilot, left Edmonton for Outpost Island on Great Slave Lake Friday morning with a full load of freight, express, Christmas mail and one passenger, L. G. Smith, consulting engineer for the N. E. Timmins Corporation. Con Farrell is reported southbound and is expected to arrive in Edmonton Friday afternoon. Jack Wright is at Yellowknife, and North Sawle is en route to Yellowknife.

Decorative Lights To Twinkle First Time On Saturday

Will Mark Opening of Gift Shopping Season in Edmonton—Merchants Contribute Generously to Display

City merchants are extending a warm invitation to Edmonton and district shoppers to attend the novel ceremony which will be held at the corner of Jasper Avenue and 101 street at 7:30 p.m. Saturday to mark the inauguration of Edmonton's new decorative lighting system, which will be set ablaze by Mayor John W. Fry.

Thousands of multi - colored lights stretching for a distance of two miles in the city's downtown area will twinkle for the first time Saturday night to celebrate the opening of the Christmas gift shopping season. The display has been made possible by the generous contributions of merchants, who have spent about $3,000 on the project.

In order to adequately handle the Christmas shopping rush, retail stores will remain open until 10 p.m. Saturday, and the thousands of citizens who are expected to mass downtown for the decorative lighting ceremony will be given an opportunity to inspect the finest display of Yuletide merchandise ever presented by city businessmen.

COMMITTEE IN CHARGE

Committee in charge of arrangements for the permanent colored lighting system is composed of John McNeil, Fred V. Hollinds, J. H. Wildman, Frank Dynes, J. K. Hill and James Walker.

The program planned for Saturday night's ceremony will be broadcast over a loud-speaker system which will play Christmas carols and provide other musical entertainment for the crowd prior to a short address by Mayor Fry.

The ceremony will be held on Jasper avenue and 100 street, and Mayor Fry will switch on the colored lights from the balcony of the Selkirk hotel.

Decision to instal permanent decorative lighting fixtures was made by city council several weeks ago, and since that time the electric light department has been busy hanging strings of lights in the form of an arcade over a two-mile stretch. Lights have been strung along Jasper avenue from The Bulletin offices to 109 street and along 101 street from Macdonald Drive to the C.N.R. subway.

FESTIVE AIR

A total of 3,000 multi-colored lights have been hung to give downtown streets a festive air for the Christmas and New Year season during which the lights will be lit every night.

This novel feature was made possible by generous contributions by merchants, who have donated approximately $3,000 toward the fixtures and the special Christmas tree and cardboard decorations which adorn light standards on Jasper avenue and 101 street. This represents about half the total cost of the decorations, the remainder being paid by the city.

Decision to instal a permanent decorative lighting system was made owing to the fact it offered a more effective method of providing holiday lighting over a number of years. In the past it has been the practice to instal temporary lights for the Christmas season only.

The permanent system will be used on special occasions during the year, including the summer fair week.

The Inquiring Reporter

Do you approve of the proposals of the War Veterans Assistance Commission to ameliorate conditions among the unemployed ex-service men?

The report deals in particular with the easing of the burdens on war veterans on relief and it is estimated that the cost of the proposals, if adopted, would be $7,000,000 a year.

The Inquiring Reporter, always interested in the welfare of returned men, sought opinion on the proposals, as follows:—

JACK GOLDIE, former able seaman of British Navy: Any movement that will assist the returned soldiers—or sailors—who are in need, is most commendable. While on the face of it an annual expenditure of $7,000,000 may seem a little high, yet there is no doubt that the money could be apportioned so that there would be a great benefit accruing to all and the money would be circulated in such a way that it would be spread out among the populace as a whole.

H. A. DYDE, first president, Edmonton Branch, Canadian Corps Association: It is difficult to get all details from reports of the report so far available. But the recognition of certain claims of Canadian ex-servicemen who saw active service in an actual theatre of war, is very gratifying. The commission has made an attempt to deal with the unemployed ex-servicemen and this action is to be commended. There are many other problems to be settled, such as the question of the small pensioner and the partially disabled man. Maybe the proposals will solve these, but they have not come out as yet. So far as the report has disclosed, it is to be commended.

JOAN BRENT, war widow: The country cannot do too much for the returned men and specially those who are unemployed. Sometimes I think that being a returned boy does not help in obtaining employment—as it should. Consequently, some of the returned men have extra difficulty in obtaining employment, whereas actually they should receive special consideration.

PATRICK FLYNN, clerk: I haven't seen the report yet—only glanced at the headlines in the paper. But, at a hasty glance, I am "all for it."

DIAMOND DIET TOO HARD FOR MEYER'S WIFE

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—After a three-day search, Roy Meyer got the stone of his $150 diamond ring back today.

His wife, Ramona, bit something hard in a piece of cake she baked. It was the diamond.

Il Duce Likely To Be Named All-time Dictator

ITALY TO QUIT GENEVA GROUP THIS WEEKEND

German-Japanese Pressure Is Believed Cause Of Move By Duce

Copyright 1937, by Havas News Agency

ROME, Dec. 10—Italy's withdrawal from the League of Nations and constitutional reforms entailing abolition of the chamber of deputies will be announced late Saturday by Premier Mussolini, high quarters indicated last night.

Rome's bolt from Geneva would further align Italy with Germany and Japan, already out of the league and Mussolini's partners in the anti-Communist pact. It was understood Berlin and Tokyo have urged Rome to take the step since that three-nation pact was executed.

According to a Havas Geneva despatch Italy, when submitting its resignation, will express hope the league will be reformed in a manner enabling the return of Rome and the other countries which have abandoned their membership.

Italy has boycotted the League since sanctions were applied during the Italo-Ethiopian war.

May Be Named Lifetime Duce

A possibility the grand council would formally acclaim Mussolini the supreme political ruler of the Italian people by creation of a juridical lifetime title of Il Duce for him was regarded as likely in some quarters, the Associated Press said.

Such a move, it was said, would envision Mussolini relinquishing his post as premier—which he has held since he assumed power—to Count Ciano, his son-in-law, and Italy's foreign minister.

Sources reporting this possibility, the Associated Press added, said it would strengthen the view that Mussolini looked toward his son-in-law as his successor. They added that for such a post the royal prerogative of calling a man to assume the premiership would be abolished but the dynasty otherwise would not be affected.

TURRET PLANE FOR ARMY PUT THROUGH TESTS

WRIGHT FIELD, Dayton, O., Dec. 10.—Tests of the army's newest attack plane, the XP-37, said to be capable of combating "anything that can fly," are being conducted here daily in rigid secrecy preparatory to its delivery to Langley Field, Va.

Sleeker in appearance than previous ships of similar type, the plane averaged nearly 200 miles an hour on what observers called an "easy flight" from Buffalo, N.Y., where it was manufactured by the Bell Aircraft Co.

The fighter is equipped with two Allison liquid-cooled engines and driving pusher-type propellers.

The plane was designed to combat the "flying fortress" type of bombers. A crew of five handles the ship. The pilot and co-pilot-navigators sit in the nose, the radio operator in the rear of the fuselage and the two gunners in turrets in front of the engines.

AUSTRALIA MARKS FOUR MONTHS RED

SYDNEY, N.S.W., Dec. 10.—Australia is marking the 150th anniversary of its settlement next year with a celebration that devotes almost four months between January 1 and April 26 to international conference, carnival, pageant or display.

Important meetings are scheduled in connection with the anniversary. They include the Empire Parliamentary Association Conference, the British Empire Producers' Conference, the World Convention of Radio Engineers and a Women's International Conference.

One of the elaborate features of the pageantry will depict the landing of the first British colonists at Botany Bay in 1788 and development of the Commonwealth between 1788 and 1838. It will portray major events in the country's 150-year-old history and show social, developmental and industrial changes.

Sports events, including the British Empire Games, international lawn tennis competition between Australia and the United States, the Australasian power boat championships, a cricket match, international field hockey matches between women's teams from Great Britain, Canada and Australia and other contests, will be staged throughout the period.

Displays by army, navy and air force men; renditions by a 5,000-voice choir; various exhibitions; receptions, balls and other forms of gaiety are important features of the program. The Commonwealth has asked other nations to send naval units to take part.

Renew Old Pact

LONDON, Dec. 10—Eight Stepney men made a pact of friendship in 1885 and four survivors, the youngest 58, met recently on the steps of St. Paul's Cathedral, clasped hands and sang "Auld Lang Syne."

Names Count

KIRKLAND LAKE, Ont., Dec. 10.—This town's high school orchestra should prove a real attraction. Volunteers were called, the roll showing Wayne King, Benny Goodman, Ben Louis, Mae West, the Dionne quintuplets.

Prince Weds Actress

With the annulment of his first marriage formally granted by the Roman Catholic church, Prince Ernst Rudiger von Stahrenberg (left), former vice-chancellor of Austria, married Fraulein Nora Gregor (right), statuesque Austrian actress, in Vienna. Prince von Stahrenberg was formerly head of Austria's Heimwehr, now banned as pro-Fascist by Chancellor Schuschnigg.

SMITHY MAKES HORSE SHOEING TRAVELING JOB

AMARILLO, Tex., Dec. 10.—When the horse shoeing business began to slump several years ago, H. J. Beeler, of Amarillo, packed his bag and became a wandering blacksmith. Today, he says, he is the only horseshoer left in the Texas panhandle, and reports business good from Clovis N.M., to Pampa.

Starting in the trade when he was 11, Beeler estimated that he has shod 360,000 horses and mules in the past 22 years. From 1912 to 1923 he averaged shoeing 10 to 12 head a day.

"At one time I shod horses for $1 a head, but in recent years, because of the smaller number of horses and because there are few horseshoers left, the price is $2 now."

Beeler said the hardest thing about shoeing a horse is getting the hoof level at the right angle.

"All horses take different type shoes. When a person thinks of the many different type of gaits such as a rack, slow gait, canter right and left, trot, running walk, fox trot and others and the different type of horses such as the trotter, running horses, hurdler, polo horses and the work horses, it is not hard to understand that the business of shoeing horses is really a specialist's job."

Rob Baking Plant

TORONTO, Dec. 10.—Three robberies in suburban York Township yielded $1,000—and safe-crackers got most of the loot. Raiders who sawed the door off a safe in a bakery plant escaped with $1,000 cash and cheques.

About 43 pounds of paint are mixed when the dome of the Capitol in Washington is painted. It takes 18 months to complete the painting task.

CONTACT MEN OF U.S. BOOST TRADE VOLUME

Special Commerce Service Believed Responsible For Rapid Gain

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10—To promote and facilitate a foreign trade volume which, according to latest estimates, will total more than $6,000,000,000 in 1937, the United States has developed an elaborate system of commercial "contact men" extending to every region of the world.

This "foreign commerce service" cost the government approximately $3,000,000 last year, but is believed to have been responsible for some of the successes achieved by the nation's world commerce during the past two years. Since 1934, the foreign commerce of the United States virtually has tripled itself.

The foreign commerce service is closely allied to the diplomatic service, but its functions are entirely different. It is by this complete separation, commercial experts contend, that the United States foreign commerce service has been able to develop its remarkable efficiency.

HAVE DIPLOMATIC STATUS

Although commercial attaches and trade commissioners have a liaison with their embassies and legations and enjoy diplomatic immunities and privileges, the commercial "contact men" are commissioned only to develop and report on foreign trade and foreign trade possibilities. All of them are trained economists and statisticians, as well as being thoroughly conversant with finance, business and international affairs.

The United States maintains 100 such agents in various business capitals of the world. The most important posts are in Latin America, London, Berlin, Paris, Ottawa, Shanghai and Manila.

Head of this organization is H. Lawrence Groves, whose title is director of foreign commerce service in the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce. Groves also is a member of the reciprocal trade agreements committee, which compiles recommendations for the negotiation of the agreements for tariff concessions with other nations.

TRAINED TO BE CIVIL ENGINEER

The director has engaged in government commerce work since 1919. Before that he held positions with several of the largest industrial organizations in the United States. By profession he is a civil engineer.

Groves served in European posts between 1919 and 1933, making a remarkable record for establishing commercial contacts for United States business and industrial interests. In 1933 he was appointed assistant director of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, and later was promoted to his present position.

Groves is a firm believer in the Roosevelt reciprocal trade agreements program, and under his administration, the foreign commerce service has made considerable research in ways of easing trade barriers and restrictions between nations.

WHAT A NIGHT! WHAT A NIGHT! WHAT A NIGHT!

BERLIN, Md., Dec. 10.—Consider the reversals suffered today by G. Dal Harrison:

First, fire broke out in his office building. He drove half a mile to sound the alarm. The alarm was frozen.

He looked for help, found only the night police chief. They drove the town's two fire trucks up Main street, sirens screeching, to arouse the volunteer fire fighters. Just one responded.

The three raced in the fire plug nearest the blaze. It was broken. They struggled to drag the heavy hose to the next plug. They couldn't.

So the fire licked up the last of the $20,000 building while they watched.

Farmers Busy

PICTON, Ont., Dec. 10.—Prince Edward County farmers now are being paid an estimated $1,000,000 for produce supplied canneries during the past season. More than 1,000,000 cases of tomatoes were canned in the county.

The warbler family of birds, when taken as a whole, are mediocre singers.

BLIND TILL 20, HE GETS SIGHT

BRISTOL, Eng., Dec. 10—A chance encounter and a miracle of science have restored eyesight to James Massey, Bristol match-seller who was born blind.

A prominent Bristol opthalmic surgeon bought some matches from Massey. They got into conversation and the surgeon learned about the match-seller's life of blindness. Massey had only one eye.

The miracle took place in an eye hospital. A cornea taken from an eye which had been removed from a girl patient was grafted onto Massey's one eye.

Three weeks later the bandages were removed and Massey—a man in his 20's—was able to see for the first time in his life.

General Lafayette formally obtained title to a township of land containing 23,028.80 acres, near Tallassey, Fla., on July 4, 1923, as a result of a special act of Congress.

Held Over 3 More Days!

In spite of the extremely cold weather all this week over twelve thousand people have seen and enjoyed this comedy to the limit. Many, however, are awaiting warmer weather. It is for those and the many who so far have not been able to come in from country points, that we are prolonging this engagement until Tuesday night next.

Value Of Canadian Field Crops Shows Decrease

LESS WHEAT GROWN THAN YEAR BEFORE

Drop Of 10 Per Cent. From 1936 Is Reported In Statistics

OTTAWA, Dec. 10—Gross value of Canadian field crops in 1937 was estimated at $886,382,000 by the Dominion bureau of statistics Thursday. It represented a decrease of $65,990,600 or 10 per cent from the 1936 harvest, but, at the same time, it was higher than any other year since 1930.

Lower production of wheat and reduced prices for potatoes were mainly responsible for the decrease in the value of 1937 poduction. The wheat crop of 1937 was 47,000,000 bushels less than in 1936, and, while the average farm price for this year's crop was slightly higher, the gross value of wheat production in 1937 was estimated at $179,810,000, a decrease of $34,697,000 or 16 per cent from the estimated value of the 1936 crop.

OAT PRICE SAME

The average farm price of the oat crop was the same as in 1936, and the slightly higher production of oats this year rendered the gross value of the crop correspondingly higher.

Barley prices were averaging 18 cents less for the 1937 crop than for 1936, and, although barley production was 14,000,000 bushels larger, the value of the 1937 crop was $3,712,000 less.

Rye production and prices were both higher this year, and the total value was $1,272,000 greater.

POTATO CROP

Potato production was somewhat larger this year than in 1936, and average prices at the farm in Canada were 46 cents per bushel lower, so that value of the 1937 crop was reduced by $16,982,000.

Value of most other crops including peas, beans, buckwheat, mixed grains, flaxseed, corn for husking, turnips, hay and clover, alfalfa and sugar beets showed small reductions from 1936 levels. Fodder corn and grain hay alone among the minor crops show increased values, due in these cases to higher production.

Only three provinces, Manitoba, Alberta and British Columbia, reported increases in the value of field crops this year. The field crop in Manitoba increased in value by $45,152,000; Alberta $25,109,000 and British Columbia $357,000.

All the other provinces reported decreases for field crops, Saskatchewan by $100,829,600.

DAVE HARDING IS PROMOTED IN AIR FORCE

Pilot Who Flew Governor-General In North Is Noted Athlete

OTTAWA, Dec. 10—Name of a noted Canadian athlete was included in a list of promotions issued by the Royal Canadian Air Force, Thursday.

The athlete, Dave Harding, once a famous football player but greying around the temples now, was listed with 11 flight lieutenants promoted to the rank of squadron leader. Harding, who started his football career with Queen's University, came to Ottawa in 1923 to play with Senators in the interprovincial league. He has played with Montreal in the Big Four, Camp Borden in the O.R.F.U. and Winnipeg. For a time he played English rugby on the Pacific coast.

OLD TIME FORM

Harding, chief pilot on the Governor General's flying expedition last summer from Aklavik, N.W.T., beyond the Arctic Circle, to Edmonton, put on a uniform this season, probably for the last time, despite a bad knee which had troubled him. He showed a flash of his old-time form in the first playoff game between Toronto's Argonauts and Ottawa Roughriders when he grabbed an Argo forward pass that looked like a good ground-gainer for the Toronto blue-shirts.

SQUADRON LEADERS

Listed with Harding as new squadron leaders were: F. G. Waite, Royal Military College, Kingston; B. G. Carr-Harris, W. E. Baker, B. F. Johnson, all of Trenton, Ont., air station; C. C. Walker, A. T. Campbell, N. F. Mossop, A. L. Johnson, E. E. Middleton and C. J. Duncan, all of Ottawa. Baker, A. L. Johnson, Duncan and Mossop are on the non-flying list.

Raised from the rank of squadron leader to wing commander were C. E. Brooks of Trenton, C. M. McEwen, C. V. Walsh and R. J. Grant of Ottawa.

From flying officer to flight lieutenant these were raised: R. G. Briese of Montreal; E. R. Miller, W. A. Orr and Donald S. Blaine of Trenton; W. I. Clements and H. M. Carscallen of Ottawa.

The promotions date from last April 1.

Saskatchewan Man Held In Paris As Cagoulard Plotter

PARIS, Dec. 10.—A man born in Saskatchewan, Charles Tenaille, was arrested today as police continued their investigation of Les Cagoulards, secret society of hooded men accused of plotting to set up a monarchy and dictatorship in France.

Born at Maple Creek, Sask., in 1905, Tenaille is now a Paris engineer. He is a brother of Andre Tenaille, arrested Dec. 4 as an alleged leader of the armaments section of the conspiracy.

It was alleged Charles Tenaille sent several loads of arms to a boarding house in the Rue Ribera.

GEORGE TO VISIT EDWARD DUCHY

LONDON, Dec. 10—King George is expected to tour the Duchy of Cornwall, once the apple of King Edward's eye as a model layout, now vested in the Crown.

According to present plans, the King will make a two-day visit to Cornwall, Nov. 29 and Dec. 1, and will not be accompanied by Queen Elizabeth.

The Duchy estates, totalling more than 130,000 acres, extend into Cornwall, Devon and Somerset, and the king will visit all three counties. He will see the Home Farm, at Stoke Climsland, from which the famous herds of Red Devon cattle once won prizes for Edward.

How George will get on with the Cornish folk is doubtful, for although Cornishmen boast of their loyalty to the King, they have recognized the present Duke of Windsor as their "ruler" ever since his birth.

For Edward was born Duke of Cornwall, a title handed down from royal father to eldest son, while he did not become Prince of Wales until he was in his 'teens.

When he abdicated, the Duchy, one of the wealthiest districts, with its oyster beds and cattle industry, in the kingdom, became vested in the king since George's eldest child is Princess Elizabeth and the title cannot be held by a girl.

To denote the change in ownership, there is a new heraldic device. The blue flag with the 15 gold "bezants" or balls, now is surmounted by a royal crown instead of a coronet.

EAGLE STUFFED AS BIRD THAT KIDNAPPED BOY

VANCOUVER, B.C., Dec. 10. — Dan Tom, a Mayne Island Indian, once had the experience of being kidnapped by an eagle, according to legend.

One day in 1868, when Tom was a moss-wrapped papoose, lying on a seashore Indian encampment, a giant bald-headed eagle swooped down and flew off with him to the accompanying wail of the squaws.

A white man named Collinson rushed to the scene with his rifle, according to the legend, with the eagle circling higher and flying over the water in the direction of Galiano Island.

Collinson ordered the Indians to follow the bird in their canoe.

The white man fired a shot to frighten the eagle, taking care not to aim too close for fear of hitting the child.

The startled eagle dropped Dan Tom into the sea, where he was picked up minutes later by a canoe.

Dan Tom is now a man of about 50.

The eagle, which was shot immediately afterward, has been stuffed, and is on view in the provincial museum at Victoria.

Street Railway Working Hours May Be Upset

Return To Night Shift For Junior Men Is Proposed

New Chapter in Bitter Dispute Between Street Car Motormen Written at By-laws Committee Meeting

Upsetting a railway policy which has been in effect since March, 1936, the civic bylaws committee Thursday recommended to city council that seniority rights covering working hours be restored to senior motormen in accordance with a recommendation by a federal board of arbitration on this point in 1936.

It accepted by council, this proposal will give senior men full seniority privileges as far as day runs are concerned. Junior motormen would then be required to work the night runs, as was the case prior to March, 1936.

SOME DAY WORK

At that time junior operators won the right to work a portion of their time on day runs, receiving approximately one month of day work in three. They work night runs for the remainder of their time.

Thursday's action by the bylaws committee is another chapter in the bitter dispute between the junior and senior operators which has continued for several years. Junior men contended they should not be forced to work all the night runs on the street railway system; senior men contended their seniority gave they first choice of day runs.

The question was brought to council three years ago when Ex-Mayor Joseph A. Clarke, K.C., supported junior employees in their contention, and in March, 1936 a majority of council gave this class of employees a share of day work.

Protesting this decision, Local 569 of the International union to which the majority of the senior men belong, was successful in having a federal board of conciliation appointed in the summer of 1936 to review the dispute.

RECOMMENDATIONS

In September, 1936, the board made several recommendations with a view to ending the dispute. City council, however, did not act on these recommendations, taking the stand the board had no power to force the city to adopt its ruling.

At Thursday's meeting of the bylaws committee Ald. Blair Paterson won majority support of committee members for his motion that the award of the board of conciliation be accepted insofar as seniority rights of street railway motormen were concerned.

Ald. Casselman and Ald. Douglas Grout.

Ald. Paterson's motion does not include another recommendation by the board which would give junior motormen not less than one month's day work in every four. "We recommend that this change be carried out by a voluntary arrangement between the senior and junior men themselves," the report reads.

Speaking for the junior men at Thursday's meeting, Fred Wood, president of the All-Canadian union, to which a majority of the junior motormen belong, told the committee the dispute on working hours had started 20 years ago.

Commenting on the change in policy adopted in March last year and which gave junior employees "bout one month's day work in three, Delegate Wood maintained this decision had not unset the main privileges of seniority for the senior men. They still had the choice of choosing routes and the holiday periods they wanted.

OTHERS ALTERNATE

He claimed that some senior men preferred to work at night instead of the day. He also pointed out that the police and fire departments alternated on day and night work.

Delegate Wood further declared that the policy of alternating day and night shifts between employees was fairly general throughout the British Empire.

Concluding his argument, he said his organization wanted the existing policy continued so that junior employees would get at least a portion of the day work.

Fraser Duncan, counsel for Local 569 representing the genie employees, told the committee that the city had refused to sign an agreement with that union and had also refused to adopt the findings of the board of conciliation on the dispute.

He said he had received reports that the All-Canadian union was affiliated with the C.I.O.

REFERS TO STRIKES

Mr. Duncan further alleged that some members of that union had taken part in laundry and packing plant strikes which occurred in Edmonton last spring.

President Wood of the All-Canadian union, emphatically denied these statements.

It was further charged that All-Canadian unions had given support to a number of candidates in the November 10 municipal elections, and had distributed pre-election pamphlets.

ARE TAXPAYERS

Referring to this allegation, President Wood said any action members of his union may have taken in this connection had been done through its association with the All-Canadian organization as a whole and which covered many trades in the city. He said 90 per cent of the members were taxpayers and as such had the right to express opinions as a democratic privilege.

Thomas Steele, member of the fire department and president of the Edmonton Federation of Civic Employees, said the Federation was supporting senior motormen in their claims. He pointed out the privilege of working day runs was the only seniority advantage motormen had. Both junior and senior motormen received the same rate of pay.

Asked by Ald. Casselman what difference there was between the present working policy and the 1936 recommendations of the board of arbitration, Delegate Wood replied that the board's recommendations, if carried out, would give junior employees one month of day work in every four, instead of one in three, as provided for in the present agreement.

URGES ONE FACT

There is at present no agreement between the city and Local 569 on motormen's working conditions, the city having signed an agreement with the All-Canadian union only. Ald. Ogilvie declared this should be reversed, and that the only agreement should be one between the city and Local 569.

"But there are All-Canadian unions in other city departments," observed Mayor Fry.

There are All-Canadian unions in the street railway and power departments," Commissioner R. J. Gibb explained.

CASSELMAN PROTESTS

"It's not right that seniority should give all the day work to senior men and all the night work to junior men," contended Ald. Casselman. He felt that either the senior men should be willing to accept all the recommendations of the board (including that giving junior employees a share of day work) or none.

"If all the recommendations were accepted all the rights of seniority would be violated," Mayor Fry declared.

"You're just swallowing the old idea of seniority—and it's not right," replied Ald. Casselman. "If it's left to Local 569 to make concessions to the junior men it's likely the local won't budge one inch."

Ald. Casselman opposed any recommendation being made to council by the committee until such time as the two unions had been given an opportunity to get together and settle their differences.

Discussion closed when a majority of committee members supported Ald. Paterson's motion.

What will Paris do next? Wearing a live pigeon on your hat is a good trick if you can induce one to stay put. And we certainly can be thankful that the style doesn't run to turkeys, instead. Think of toting a 10-pound gobbler on your noggin!

The board's recommendation covering this point reads, in part: "The board recommends that the full seniority rights of the men in the selection and holding of runs be restored. . . ."

Committee members voting for the motion were Chairman Ald. J. H. Ogilvie, Mayor John W. Fry, Ald. Edward Brown and Ald. Paterson. Those opposed were Ald. F. C. Cas-

RE-ENACT CRASH TO FIND CAUSES

JAMALPUR, India, Dec. 10.—In an effort to fix responsibility and avoid recurrence, the authorities provided a spectacle of a 600-ton train hurtling at 50 miles an hour to destruction during official tests into the causes and nature of the derailment at Bihta, Bihar, of the Punjab Express when 100 people were killed.

Plunging on after passing over a deflected rail the engine leaped at a buffer consisting of 500 tons of earth. The noise of a heavy explosion and a momentary "black out" of flying earth, stones and timber followed. The first four coaches were telescoped and smashed to splinters. It is believed that this is the first time such an experiment has been carried out in India. Crowds which gathered to see it were kept well out of the danger area.

Earlier experiments were confined to slow derailments under a variety of circumstances. Examination carried out at Bihta by experts immediately after the disaster and the collation of data thus obtained led to certain lines of thought as to the cause of the accident.

For a more detailed study of these problems, the circumstances attending the Bihta affair were duplicated as nearly as possible at Jamalpur. An engine of precisely the same type was selected.

ADELAIDE, Dec. 10.—If Don Bradman scores 637 runs in first class cricket this year he will break Clem Hill's 17,221-run aggregate. Hill's mark represents 32 seasons while Bradman has been in the game since 1927.

ELECTRIC FENCE MARCHES ALONG WITH PROGRESS

HERENDON, O., Dec. 10.—America's farm fences are going along with the march of time.

A single strand of electrically-charged barbed wire is displacing the old type four to six strand wire fence and other multi-assorted barriers.

The controller unit is automatic. Neither rain nor snow affects its operation. Through a highly perfected series of electric apparatuses the current from a light socket or battery is controlled in voltage. It may be turned high or low, on or off, thus allowing for safety and effectiveness in holding livestock.

The wire is rigged high enough so that cattle may graze for weeds underneath or the weeds may be cut with a mower, eliminating fence line weeds. Expensive fences too are eliminated. A single wire, the width of a gate hook and spring are all that are needed.

Actual operation of the fence is simple. The livestock touch the wire, establishing a contact with the ground, and after finding out the wire's potency rarely have again the desire to "wander."

The line fence is dangerous only when connected directly to a power line. There is no danger when the current passes through a controller unit

NO CHRISTMAS PRESENTS FOR RELIEF FOLKS

CALGARY, Dec. 10—Calgary's unemployed got bad news last night.

If a relief committee decision is ratified by city council there will be no special Christmas grant because the federal grant-in-aid to the city has been reduced $2,500 a month.

A Yuletide grant would cost $5,200.

The committee voted that each family on relief be given a Christmas present of $2 and single unemployed 50 cents each. The council will have the final say Dec. 20. Alderman Rose Wilkinson, Social Credit, sponsored the Christmas allowance.

There are 10,359 persons on family relief and an additional 248 single unemployed in Calgary.

Budge Beaten

MELBOURNE, Dec. 10 — Jack Crawford and Vivian McGrath of Australia today defeated Donald Budge and Gene Mako of United States, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4, 7-5, in the men's doubles final of the Victorian Tennis tournament.

Member Wilkins' Search Party To Receive Yule Gift

When Stan McMillan, chief pilot of McKenzie Air Service, takes off from Edmonton airport next Wednesday with the Christmas mail and express for Aklavik and intermediate points he will be carrying a Christmas gift for S. A. "Al" Cheesman, from the "flying alderman's" wife in Fort Arthur.

The parcel arrived at the Mackenzie Air Service Edmonton office in care of W. Leigh Brintnell, president of the company Friday morning for re-shipment to the north by plane.

"I knew the Cheesmans down east when I was flying down there in 1922 and '23, before Al learned to fly," explained Brintnell.

"Besides being a good pilot Al is a mighty fine engineer and is one of the best trouble-shooters in the business. Sir Hubert certainly made a smart move when he got Al to go north with him," said the airman.

U.A.T. Planes Are Busy In The North

United Air Transport reported Pilot Ralph Oakes southbound from Fort St. John with the regular mail. He is expected to arrive in Edmonton late Friday afternoon. Pilot Ernie Richards left Whitehorse early Friday morning for Edmonton. He is expected to arrive in Edmonton with members of the Mulholland party, whose plane cracked up at Nelson Forks Thursday.

Sheldon Lack has returned from his fish prospecting trip in northern Saskatchewan with a representative of MacInnis Fisheries Limited. Grant McConachie is flying fresh fish out of Whitecourt and Charlie Tweed is expected with the mail from Takla Landing to Prince George on the regular mail run.

Committee Sits On Compensation

Sittings of the special legislative committee appointed to investigate revision of the Workmen's Compensation Act, were continued at the legislative buildings on Friday, under the chairmanship of Fred Anderson, M.L.A., of Calgary.

It is expected that the committee will sit for several days more, prior to commencing drafting of its report for submission to the next legislative session which is expected to open on Thursday, Jan. 27.

157 Homesteads Filed On During Month November

During November homesteads filed with the various provincial land offices totalled 157, according to figures released on Friday by Hon. N. E. Tanner, minister of lands and mines.

The Edmonton office took the lead in filing with 79, with the Peace River office second with 76 and the Calgary office next with two.

Of the Edmonton filings, there were 70 first entries, nine second and the whole including 34 women.

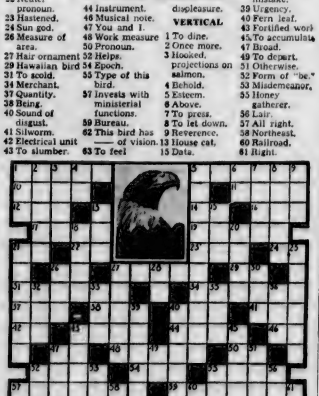

There were 74 firsts and two seconds filed at Peace River, the total including 28 entries to women. One of the two Calgary entries was by a woman.

There were no soldier grants filed at any of the land offices.

BIG CAVEMAN CANNOT TAKE WIFE'S ABUSE

NEWARK, N.J., Dec. 10. — William John Fielding, 52, author, being sued by his second wife, Mrs. Margaret Fielding, 38, for separate maintenance, described himself in court yesterday as "extremely sensitive" to his wife's "harsh and abusive language," which he said, forced him to leave her.

Fielding is the author of "The Caveman Within Us."

Mrs. Fielding, who is asking temporary alimony, countered with the charge that her husband left her after saying he no longer loved her.

HOLIDAY WILL BE DECLARED DECEMBER 27

In order to permit of Boxing Day, Monday, Dec. 27 being as widely observed throughout the province as is desired, the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council will issue a proclamation declaring the day a holiday, in accordance with provisions of the Interpretation Act, passed at the regular 1936 session of the legislature

While municipalities have power under the act to close places of business operating under a city license and while the provincial government has similarly can close places operating under provincial licenses, a proclamation is required to enable banks and some other institutions to close and observe Boxing Day.

It was with these objects in mind that the proclamation is being published.

Idaho Hangman Cheated As Man Kills Himself

BOISE, Idaho, Dec. 10 — Suicide plunge before the eyes of his sorrowing parents cheated the hangman of triple-slayer Douglas Van Clacks life 13 minutes after his scheduled execution today.

Van Clack, convicted of killing his wife, was to have been hanged at 12:10 a.m. M.S.T. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Van Clack of Tacoma, Wash., came to bid him goodbye four hours earlier.

Van Clack kissed his mother, broke from his guards, climbed to the top of a 30-foot cell block and dived off. His head and shoulder crashed against the concrete floor.

REJECTION OF REVAMP PLAN CAUSES LOSS

Former Official Of Beverly Ltd. Explains Company's Collapse

Main factor in the collapse of Beverly Limited in January, 1933, was attributed by F. J. Rowe, M.P. for Athabasca and former managing director of the company, to the refusal of the shareholders to sanction the re-organization proposal put forward by E. J. Clarke at that time.

Had this offer been accepted, the company would have been able to carry on, and, in his opinion, the shareholders would not have lost a single cent, Mr. Rowe told the Royal Commission inquiring into the financial affairs of Beverly town.

SCHEME DRAFTED

In January, 1933, Mr. Clarke advanced the town $6,000 to the company to carry it through its winter's operations and also formulated a scheme which would enable the company to postpone payment of pressing current liabilities for a period of one year.

Questioned by H. A. Mackie, K.C., counsel for the deposed mayor and town council, on steps taken leading up to the formation of the company, Mr. Howe said the project incorporated co-operation features in that it provided for contribution of miners' wages for shares.

He advised the miners not to insist in having a representative on the directorate until they had the capital stock subscribed for.

The men agreed to this suggestion, he told the commission, and were perfectly satisfied with it at all times.

ASSETS OF $35,000

Mr. Rowe submitted a report from David Jones, mining engineer, prepared in January, 1933, for the directors which showed that the mining plant and equipment was valued at $55,000 and including development work or the lease. This work, with "life-expectancy" of 35 years, the report stated.

The fact that production during the previous months had been in the ratio of only 200 tons per day for each miner employed had resulted in a loss, but he understood that the law provided that this had been caused to some extent by conditions since rectified, the report continued.

The Jones report continues that from that time on the production had risen to three tons per miner, and he expected this to be further increased to three and a half to four tons per mine per day within the next few weeks.

LIQUIDATION

Mr. Howe said that at this period financial aid had been arranged to carry on the operations, but the shareholders would not agree to his suggestion of amalgamation with Mr. E. J. Clarke. This refusal, he said, compelled the company to go into voluntary liquidation.

Tax-forfeiture proceedings against delinquent property undertaken before 1932 were to be used to increase revenue for the town during the years 1933 and their re-establishment on the roll, Mr. Howe stated. As lots were sold mineral rights were reserved to the town.

Mr. Rowe said that when the certificate incorporating Beverly Limited was granted the company had the necessary $20,000 in cash. He said no consideration had been given the insertion of a clause in the lease which would prevent its assignment, but it should revert to the town in case the company went into bankruptcy.

WAGE BOND

The men had been consulted before application was made in 1931 to have the company exempted from carrying out bond to secure miners' wages. The matter was discussed in 1932 with some of the miners who were present when the renewal was made. It was generally understood that the applications were being made, Mr. Howe testified. Pressed by Mr. Mackie to give names of miners consulted in 1932, Mr. Howe said he was unable to recall them.

Mr. Howe stated that the co-operative aspect of the project, and other factors concerning pending legislation, had assisted in Mr. Fream's decision to grant the exemption.

DOMINIONS HAND SOOPS 8-4 DEFEAT

SPORTS BULLETIN

Looking Them Over

By Jack Kelly

Worth Support Hockey Helmets Thomas Tough

WHILE the Superiors admittedly lack co-ordination on many of their plays, even their most severe critics must admit that they give everything they have once they get out on the ice. They play wide-open hockey, they gamble when there is a chance of making it pay and no one can accuse them of stalling. This also applies to the Dominions, but they have better drilled forward lines who seem to work on organized plays. The Dominions' defence is not as rugged as that of the Soops', but it is more deft and canny.

Right now the brand of hockey that the two Edmonton teams are playing strikes me as being considerably better than what it was a year ago at this time. I may be prejudiced, but the Dominions appear to me to be a much smarter club than the Calgary Rangers and they should hand the haughty league-leaders a drubbing the next time they meet—if they don't run into another mess of tough luck.

But no matter how you figure it, both the Dominions and Superiors are offering a calibre of hockey that is worthy of far better support than they have been getting. There are bound to be dull games at times—even in the National Hockey League—but on the whole the Big Six fixtures here this season are well worth the modest admission price charged. Both clubs are doing the very best they can under the circumstances. Why not give them a break and take in at least a couple of games each month?

Hockey Helmets Adopted by Dominions

THE majority of the Dominions are now wearing a new type of hockey helmet that seems to offer ideal protection. It has heavy leather protection over the forehead, temples and back of the head—the places where the majority of concussion blows are received. The top is open with the exception of a narrow band that holds front and back together.

Helmets eventually will be made compulsory in all organized hockey, but it will probably take a few more deaths and permanent injuries before the authorities lay down a rigid law enforcing such protection. These deaths and injuries could be avoided by laying that law down right now.

There is nothing "sissy" about wearing one of these helmets—it just proves that the wearer has good sound sense. It also proves that the team manager has enough foresight to do everything possible to protect his players. With men crashing head-on into boards and goal posts while travelling at break-neck speed, plunging into masses of flying steel skates, diving through smashing clubs and generally flirting with injuries, it is nothing more nor less than wanton negligence not to wear helmets. Hockey players will pad their shins, knees, elbows, hips and hands, but they will not protect their most vital spot—the brain. No parent should allow a boy to play without a helmet.

Thomas May Be Tough for Der Maxie

NOBODY so far has been loco enough to call Harry Thomas a serious contender for the heavyweight championship—even though he does tackle Max Schmeling next week. The more reliable experts do rate him, however, as a "spoiler," one of those awkward, tough lads who often make a champion look bad. Thomas, whose real name is Pontius, has apparently developed an effective sort of defence that is extremely hard to penetrate.

There are reports that this Thomas once knocked Joe Louis out in Los Angeles. Louis was there to fight Lee Ramage and Thomas was taken on as a sparring partner for the Brown Bomber. In the first round they boxed. Thomas bit Joe on top of the head and sent him into a tailspin that ended his workout for that day. Thomas was promptly fired for a less dangerous man.

Thomas has had quite a career during his 38 years of life. He was brought up on a farm and wrestled on the team of Trinity College, Iowa. After that he was a minor league catcher, cowboy, and a locomotive fireman and engineer. He pulled a throttle for the last time in 1932. He has bowled over 60 out of 71 opponents in the ring and lost only five decisions. He is a long way from being a palooka. Der Maxie planned this fight as a warm-up, and it is likely to be really torrid.

Motormen Vault to Second Place Tie In Loop Standings

Bill Gauf Paces Dominions With Four Goals —Game Produces Whirlwind Action All the Way—Soops Make Dangerous Bid

PACED by Bill Gauf, who rapped in four counters himself, the Dominions handed the Superiors an 8-4 trouncing here last night and vaulted into a tie with Calgary Brobies for second place in the Alberta Senior Six Hockey League standings.

Although the score would indicate that the Soops were never dangerous, they actually looked as if they might pull through with a win until the Dominions broke loose and buried them under an avalanche of goals during the last part of the second period and all of the third frame.

Lack of organization on their goal thrusts again scuttled the Superiors. While the Dominions amassed an impressive total of goals, they were not clicking quite as smoothly as they were when they defeated the Soops a week ago.

BRISTLING ACTION

Taken on the whole, the game was crammed with furious action and enough bright hockey to satisfy most folks. Right from the opening whistle, both clubs turned on the heat and never let up. There was no stalling around and plenty of fire.

Gauf opened the scoring after five minutes of play in the first period when he slammed in the rebound from Andy Anderson's shot. It was not until 12 minutes later that Townsend evened the count for the Soops. A flock of penalties had left the Dominions playing two men short for a minute and a half before the Superiors' gang attack clicked. Just before the period ended, the Dominions applied the power when Flett drew a penalty, Haxby scoring on a double pass from Purcell and Grove.

Townsend again tied up the score early in the second period when he went through the Dominions' defence single-handed and beat Goalie Laystyke from a deadly range. Forty seconds later, Wotherspoon gave the Soops a 3-2 lead when he loosed a long shot from outside the blue line that filtered through Layetske.

HITS TEXAS LEAGUER

Saldan of the Superiors drew a penalty at this point and the Dominions put on the power act. They scored twice, but each one was washed out by Referee Pep Moon for offside. Twelve minutes of the period had elapsed before the Dominions started clicking again. Purcell tied the score when he took a baseball swing at a shoulder-high pass from Grove. Four minutes later, Haxby and Gauf broke away on a rush, Gauf polishing off Haxby's pass for the Dominion's fourth tally. Darkes made it 5-3 for the motormen just before the period ended when he took McLeod's pass 15 feet inside the blue line and drilled a hard one into a corner of the net under Goalie Stuart's arm.

At the start of the third frame, Wismer of the Dominions drew a penalty for boarding Wotherspoon and the Soops put on their gang raid. Morgan scored the Superiors' fourth and last marker on a pass from Townsend.

BREAK FROM POWER PLAY

The Soops sent five men down in a desperate effort to pull the game out of the fire during the last five minutes. The two Anderson's, Jimmy and "Andy," broke away and tore in on Goalie Stuart, Jimmy scoring on Andy's assist. A minute later Gauf raced in on the Soop fort single-handed and rifled in his third goal of the night.

Penalties again fell in a cluster, three Soops and a Dominion finding themselves all in the cooler with something like a minute of play left. Gauf broke loose again at this time to get his fourth and the Dominions' eighth goal of the game.

LINEUPS:

DOMINIONS: Layetzke; Wismer, Gillies; Anderson; J. Anderson, Purcell, Grove. Subs: Darkes, Gauf, McLeod, Haxby, Klinspoon.

Drumheller Plays Here on Saturday Against Motormen

Edmonton hockey fans will get their first look at the Drumheller Miners here Saturday night when the Coal City club tangles with the Dominions in a scheduled Big Six League fixture timed to start at 9:00 p.m.

Fresh from their 8-4 win over the Superiors, the Dominions are confident that they can stop the Miners and at least stay in a second-place tie in the league standings. They can take sole possession of this slot if they win and the Superiors can beat the Bronks in Calgary. The other Saturday fixture sends the Calgary Rangers to Olds.

Coach Lefty Grove is not entirely satisfied with his Dominions yet, but he figures that they are getting their scoring eyes and that the remaining rough edges will soon be polished off. The club is playing fast, wide-open hockey of the type that should prove quite satisfactory to the customers.

The Miners are still an unknown factor here, but they were good enough to beat Olds and the best the Rangers could do against them was 3-0. This would indicate that they have something. Lack of training ice has held the team back, but it should be rapidly coming into form now and may be able to bow out its first win tomorrow night.

TRAVELLERS OPEN 'SPIEL DEC. 27

The fourth annual bonspiel of the United Commercial Travellers will get under way at the Edmonton Curling club on Monday, December 27, with what appears to be a record entry. Twenty-two rinks competed last year with the grand challenge going to G. LeLacheur, and it is fully expected that a bigger and better bonspiel will be held this year. Attractive prizes will be awarded and will be on display Christmas week.

The bonspiel will be held entirely under one roof this year with four draws each day and will wind up with a banquet in the Hudson's Bay dining room Thursday, December 30. Entry fee will include the banquet.

Entries will now be accepted at the office of the Toledo Scale Co., or with the committee in charge: J. A. McLean, chairman; Ted Bumstead, secretary; Bert Marsden, George Hutchinson.

In Big Time

HOWARD MACKIE

In the general shakeup of the Detroit Red Wings, N.H.L. champions for the past two seasons, Howard Mackie, speedy young right winger from the Pittsburgh club, has been called up to fill in on the line with Marty Barry and Rookie Carl Liscombe. The Red Wings have slipped badly this season and the bringing up of Mackie was one part of Manager Jack Adams' plan to try and get the club clicking again.

sociation was casting about for new play-off prospects. Negotiations with some undisclosed groups outside the province were under way, he said, and he indicated an announcement of new playoff realignment might be expected next week. He declined to disclose what bodies the Q.A.H.A. was feeling out.

SARACENS DRILL

Practices for the Saracens hockey team of the Sandlot league will be held on Friday and Tuesday at the Stadium rink starting at 8:00 p.m. The following players are expected to turn out: Barber, Cooney, Clow, Gibson, Fleming, McKenzie, Mayhew, Johnson, Bradshaw, Harris, Ferris, Jarman, Ferguson, Zewenluk, Biloski, Shooter, Ciz.

A MAN is no exception to the rule. He does like to receive practical gifts for Christmas—socks, for instance. And you can be sure he'll appreciate them more if they have the Penmans name. Penmans Socks are acceptable to men because of their smart patterns, good fit and exceptional quality. Give Penmans Socks this Christmas—as a compliment to "his" taste. 6457

QUEBEC HEADS SURE LEAGUES BEHIND THEM

MONTREAL, Dec. 10—Claims of overwhelming support in its field were put forward last night by the Quebec Amateur Hockey association as it counted noses among affiliated leagues after President Cecil Duncan had ordered it suspended from the Canadian Amateur Hockey association.

We're positive of every league in the province," declared Q. A. H. A. secretary - treasurer Al phonse Therien. Already, he said, the governor's larger leagues had been in touch with the Q.A.H.A. and had promised to "stand by" it.

The secretary-treasurer asserted his association was "perfectly satisfied" with Duncan's order from Ottawa Wednesday night suspending the Quebec body after its violation of the parent body's ruling involving eligibility of players.

NOTHING LEFT TO RULE

Though the C. A. H. A. head planned a commission to govern Quebec hockey under its segis, Therien was of the belief there would be little hockey outside the Q.A.H.A. for it to rule in the province. The Quebec senior hockey league, most powerful amateur loop in the province, already has indicated its support of the Q.A.H.A. and so has the provincial league.

Hector Bovin, president of the provincial league, declared Thursday his body would support the Q.A.H.A. solidly in view of the fact it allowed Boston Olympics into the circuit after the C.A.H.A. had ordered that Olympics must not play.

Accepting, too, the loss of Allan cup chances, Therien said the association was "perfectly satisfied" with Duncan's order from Ottawa Wednesday night suspending the Quebec body after its violation of the parent body's ruling involving eligibility of players.

Wembley-Brighton Win Hockey Tilts On English Ice

LONDON, Dec. 10.—Wembley Lions and Brighton Tigers won National League hockey games last night, Lions defeating Wembley Monarchs 2-1 and Tigers taking Earls Court Rangers 4-3.

Albert Lamay of St. Boniface, Man., and Ab Welsh of Saskatoon scored for the champion Lions while Jack Milford of Winnipeg notched the only Monarch counter.

Don Grant of Ottawa got two of the Tigers goals and Al Rogers of Montreal and Oscar Aubuchon of St. Hyacinthe, Que., the others. Doug Maundrell of Ottawa, Howie Peterson of Newmarket, Ont., and Joe Brown of Edmonton scored for Earl's Court.

The squat position as illustrated above is too deep a posture for skiing, giving too little elasticity. The squat requires knee and hip joints to be bent as far as they will go, and the resulting posture is much too low to admit of the necessary springy "give" upwards body and joints become cramped.

and downwards when the ground is uneven. In addition the field of stability, which governs balance is too small, as the posterior is too low. Fatigue sets in easily and the muscles too immediately transformed into movement. If however, the joints are strained to their extreme bending position, the strain must first be removed before they can be called into action.

In other words they must first be returned to a state of medium, controlled bend so that the force necessary to movement can become effective. This requires the expenditure of time and energy instead of the instantaneous response of muscle and joint which is imperative to easy and enjoyable skiing.

MAROONS RACE TO 5-2 TRIUMPH OVER DETROIT

THOMAS GIVEN BARE CHANCE TO BEAT MAX

NEW YORK, Dec. 10. — Apparently mindful of past occasions when the line broke under them, boxing writers of Manhattan hedged today on the outcome of Max Schmeling's Monday night mix-up with Harry Thomas.

On Broadway the odds favored Schmeling at 5 to 1 over the flat-flinging brakeman from Minnesota, but the word has gone around that these are a trifle too fat and likely will be bolted down before fight time.

Thus the fight fans concede Thomas the outside chance to win that they failed to give Tommy Farr, the walloping Welshman who made Joe Louis look bad in 15 rounds last September.

It has become fashionable to be non-committal on Monday night's fight, or side with Schmeling and talk brightly on Thomas and the husky punch the "Minnesota Mauler" has displayed in training.

REMEMBER TOMMY?

"My memory is not so short that I forget the case of Thomas Marmadike Farr, the tonypanny toughie," says Dan Parker of the Daily Mirror. "He stayed the limit with Louis because he had plenty of courage and was a 'spoiler.' I get the same reports on Thomas."

Schmeling is 32. He trained faithfully. But he has not fought since he kayoed Louis 12 months ago on an occasion when the writing men predicted Schmeling faced annihilation by the brown bomber.

Yesterday his trainer, Max Machon, said Schmeling appeared overdrawn and past his peak. Some, however, saw this merely as a ballyhoo burp to make the bout appear more even and build up the gates.

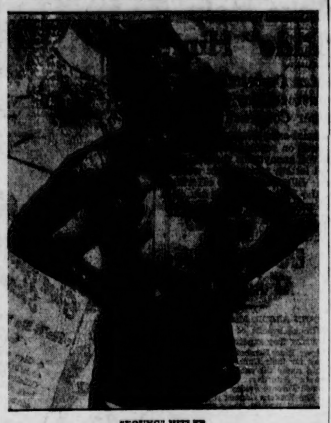

LONG LAY-OFF WORRIES

Most fight analysts admit Schmeling could be below form and still win from Thomas because of his advantage in experience, boxing ability and all-round ring equipment. It is the German's long layoff, his possible loss of timing, and his age that weigh favorably for his opponent.

Taking cognizance of these things, Parker adds: "Even looking at the thing from an optimistic angle, the best you can say for the match is that it wasn't a smart one for Maxie to make. Any fighter who has youth, courage and a punch stands a fair chance of upsetting a veteran like Max if he catches him rusty. Only on that grounds do I give Thomas a chance."

Elsewhere the writing gentry have prettily contented themselves with reporting the progress of both fighters in their training camps.

Tough Young German

"YOUNG" HITLER

German Rasslers Headline Four-Bout Fiesta Tonight

The big berthas, meaning the headline boys, will be Young Hitler, pictured above, pitted against Hans Schuman, making the headline bout a battle between a pair of good grappling Germans at the Memorial Hall tonight.

And it's a good match, for both grapplers have clean records here, having "knocked over" their opponents despite the fact both are comparative newcomers to the local mat.

There is little to choose between these grapplers. Hitler is a rough and rugged grappler, who will employ every tactic in trying to floor his opponent. Schuman, on the other hand is a clean and clever grappler. It will be a battle of cleverness against unorthodox holds and, if early predictions mean anything, Schuman is favored to win.

Three other good bouts have been lined up with Speedy Warren and Wildcat Pete matched in the semi-main joust. For rough and ready battlers they should make a good match.

In the other semi-main, Mickey Martin, of Calgary, gets his chance as he meets his first American grappling opponent. He will tassle none other than the popular Jack Brentano.

The preliminary will be an Edmonton affair with Cliff Parker giving Nelson Graham his second chance. Graham wrestled Parker last week and lost. He now wants his second chance to show his talent.

Action starts at 8:30 p.m.

WETASKIWIN IS WINNER OVER LACOMBE, 4-1

LACOMBE, Dec. 9.—Wetaskiwin Colonels took the long end of a 4-1 exhibition game with the Lacombe Athletics here Thursday night before a small crowd of hockey fans. Gleason proved too good for the Lacombe snipers, the only shot getting by him being a rebound off a shot by Cliff when Penman drove in early in the first period.

First period: 1, Lacombe, Penman-Cliff; 2, Wetaskiwin, Hartt-Davis. Penalty Shillback. Second period: 3, Wetaskiwin, Ellock. Penalties—Shillback, Roberts, Green, Hartt. Third period: 4, Wetaskiwin, Weis; 5, Wetaskiwin, Hartt. Penalties—Cliff, Carter, Brooks, Ellock. Referee, Lee Matthieson, Lacombe.

LINEUPS

Wetaskiwin: Gleason, Shillback, Maiher, Mohler, Ellock, Brown, Davis, Hartt, Green, Weis, Jackson.

Lacombe: E. Todd, Brooks, Cliff, Carter Penman, Miles, Chapman, Haverstock, Roberts, S. Todd, Frizzell.

GORMANITES PUNCH HOME LATE GOALS

Overcome Wings' Lead Twice — Barry Takes 20-Minute Rap

MONTREAL, Dec. 10.—Gaining momentum in the final period, the Montreal Maroons downed Detroit Red Wings 5-3 last night in a battle of the National Hockey League's last-place teams.

Ahead twice, the Wings lost a chance to gain a tie with New York Rangers for second place as they faded before a surprising Maroon onslaught. The winners advanced to within two points of the third-place New York Americans in the Canadian division.

EVANS LEADS RUSH

Stew Evans, big Maroon defenceman, led the winning drive after Detroit's line of Marty Barry, Larry Aurie and Herb Lewis had brought Wings their first two goals. Evans scored twice on lone rushes that carried him crashing through the Detroit defence early in the last period.

A revised line-up clicked for Maroons. Coach King Clancy used Maurice Croghan, whom the club brought up from amateur ranks during the day, on defence. Tommy Cook was put back into the line-up and locked goal between Baldy Northcott and Jimmy Ward.

Barry got the game's first goal as Detroit's opening bid, combining with Lewis, but Marvin Wentworth tied the score before half the first period was over. Aurie gave Wings the lead again as the middle frame started, but Russ Blinco got the leveller while Detroit was a man short half-way through the period.

BARRY GOES BERSERK

Evans' game-winning drives were capped by Ward's score on a pass from Wentworth.

Marty Barry, who won the Lady Byng trophy last winter for clean and effective play, drew 20 minutes in penalties last night for arguing over a slight infringement. Given a minor penalty in the third chapter, he argued back and drew a 10-minute misconduct sentence. When he kept talking Referee Clarence Campbell added 10 more minutes, though the game ended before his second term was up.

LINEUPS:

DETROIT: Smith; Young, McDonald; Barry; Aurie, Lewis. Subs: Pettinger, Bruneteau, H. Kilrea, Howe, Bowman.

LACOMBE, Mackie, Dovan, Drouillard.

MAROONS: Beveridge; Wentworth, Evans; Cook; Northcott, Ward. Subs: Shields, Trottier, Marker, Gracie, Shannon, Hallinen, Robinson, Cain, Croghan.

Officials: Mickey Ion and Clarence Campbell.

SUMMARY

First period: 1—Detroit, Barry (Lewis) 2:49; 2—Maroons, Wentworth (Gracie) 9:15. Penalty: Lewis.

Second period: 3—Detroit, Aurie (Barry, Lewis) 2:12; 4—Maroons, Blinco (Trottier, Robinson) 9:40. Penalties: Shields, Howe, Young, Robinson, Wentworth, Mackie.

Third period: 5—Maroons, Evans 8:52; 6—Maroons, Evans (unas.) 7:—; roons, Ward (Wentworth) 14:43. Penalties: Bowman, Wentworth, Brunteau, Barry (minor and two 10-minute misconduct penalties).

Eastern Junior Gridiron Finalists Still Unagreeable

WINDSOR, Ont., Dec. 10. — Because Windsor Grads and Hamilton Italo-Canadians car ?? reach a financial agreement with regards to a proposed sudden-death game Saturday for the "unofficial" eastern Canadia junior rugby championship, it is almost certain the game will not be played, William (Red) Morrison, president of the Grads, O.R.F.U. chananna, said Thursday night.

"We cannot reach agreement and the weather is almost prohibitive," Morrison said. "The Hamilton club has offered us a guarantee of $50 or a 60-40 split on gate receipts to go to Hamilton but we can't play on that. We offered them the same but they won't come here."

Meanwhile, Regina Dales, Western Canada junior champions, want to come east and play either team for the Canadian title. They expected to play the championship till Dec. 18.

WESTMINSTER LACROSSE ACES PLAY IN U.S.A.

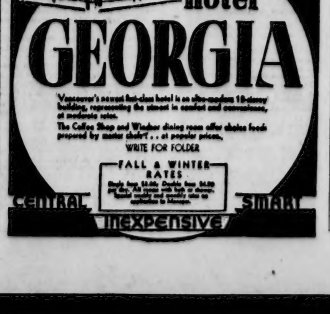

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C., Dec. 10.—Four members of the Salmonbellies lacrosse team, Canadian champions, Thursday announced they would leave today for California where they will play in a Hollywood lacrosse league which will open December 27 and run until March 4.

The Salmonbellies stars going south are Bill Wilson, Jack Hughes, Bill Tyler and Alf Davy. Seven members of the North Shore Indians also will move south. They are Henry Baker, Hubie Smith, Bef Smith, Jack Squires, Joe Johnston, Beri Ettershank and Dece Vanevery.

Jim McConaghy, member of the British Columbia lacrosse commission, said he had been advised that the Canadian Lacrosse association had refused permission to Canadian players to play in California and that violation of the ruling would result in suspension from the game here for two years.

Trail and Coleman Win Opening Tilts In Kootenay Area

Smoke-Eaters Hand Rossland Redmen 10-1 Walloping to Start Season—Coleman Canadians Beat All-Star Team 3-2

ROSSLAND, B.C., Dec. 10.—Trail Smoke Eaters inaugurated the current season of the East Kootenay Hockey league here Thursday night by overwhelming the Rossland Redmen 10-1. Trail took an early lead of 4-1, and found the goal cat will in the final period, when they shot home six successive counters.

The first two periods saw 13 penalties dealt out to both teams, but during Trail's scoring splurge in the third frame only two men were sent from the ice.

Smoke Eaters scored almost as soon as the puck flipped into action, with Andreashuk registering the first point, and Brennan raised the lead to 2-0 in the first three minutes of the game.

WELYKOCHY GETS IT

Morris took a pass from Cronie to shoot in Trail's third counter. Just before the first period ended Welykochy, who drew penalties in every period of the game, slipped through the Trail defence to score Rossland's first and only goal.

As the game went into its second period the Redmen displayed more effective defensive tactics and held Smoke Eaters down to a solitary point, scored by Brennan from Cronie after five minutes of play.

The final period saw the Redman defence crumble before the spearhead attack of Kowcinak and Cronie. Kowcinak accounted for three of the six goals, and Cronie for two others. McCreedy's shot boosted the total to 10-1 with an unassisted counter.

LINEUPS

ROSSLAND—Goal, Forrest; Defence: Neil, Wynn, Wade and Jones; Forwards: Smith, Wanless, Welykochy. Forsey, Spencer and Cowland.

TRAIL—Goal, Buchanan; Defence: Johnstone, Haight, Kwasnie and Morris; Forwards: Cronie, Andreashuk, Brennan, Dame, McCreedy and Kowcinak.

SUMMARY

First Period: 1. Trail, Andreashuk, 2:04; 2. Trail, Brennan, 3:00; 3. Trail, Morris (Cronie), 12:14; 4, Rossland, Welykochy (Smith), 18:18.

Penalties: Andreashuk, Welykochy, Wade (2), Kowcinak (5), McCreedy (5), Welykochy, Dame and Wynn.

Second Period: 5, Trail, Brennan (Cronie), 3:36.

Penalties: Welykochy, Morris, Kwasnie, Wynn and Morris.

Third Period: 6, Trail, Cronie, 3:07; 7, Trail, McCreedy, 7:50; 8, Trail, Kowcinak, 7:07; 9, Trail, Kowcinak, 17:47; 10, Trail, Cronie (Andreashuk), 19:47.

Penalties: Welykochy, Wynn.

COLEMAN, Dec. 11.—Coleman Canadians chalked up a 3-3 decision over Kootenay League All-Stars here Thursday night, a goal by Schinieff late in the second period clinching the game after Carr had tied the count earlier in the period.

Schnieff and Fraser scored about half way through the opening session to give Coleman an early lead but All-Stars, somewhat disorganized at first, hit their stride near the end of the session and got one of the goals back when Dave Duchak converted Marshall's pass.

All-Stars started the middle frame with the same spirit and were rewarded when Carr scored on a pass from Kiever. Coleman soon wiped out the hard-earned equaliser when Schnieff and Lopichuk combined to beat Scodallero, Schnieff finding the net.

Hard checking and many near scores featured the last session but both goalies were slapping them out from all angles. Coleman put up a strong defence when threatened by the All-Star power plays to smother most attempts before they became dangerous.

LINEUPS

COLEMAN: Kemp; Hill, Johnston; Murdoch; Ceciett, Aastsworth. Subs: W. Fraser, Watkins, Schnieff, Lopichuk, R. Brown, Joyce, Landuk.

KOOTENAY ALL-STARS: Scodallero H. Brown, Burnett; Onufrechuk; Snowden, Duchak, Subs: Hayes, Harrison, Christiansen, Kiever, Keleta, Carr, Marshall Lavington.

Officials: Viney and Johnstone.

SUMMARY

First Period: 1. Coleman, Schnieff (Brown), 11:30; 2, Coleman, Fraser (Jenkins), 13:10; 3, All-Stars, Duchak (Marshall), 17:20. Penalty, Onufrechuk.

Second Period: 4, All-Stars, Carr (Kiever), 12:30; 5, Coleman, Schnieff (Lopichuk), 15:30. Penalties: Hill, Johnstone, W. Brown.

Third Period: No score. Penalties: Snowden, Duchak.

Snow Flurries Are Forecast Saturday's Gridiron Final

TORONTO, Dec. 10.—Unless the weather bureau barometer has football jitters like everybody else connected with the event, Saturday's Canadian gridiron final will be played out in the snow.

The official forecast is "snowfalls and flurries" for tomorrow. After escaping a storm that for two days has piled snow high in eastern Ontario and the Niagara Peninsula, Toronto and its Varsity stadium are in for it.

A snowstorm will spoil everything—playing conditions for the country's great teams, seat sale for the Canadian Rugby union, the spectacle for fifty or more fans who will stay away in large numbers in unpleasant weather.

ARRANGEMENTS COMPLETE

Final arrangements for the first east-west battle since the Bombers conquered the Hamilton Tigers in 1935, were completed when President W. C. Foulds, of the C.R.U., announced officials had been agreed upon.

Hec Crichton, head man of the Big Four's whistle-blowing corps, will referee. The umpire will be Eddie Grant, of Winnipeg, who worked in the same capacity with Crichton in the 1935 Final. Jon Breen, of Montreal, former playing star and later coach of Western Mustangs, is head linesman.

In great condition for the struggle Argos held a light signal drill on Thursday. All Lew Hayman has had to do is keep his eastern champions polished on plays.

At Ann Arbor, where the Bomber board of strategy expected to do its best work in favorable weather, Coach Fritz and his warriors have put in a gruelling week. They've practised football, talked football, studied football.

BOMBERS DOUBTFUL

Critics who have watched Argos mow down all opposition this season with an attack taking many forms, but chiefly forms fundamentally sound, leaned strongly to a belief the Bombers would be unable to match the scullers under the conditions.

Under rules strange to them, they didn't expect Winnipegs to play their best. Away from competition a month, the Bombers would not start "hot." Timing would suffer, plays might go wrong, the downfield tacklers might take time to get adjusted.

In addition, Bob Isbister of Argos would outpunt Winnipegs by many yards.

The twin question marks were conceded to be Bob Fritz and Fritz Hanson attack. Jeff Nicklin and Bud Marquardt on defence. These Bombers may carry all the answers Saturday.

Community Puck Loops

Play will begin in the four Community hockey leagues on Tuesday, December 14 when six teams will be entered into action. The Senior and Junior leagues have been divided into a North Side and a South Side division and a doubled schedule will be played. This policy of draw was adopted in order to lessen the amount of travelling by teams from the scattered parts of the city. All games are called for 8 p.m., and the first named is home team.

Wanderers' Starry Forward Asks Help As Fans "Ride" Him

Unsigned Letters Threaten Certain Players On Bolton Team; Brentford May Offer Hockey Ace Soccer Contract

LONDON, Dec. 10.—The otherwise-calm English football situation rocked a little this week on reports several Bolton Wanderers' players had received anonymous threatening letters. But, unlike the unsigned letters received six weeks ago by Fred Biddlestone, Aston Villa goalkeeper, offering him $5,000 to "throw matches, the Bolton missives are obviously from disgruntled supporters who have taken dislikes to certain players.

Matters came to a head when J. Milsom, leading scorer on the roster last year and international centre-forward, asked to be placed on the transfer list. He said he feels the crowd "is not with me."

TEMPT HOCKEYISTS

Another interesting piece of information trickled from the Brentford camp where it was hinted the team may offer a contract to Alec Archer of Winnipeg, winger on Wembley Lions hockey team. Archer gained considerable fame as a right-halfback in Canada while playing for the Dominion against Scottish tourists in 1935.

Weather reports from all over England today were not encouraging for the second round of games and second round of the cup on Saturday snow was general Thursday morning and forecasters report rain also. Everton tried an electrical frost-combatting device on a small patch of its practice ground and results were successful. Wires were laid nine inches under the surface and the current switched on.

IN TOUGH SPOT

The Bees are in a difficult position this week-end as they entertain Leeds while Preston goes to London to meet the greatly-improved Arsenal eleven.

Chelsea, with Mills, high-scoring international forward back on the lineup after a long sojourn on the sidelines due to an injury, has a comparatively "soft" match at Derby. Bolton is at home to Liverpool and Wolverhampton is visited by Middlesbrough.

Coventry City, beaten only once in its 17 games to date, has a good chance to break its second division leadership tie with Bond Thistle. The City goes to Fulham, imbedded in the relegation zone and Sheffield plays at West Ham United. West Ham is three points down from the leaders.

Activities in both third division sections will be centred mainly on the cup games. Notts county joint pacemakers in Millwall's in the southern section, plays at home against Northampton Town. Millwall is unbeaten away from home in the third round and Bournemouth, its scheduled opponent this week, meets Newport County in cup warfare.

Gateshead, alone in front of northern section, looks pushover for two points against Southport.

Invited to take part in a tournament next summer in the empire exhibition at Glasgow, Sunderland and Chelsea have accepted but Manchester City has declined, providing continental commitments permit, Arsenal will send a team. It is expected a Manchester will be replaced by Everton.

Plans call for Aberdeen, Celtic, Hearts and Rangers representing the Scottish League meeting English teams with first-round matches scheduled May 25, 27, 30 and June 1. Semi-finals are down for June 3, and 6 and the closing contest on June 10.

Scottish Leaders Favored Saturday

GLASGOW, Dec. 10.—Scottish Football League leaders, with exception of Motherwell, are favored by schedule-makers this week-end. They have home matches, Motherwell playing in Glasgow against Third Lanark.

Alone in first place, Hearts are favorites to overcome Arbroath while the Fir Parkers, leading club until beaten 2-1 by Celtic last Saturday, is slightly favored to take all points against Third Lanark.

In a runner-up tie with Motherwell, Celtic entertains the erratic Dundee eleven. Dundee startled critics with a brilliant early-season showing but a succession of defeats and drawn games have shoved the Dens Park eleven into seventh position, nine points behind the leaders.

ALL UNDECIDED

Held to a tie in a Glasgow "derby" with Clyde last week, Rangers again figure in a cross-town game—this time with Queen's Park, the country's most colorful amateur club, the visitor. The Light Blues, although beaten only once in 18 starts, has eight drawn matches. Anything can happen here.

Aberdeen has shown signs of regaining first-class form in recent matches and is billed to play before home-town crowds against Queen of South. The Dons are favored. Falkirk, in fifth position, is the pregame choice at Ayr.

The second vision situation presents a different picture. Raith Rovers have been running up high scores on varied opponents and today is five points ahead of Albion Rovers and East Fife, bracketed in the runner-up position.

Raith Rovers in Dunfermline and on Saturday while East Fife entertains Edinburgh City. Albion Rovers visit Dundee United.

TULSANS TRIUMPH

TULSA, Okla., Dec. 10—Tulsa trounced St. Paul, 6-1, in the American Hockey association, Lloyd Gross scoring three goals and Anderson, Riley and Roche one each. Red Anderson netted for Sainte.

"PEG BOMBERS END PRACTICE AT ANN ARBOR

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Dec. 10.—Without benefit of the extensive training they expected to get, Winnipeg Blue Bombers left here today for their Canadian championship rugby tilt with Toronto Argonauts Saturday. Bombers will reach Toronto Friday night.

The Western Canada rugby kings whipped through their final practice Thursday. The session was devoted to three hours of offensive and defensive work in the mammoth field house with its dirt floor. There was no scrimmaging.

Rearrangement since they arrived in this University of Michigan centre Sunday disrupted the Manitobans proposed training program and the weather was so bitterly cold today that Coach Quarterback Bob Fritz decided against sending his charges out on windswept Ferry Field with its two inches of snow and ice. There'll be no more practices before the Gray Cup struggle.

Coach Fritz said he was not satisfied with the way Bombers went through their paces this week while changing their style of play to conform to eastern rules. The 'Peg huskies played under American type rules in Western Canada competition. However, Bombers looked better today in the indoor practice.

NICKEL BELT IS HARD HIT BY PRO SCOUTS

SUDBURY, Ont., Dec. 10—Nickel Belt hockey league moguls feared they would be unable this year to muster a team potent enough to defend the Allan cup won last spring by Sudbury Tigers.

Eight of the league's stars along with three other Northern Ontario players, were snapped up by professional clubs in the last two months, at a time when amateur rules forbade importation of new players to any league team.

Latest man to leave the league is George Allen, of Frood Mine Tigers last year with North Battleford, Sask. Beavers. He will go to New Haven Eagles in the International-American league where Alex Singebuth, Conreco Aces star, went a few weeks ago.

Acheson of Kirkland Lake left the district to join Montreal Canadiens and Dillon Beckett of Falconbridge is now trying out with Montreal Maroons. Bingo Kampman was another emigrant.

A quartet that left early in October included Murph Chamberlain, now with Toronto Maple Leafs; Mel Hill, Jack Shewchuk and Red Hamill who all went to Boston Bruins and are playing with Providence. Johnny Crawford of Lake Shore is also playing with Providence.

Montreal Hockey Ace Signs With Maroon Squad

MONTREAL, Dec. 10.— Maurice Croghan, Montreal-born defence-man, under indefinite suspension by the Canadian Amateur Hockey association for failing to observe residence rules of the governing body, yesterday signed a contract with Montreal Maroons of the National Hockey league.

Terms were not disclosed but officials said Croghan likely would be in uniform almost immediately.

Marshall Floors Shick of Bagdad

TORONTO, Dec. 10. — Everett Marshall, of Colorado, defeated the Sheik of Bagdad in a wrestling match here last night. The Sheik conceded the fall after 12 minutes under pressure of an armlock and was so injured he was unable to continue. Marshall weighed 231 pounds; the Sheik 238.

In a semi-final, John Katan, 218, Winnipeg, wrestled to a 30-minute draw with Marvin Westernberg, 234, Tacoma, Wash.

BOWLING

Hurman-Gerald Lose

Having to double out to win by a small margin of 10 pins, the Hurkins-Barker team took their eighth straight triumph in the challenge doubles as they turned back Rollie Hurman and George Gerald at the Recreation Bowling Academy.

The Hurman-Gerald team had a three-game total of 1118 pins while Wilkins and Barker knocked over 1128 for their total.

Alberta Files Appeal On Interest Act Judgment

Claim Act Within Legislative Power Of This Province

Cleaned From Today's News

Canadian Airways reported that Norville Small arrived at the Edmonton airport from McMurray on Thursday afternoon with five passengers. Inspector O. C. P. Montambert, R.C.M.P., Jorgensen, O'Brien, Gee and Glover.

Carman W. Dawdy, Edmonton, was unsuccessful in his action brought against the Ocean Accident and Guarantee Corporation limited seeking $99.60 damages for loss sustained in a motor car collision, Judge Crawford, in district court, dismissing the action with costs.

A public meeting of the Historical Society of Alberta will be held in the library of St. Joseph's College on Monday evening, Dec. 13, at 8 o'clock. The speaker will be Dr. Walter H. Scott, who has chosen as his subject, "The Beaver River Route."

Pilot Gil McLeve left the Edmonton airport Friday morning with a load of mail and express for Goldfields it was reported by Mackenzie Air Service. Marlowe Kennedy and Stan McMillan are reported northbound from Smith to Yellowknife, with Bob Randall freighting out of Cameron Bay.

Hon. D. S. Mullen, provincial minister of agriculture, will deliver an address on the government's policy on the poultry industry at a meeting of the Alberta Commercial Egg and Poultry Producers' Association in the Masonic Temple December 13 at 8 p.m. All members of the association are invited to attend the meeting.

One of the most popular residents of Yellowknife is Ross McDermid, owner and operator of one of the town's few aeroplanes. Ross plays only the latest tunes on his machine, and in order to keep entertainment up to date has a standing order with Canadian Airways calling for the delivery of four double-sided records of the hottest swing music every month. December's order left for the north Friday.

Clyde C. Gillies, president of the Edmonton branch of the People's League of Alberta, will reply to charges made by E. L. Gray, Alberta Liberal leader, in a broadcast over both Edmonton stations at 9:45 Friday evening. Mr. Gray on Monday said the League was unpopular throughout the province of receiving financial aid from eastern financial interests.

Appeal was filed on Friday by the provincial government, against the judgment of Mr. Justice A. F. Ewing of the Alberta supreme court, dated October 29, and entered on November 23, in which he declared ultra vires, the Provincial Guarantees Security Interest Act.

This Act gave the province the right to reduce interest payments on its guaranteed bonds, by 50 per cent.

VEHICLE OF ACTION

The vehicle of the action was the I.O.O.F. organization suing the Board of Trustees of the Lethbridge Northern Irrigation District and L. C. Charlesworth, manager thereof, for payment of full interest on $181,000 worth of Lethbridge Northern bonds held by the I.O.O.F.

The court of appeal will be asked to dismiss the Foresters' action insofar as the claim is in excess of the amount tendered and paid into court, and insofar as the plaintiff's for a declaration is concerned.

ARGUMENT IN SUPPORT

In support of this it will be argued that the Provincially Guaranteed Security Proceedings Act, 1937, is not ultra vires of the provincial legislature insofar as it relates to the subject matter of the action, and that the trial judge erred in holding that it conflicted with section two of the Interest Act of Canada.

It will be contended that the act, in its pith and substance, regulates and deals with property and civil rights in the province, and comes within its legislative competence under sub-sections 13, 14 and 16 of section 92 of the British North America Act.

FURTHER GROUND

A further ground to be advanced will be that the court erred in holding that it had jurisdiction to try and determine the action notwithstanding the fact that the consent of the Lieutenant-Governor in Council had not been obtained or applied for in accordance with the provisions of the Provincial Guaranteed Securities Proceedings Act.

It was also argued that section two of the Interest Act of Canada is ultra vires of the parliament of Canada, and also that the trial judge erred in failing to hold that the impugned act dealt only with the rate and amount of interest to be recovered in respect of certain kinds of contracts and as such was in its true pith and substance legislation relating to property and civil rights within the province and was not legislation relating to interest within the meaning of subsection 19, section 91 of the British North America act.

SISTER FAMED EXPLORER ON WAY TO CITY

MONTREAL, Dec. 10—Kathleen Shackleton, Canadian artist, left last night for Winnipeg en route to the far north to make portraits of Hudson's Bay company pensioners and natives. The collection will be placed in Hudson's Bay House in London. She will fly to Coppermine in a plane piloted by "Wop" May, Western Canada Air pioneer.

Sister of Sir Ernest Shackleton, the explorer, Miss Kathleen Shackleton has visited Edmonton several times in the past few months en route to the north where she has been engaged in making portraits of northern types.

Displayed in her suite at the Macdonald hotel on her last visit, were more than a score of paintings of veteran traders, grizzled miners, old Indians, and representative residents of the north.

Several local citizens interested in northern development also had their portraits made by Miss Shackleton.

The famous artist has drawn some of the leading statesmen and artists of Europe.

Police Court

"If I'd known he was a policeman I sure wouldn't have asked him for a dime. But I am a little blind in one eye," said James White, in police court Friday when he attempted to explain to Magistrate A. H. Gibson why he was begging on a downtown street.

Inspector J. J. Shaw said he had been stopped by White and asked for a dime on Thursday evening. On Wednesday evening White is alleged to have attempted to panhandle a dime from Detective-Sergeant Robert Peterson. He had eight dollars in his pocket when arrested.

Grinning from ear to ear, White pleaded guilty to the charge of begging. "Why do you do this?" asked the cadi.

"I'm not telling," said White and then went on to explain that he didn't know the inspector was a policeman. The cadi sentenced him to serve six months in Fort Saskatchewan jail.

Pleading guilty to a charge of forgery, Rudolph Lutz was sentenced to serve three years in Prince Albert penitentiary. "This is merely a case of finding a suitable method of saving the public more trouble," said the cadi as he passed sentence on Lutz, who boasts five pervious convictions on similar offenses.

Evidence given was that Lutz had raised a grain check from $1.74 to $101.74.

James Curtis pleaded guilty to one charge of operating an automobile which had not been registered for the current year, one of having license plates on an auto other than the one for which they had been issued, and to a third of not having a rear license plate. He was fined $6 on the first charge, $10 on the second, $1 on the third with one set of costs. Sergeant Ed. Watson gave evidence against Curtis.

Pleading guilty to a charge of negligent driving, R. Johnson was ordered to pay a fine of $15 and costs. His driver's license will be suspended.

Three dollars and costs was the penalty imposed by the court on William Utendale who pleaded guilty to a charge of failing to have proper brakes on his motor vehicle. James Forde was assessed $3 and costs on a similar charge.

Mackenzie Air Services reported Pilot Archie McMullen eastbound from Goldfields to Norite Bay. The Ford tri-motor chartered from United Air Services piloted by pilots Ted Field and Herb. Hobson, was reported at McMurray.

53,025 POUNDS 1-DAY CATCH OF WHITEFISH

Fishers At Lake Wabamun Set New Record Wednesday

Establishing what is believed to be a record for one day's catch, fishermen at Lake Wabamun on Wednesday last, December 8, caught a total of 53,025 pounds of dressed whitefish, according to reports filed with the provincial fish and game branch.

A total of 1200 permits was granted, this being in excess of the number granted for the corresponding day's fishing of December, 1936.

GALA AFFAIR

With such a large number engaged in fishing for the one day, the lake presented a gala appearance as the boats and other conveyances appeared on the surface. Good humor prevailed on all sides, it is reported.

Some fishermen reported that the lake was muddy, and the fact that it was covered with snow had militated against what would have been an even larger catch.

OFFICIAL VISITS

George M. Spargo, director of fisheries, visited Lake Wabamun for the day, and expressed himself as being satisfied with the results obtained.

He stated that most of the fish caught already had been shipped, with New York and Chicago as the principal markets.

Bees In His Bonnet

Henry Brown, one of the apiarists (Rite name for bee-keepers) now in convention at Washington, D.C., gives a demonstration of his affection for bees and their affection for him (they're his honeys) for the benefit of the camera. He hails from Cape May, N.J. Incidentally, some medical authorities say that bee stings are helpful in the treatment of arthritis. But arthritis can't be as bad as all that.

CITIES' REPORT NOW COMPLETED FOR COMMISSION

Copy of the brief on taxation and other phases of municipal administration which will be considered by the royal commission on Dominion-provincial relations when it sits in Edmonton early next year will be forwarded to the commission's headquarters at Toronto for preliminary study, it was reported at city hall Friday.

This brief contains the joint submissions of the larger Alberta cities, and places particular emphasis on the amount of taxation and social services now carried by the cities. Purpose of the commission's Dominion-wide survey is to establish a sounder economic relationship between the federal, provincial and municipal governments.

J. J. Duggan, of Edmonton, has been working on the municipal brief for several months.

A Thrilling Sight Awaits You Saturday Night

Three Thousand Colored Lights Will Twinkle When Mayor J. W. Fry Touches An Electric Button

TO brighten up the two main thoroughfares of your city and keep alive the age-old custom of making others happy by giving gifts at Christmas time . . . an enterprising committee of business men have, for several weeks, been working on Edmonton's two-mile arcade of colored lights. At 7:30 Saturday night His Worship Mayor Fry, on the balcony of the Selkirk Hotel, will touch an electric button and thousands of multi-colored lights will twinkle on Jasper Avenue from 109th Street to 99th Street, and on 101 Street, from Macdonald Drive to 104th Avenue.

That the citizens of Edmonton will turn out en masse Saturday night to express their appreciation of this spectacular display, which has cost retail and wholesale houses, manufacturers and other institutions, nearly $3,000, may be safely predicted.

The occasion also marks the opening of the gift shopping season and announces the fact that Edmonton Stores will be open Saturday night until 10 o'clock.

8-Tube Minerva with the Famous Movie Dial

The only 8-tube radio with the "Movie Dial" plus such outstanding features as:

- Pull three-band tuning with guaranteed foreign reception.
- Visual volume and tone control.
- Electric tuning eye.
- Automatic volume control.
- Accoustically designed sound control.

Compare these features with those of much higher priced radios—then remember that this set has the famous "Movie Dial" exclusive to EATON'S in Canada. With it you forget all about meters, kilocycles and wave-lengths—the "Movie Dial" shows on a screen the call-letters, city and wave-length of the station to which you are listening.

Your present radio or phonograph accepted as part payment. Choose now for Christmas.
